SNACKTIME — A bunch of grapes rates high with Baby for an afternoon snack as offered by Hans Nawrath and his wife. The deer enjoys most table food and is especially fond of rice.

FOUND ABANDONED

Human-Loving Fawn Becomes A Fairfax Household Member

By BONNIE BARD

A sloe-eyed fawn, who thinks like a dog and loves everything human, is very much "at home" with his foster family in Fairfax.

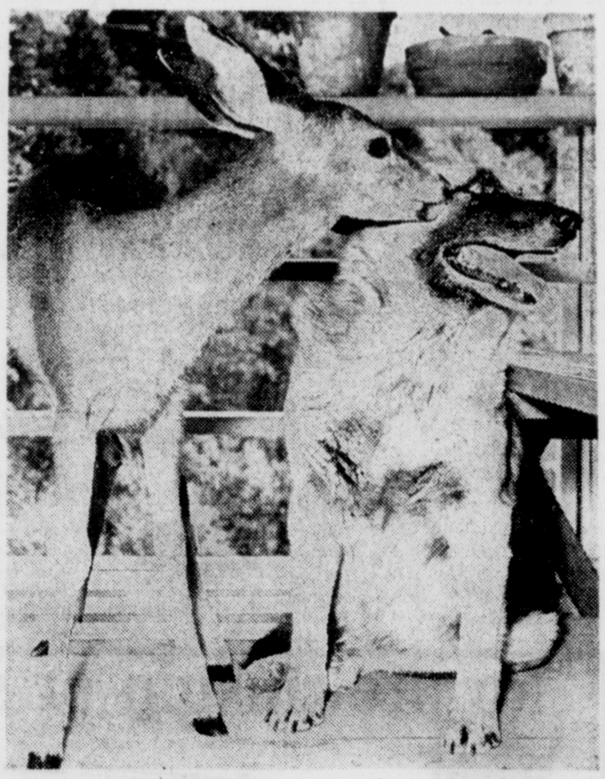
The Hans Nawrath family, 620 Bolinas Road, has also adjusted to the phenomenon of having a five-month-old buck around the house and says, "He's been so entertaining with all his silly antics, we've been taking film of him as we've watched him grow and mature."

Found along the side of the road, not more than a few hours old, they took him in when it was certain his mother had abandoned him.

"He was so cute — all legs and shiny fur," said Mrs. Nawrath. "Heidi, our 10-year-old German shepherd, filled in for his mother, cleaning him up and taking care of him as if he were her own. She's never had pups, but is very maternal — she even raised our cat, Kiki."

The first few days were tense when he refused to drink the milk provided in a baby bottle. "We tried formulas for human babies, sugar water and even milk for orphaned calves, but he'd take none of it," she says. The saving suggestion of buttermilk came from the Louise A. Boyd Natural History Museum of San Rafael.

"Because he has so many stomachs, we had to take turns getting up in the middle of the night to see he was fed every three or four hours," Nawrath said, adding his fellow mechanics at work in San Francisco teased him about getting up earlier to warm the baby's bottle before leaving for the job.



AFFECTIONATE PAIR—Baby showers kisses on his friend, Heidi, who guided him through the first few weeks of his life. The young buck shared the doghouse when a fawn, but has been "evicted" by Heidi because of the cramped situation. (Independent-Journal photos)

Baby, as he's become known, shares Heidi's dog food and even chews her bones, but also enjoys fruit and vegetables left over from the family table.

"We think he thinks he's a dog, because he tries to act just like Heidi," Mrs. Nawrath said. "He lies on the front porch with her and comes when we call him — just like a dog."

"He expects all dogs to be as friendly as Heidi, but has learned otherwise," she says. "Once I saw him come tearing home with two dogs in hot pursuit. When Heidi saw his predicament, she went to his rescue completely surprising the other dogs who expected her to join in the chase."

"Traffic comes to a standstill on Bolinas Road when we take all our pets for a walk," Heidi, Baby and Kiki, following Indian style, she said.

"He's had little to do with other deer, although there are quite a few in the woods around us," Mrs. Nawrath said. "One day as we were sitting in the woods, a buck with two does appeared and he began bucking and prancing all around to get their attention, but they just glared at him as if to say 'What's this younger generation coming to?' He came running back to me and began drinking from his bottle to cover his rejection."

Despite this rebuff, the Nawraths believe he will soon begin to notice does. Nawrath days, "We've watched his spots disappear almost overnight and noticed his horns beginning to sprout last week, so expect he'll leave us this winter for mating season, but we hope he'll return and maybe even bring his family with him."

A converted hunter, he says, "Now that I've known Baby, I could never shoot another deer. Why, we won't even eat the venison that's in our freezer."

QUENTIN INMATE FATALLY STABBED

Raid Of Revenge Against 'Mexican Mafia' Leaves Eight Other Prisoners Wounded

A raid of revenge against the "Mexican Mafia" erupted at San Quentin Prison yesterday afternoon, leaving one man dead and eight stabbed.

The foray by a group of Mexican-American prisoners, who reportedly had been pushed around by the so-called mafia, came less than a day after two other inmates were stabbed.

Stabbed to death in the attack at 1:45 p.m. was Archie Gallego, 25, a suspect in the Saturday stabbings.

Seriously wounded was Ramon Amado, 37, a convicted robber from Los Angeles County.

Seven other men, three from the "Mexican Mafia" and four bystanders, suffered lesser wounds and were treated at the prison hospital, reported Warden Louis S. Nelson.

Attacks occurred in the South Cell Block, the East Cell Block and the Upper Yard before they were halted by a single shot from a guard, said Warden Nelson.

All inmates involved were Mexican-Americans, the warden explained.

There is a group of Mexican-American inmates, about 30, known as the "Mexican Mafia," he said. They harass Mexican-Americans from smaller cities, who don't belong to any gang, he said.

Most of the mafia group is confined, but there were about eight out among the general prison population.

Saturday when two Mexican-Americans were stabbed, the small-city unattached Mexicans apparently "made up their minds they were going to put the Mexican Mafia out of business," the warden said.

After the fighting, guards found homemade knives, pieces of metal and a scissor-half and all inmates were confined until the search for weapons was completed.

Prison officials today were continuing their investigation in-

Webb Will Retire As Space Director

WASHINGTON (AP) — James E. Webb announced today he is retiring as administrator of the nation's space program next month at a time when, he said, the United States still is in second place in the field of space operations with a program that "will not bring parity" with the Russians.

But Webb told reporters at the White House his decision to retire in no way reflected any dissent with the amount of money the U.S. space program is getting. Space has felt the economy pruning knife along with many other programs.

Webb, talking with reporters after calling on President Johnson, said the chief executive is naming the deputy director of National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Dr. Thomas Paine, to be acting administrator after Oct. 7.

Paine was put in the second spot in NASA about six months ago and Webb lauded highly Paine's qualifications to direct the agency. He formerly was with the General Electric Co.

Under questioning, Webb did not choose to say whether or not the U.S. target of putting a man on the moon by 1970 was going to be met.

"I think this will be clearer in several months," he said.

But Webb said the United States is second to Russia in developing big booster rockets and big space capsules. The United States never was able to catch up in those fields, Webb said.

Asked whether there was any point when he thought this country's space program reached a parity with that of the Russians, Webb replied that he thought it had done so 2 and one-half or 3 years ago, except with respect to the large booster and large spacecraft.

"They are still increasing their rate," he said, "while we are reducing to one-half or two-thirds of the previous program."

Chrysler Hikes Price Average $84 A Car

DETROIT (UPI) — Chrysler Corp. today announced price increases averaging $84 per car, weighted for sales volume, on its 1969 cars.

The increase does not include the cost of new head restraints which will be compulsory safety equipment beginning Jan. 1, 1969.

The 1969 price list announced by Chrysler showed an individual price schedule ranging from a decrease of $66 for the Barracuda fastback to an increase of $164 on the Chrysler Town and Country two-seat wagon.

However, the latter increase included disc brakes which were optional in 1968. The cost of this as an option is $48.

John J. Riccardo, Chrysler group vice president for U.S. and Canadian automotive, said the price increases averaged 2.9 per cent for 1969 models compared to 1968 models.

He said the prices of options were increased by about the same amount.

Chrysler was the first of the four major U.S. auto producers to announce its 1969 prices. United Press International estimated two weeks ago that 1969 car prices would average about $100 per car, or about 3 per cent, higher.

That estimate included the cost of the head restraints. Chrysler's average $84 increase, plus $25 for head restraints, would amount to $109.

Changes in the 1969 model new car warranty policies also were announced by Chrysler.

Instead of the former five year, 50,000 mile warranty on the power train, transferrable to a second and third owner, the company will confine it to the original retail buyer. Instead of the two-year, 24,000 mile warranty on the rest of the car, the company said the new overall warranty would be reduced to one year and 12,000 miles.

Head restraints, which Chrysler will install on all cars manufactured after Jan. 1, 1969, will cost $25 a pair as an option. That is a reduction from $41, as the price of the 1968 head-rest option.

Salazar Suffers New Blood Clot

LISBON, Portugal (UPI)—Portuguese Premier Antonio Salazar, 79, suffered a new blood clot crisis today, nine days after undergoing surgery for removal of a similar clot in the head.

Official sources said the president, who has ruled Portugal since 1932, was stricken around midday.

President Adm. Americao Thomaz, members of the government and other officials went immediately to the Red Cross Hospital outside Lisbon where Salazar was operated on Sept. 7 for a blood clot caused by a fall.

LBJ Aides Decline Fortas Testimony

Asserting Executive Privilege

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Johnson administration officials declined today to testify at Senate hearings on Abe Fortas' nomination to be Supreme Court chief justice, asserting executive privilege.

They took the position that under this doctrine, which is based on the confidential nature of conferences within the executive branch of the government, it would be improper for them to give testimony.

Similar letters were sent to Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., of the Senate Judiciary Committee by Undersecretary of the Treasury Joseph W. Barr and by W. Devier Pierson, associated special counsel to President Johnson.

IN RECORD

Their letters were placed in the record shortly before Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., testified that Barr had told him after an appropriations committee meeting on May 27 that Pierson and Fortas had cleared an appropriations bill amendment to provide Secret Service protection for presidential candidates.

One of the issues raised by opponents of Johnson's nomination of Fortas to succeed Chief Justice Earl Warren is that he has participated in executive and legislative affairs since becoming a member of the court in 1965.

DECLINES TO RETURN

Allott told the committee he had on occasion to doubt Barr's veracity and therefore concluded that "Justice Fortas had indeed been involved in the formulation of this legislative amendment."

Earlier Fortas himself had declined to return for further interrogation and Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford asked to be excused from appearing as a witness.

This left Allott as the only remaining witness before a scheduled vote Tuesday on the Fortas nomination, which has been stalled in the committee since

Transplant Baby Dies

HOUSTON (UPI)—A 2-month-old girl who received the transplanted heart and lungs of another infant yesterday died today despite desperate efforts by doctors to revive her.

A spokesman at St. Luke's Texas Children's Hospital said little Debra Lynn Lee suffered a cardiac arrest and died at 11:40 a.m. EDT.

The baby was breathing with the aid of a respirator at the time. Doctors could not restart her new heart after it stopped beating.

Debra Lee received the heart and both lungs of a 1-day-old baby girl born with a fatal brain defect—the first time all three organs had been transplanted together.

AIR BASE FUSS

Shipment Orders Held Retaliatory

LT. HUGH SMITH
Coincidental transfer?

A Hamilton Air Force Base officer, who claims he is being shipped overseas because of his peace activities, took his superiors to court today.

Lt. Hugh Smith of the 349th Military Air Wing, composed of reservists, filed for a writ of habeas corpus in federal Ninth District Court in San Francisco.

Through his attorney, Lloyd E. McMurray of San Francisco, the reserve lieutenant seeks an injunction to stop the military from shipping him to Formosa Sept. 30.

PEACE MARCH

Lieutenant Smith and two airmen, also from the wing, claimed Saturday that the Air Force is shipping them overseas because they are helping to organize a "GI and Vets March of Peace" from the Panhandle of Golden Gate Park to San Francisco's Civic Center Oct. 2.

Joining Smith in the press conference protest were Airmen Michael Locks and John Bright, who said they are being transferred to Hill Air Force Base, Utah, in time to get them out of the Bay Area before the march.

Smith said today he doesn't know if the Air Force will let him attend a hearing on his writ, scheduled for Wednesday.

CAN GET LEAVE

Capt. Larry Hannon of the base information office said today that Smith will not be given time off to attend the hearing, but that he could get the day off if he applied for and was granted his accrued leave.

Lieutenant Smith gained public attention Aug. 1, when he announced plans for a union of servicemen.

The reserve officer termed the Air Force action, placing him on orders to Formosa, as "retaliatory".

Maj. William Bakkeby, Sunday duty officer at the base, said Smith was notified of his transfer July 15, but was not shipped out because he was placed under investigation for security reasons.

The investigation is now com-

Release Due For Six Navy Air Squadrons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six Naval Air Reserve squadrons, including a Bay Area unit, called to active duty after the USS Pueblo was seized last January will be released, probably by Nov. 1, the Pentagon said today.

At the same time, the Air Force disclosed that it is considering plans to return some 14,200 other Air National Guard and Air Force Reserve members to civilian life.

The six Navy squadrons include 600 officers and men. They, plus the Air Force men, were called up shortly after the electronic surveillance ship Pueblo was seized off North Korea on Jan. 23.

U.S. representatives have held 20 meetings with the North Koreans at the truce village of Panmunjom in an effort to secure the release of the 82 surviving Pueblo crewmen. They and the ship are still in the North Koreans' hands.

The Air Force stopped short of promising when its men would be released. It said its reserve units are needed at the moment, but it is "analyzing the most orderly methods of effecting their release when operational commitments will permit." Under the law, reservists cannot be kept on active duty more than two years.

The Navy's announcement was the second it has made involving reservists within a week. On Friday it announced early releases for 30,000 Navy men who were serving two-year active duty tours under a special reserve program.

Its announcement today promised quick action.

Another Outdoor Ban On Burning

All types of outdoor burning except barbecues have been banned in Marin County until further notice, according to county Fire Chief Louis J. Bloom.

Northeast winds up to 45 miles per hour on Mount Tamalpais and temperatures expected in the 90s today and the 100s tomorrow are contributing to critical fire weather, he said.

The humidity is also dropping, Chief Bloom said.

The California Division of Forestry has placed a ban on burning in Marin and six other counties, Napa, Solano, Lake, Yolo, Colusa and Sonoma, he reported.

The ban started at 9 a.m. today, he said.

Nothing Much New Shown in Daley's TV Version

CHICAGO (AP) — A program presenting Chicago's official version of disorders during the Democratic National Convention produced scant new information and showed little of police clashes with demonstrators, critics contend.

Leaders of the peace demonstrators charged last night after the television and radio broadcast that the city had failed to prove its charge that the protesters planned to discredit the government.

However, Robert J. O'Rourke, a Chicago alderman and Republican candidate for state's attorney, said the program "clearly documented how the police crushed a well organized plan for insurrection."

Mayor Richard J. Daley, a Democrat, ordered the program produced because he said telecasts during convention week presented a one-sided account of the street violence.

The one-hour show, titled "What Trees Do They Plant?" and subtitled "Strategy of a Confrontation," was broadcast by more than 140 television stations across the country.

The show concentrated on comments from police officials and previously televised interviews with demonstration leaders.

Many of the film clips depicting the week-long confrontation between police and protesters were shot from long range.

David Dellinger, 50, chairman of the National Mobilization Committee an umbrella group for demonstrators, said city officials "failed to build a case to justify either the extreme violence of the police . . . or to substantiate their reckless charges."

The program showed little of the bloodiest conflict, the club-swinging violence that took place Aug. 28 in front of the Conrad Hilton Hotel.

As scenes from the 18-minute confrontation flashed on the screen, the narrator observed, "not a shot was fired, no one was killed and few spent even a night in a hospital."

Drath Party Is Slated Friday

A Tahitian Moon Cruise on San Francisco Bay, benefitting the campaign of congressional candidate Phil Drath of San Rafael, will be held Friday.

The cruise, leaving Pier 43½ in San Francisco at 8 p.m. and from the Windjammer in Tiburon at 8:30 p.m., will include an exhibition of Tahitian dancing and drumming and instructions in the Tahitian dance.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Third Negro Gets General's Star

BINH CHANH, Vietnam (AP)—America's third Negro general says the Army has made "unbelievable" progress toward eliminating segregation.

The Army is not perfect, Brig. Gen. Frederic Ellis Davison told newsmen, but "I believe the opportunity is there. It isn't equal yet, but it's equalizing."

DAVISON

Davison, who led an all-Negro infantry company in World War II, stood at attention yesterday while the U.S. commander in Vietnam, Gen. Creighton Abrams Jr., pinned a brigadier general's silver star onto his collar. He is the first Negro Army general to lead an infantry brigade in combat.

In a small ceremony in an old fishnet factory, the headquarters of Davison's 199th Light Infantry Brigade, Abrams said, "In my judgment I know of no officer more deserving."

On Population

PARIS (AP) — U.N. Secretary-General U Thant said today that population growth is one of the most critical and urgent problems of our times." He said enlightened public opinion could "contribute to a better understanding of the problem and its consequences and of how to meet it."

That was the closest he had come to the subject of artificial birth control since Pope Paul VI renewed the Roman Catholic ban on it in a July 29 encyclical.

Thant made his remarks in a speech prepared to open the International Nongovernmental Organizations Conference on Human Rights at the headquarters here of the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization.

Still Striking

NEW YORK (AP) — Teachers remained on strike today despite new state and city efforts to end a job security dispute and there were no classes for most of the city's 1.1 million public school pupils.

In the district where the trouble started, the Ocean Hill-Brownsville district of Brooklyn, eight schools opened with near-normal complements of teachers and pupils.

But most of the 55,000 members of the United Federation of Teachers stayed away from their schools after UFT President Albert Shanker told them yesterday that resumption of classes today was impossible.

Fight For Town

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Nigerian and Biafran forces are reported locked in heavy fighting for the town of Owerri — one of the last two left of the rebels — and casualties are believed high on both sides.

Troops returning from the front said the Nigerian 16th and 17th Brigades were encountering stiff resistance from seasoned secessionist soldiers.

Floods Severe

LONDON (AP) — Gales and torrential rain lashed southern England today, adding to the havoc caused by the worst floods in 15 years. The army moved in to help with relief and rescue work.

Road and rail services were distrupted over thousands of square miles from Kent in the east to Dorset in the west. Hundreds were homeless. Thousands of London commuters couldn't get to work.

Authorities kept anxious watch for higher tides along the east coast and the Thames Estuary, where northeast gales brought a new and more serious threat.

Border Deaths

TEL AVIV (AP) — Arab guerrillas slipped across the Jordan border and killed three Druze Arabs guarding a mineral plant south of the Dead Sea, the Israeli army reported today.

The three guards were found outside the plant, victims of machine-gun fire and a hand grenade, the army said. The plant at Mizpe Hameshar is in desolate hilly terrain 12 miles from the Jordan border.

About 30,000 Druze Arabs live in Israel and are considered loyal to the government. Though their religion is an offshoot of Mohammedanism, they are bitter enemies of the Moslem Arabs.

Lifts Siege

ATHENS (AP) — The Greek military regime today lifted the state of siege it imposed two weeks after its coup almost 17 months ago.

The cabinet decision, made on Sept. 10 and published today in the Government Gazette, was apparently intended to facilitate the voting in the Sept. 29 referendum on the new constitution prepared by the regime. The decision was made known just before the regime was to disclose the final draft of that proposed constitution.

The government decreee said, "The state of siege imposed on the country on May 5, 1967, has been rescinded" as well as the suspension of certain articles of the constitution.

The decree did not specify which articles were no longer suspended, but a reliable source said these included press censorship.

100 Injured In Train Collision

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — A Penn Central train traveling an estimated 80 miles per hour with 178 passengers aboard struck a derailed freight train yesterday injuring about 100 persons.

Six persons were hospitalized.

A railroad spokesman said the collision took place as the passenger train, headed from New York to Philadelphia at approximately 80 miles per hour, hit derailed cars of a freight train which had just left a Penn Central yard on an adjacent track.

The high speed locomotive lurched forward after the initial impact and came to rest on its side on the embankment along with the second car—an empty passenger car.

The remaining five cars remained precariously balanced on the track.

TRADE CENTER PEACE PAGODA IS DEDICATED

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A Peace Pagoda, termed a "Statue of Liberty of the West" has been dedicated at the Japanese Cultural and Trade Center.

Mayor Joseph L. Alioto called the towering tiered structure "a magnificent shrine.

"The heavens smile on this event today," he said. "This is a day that will live in glory."

The dedication attracted a crowd of 1,000, including a special delegation of dignitaries from Japan, which donated the shrine to the United States.

Woman Dies In Canada Train Crash

OAKVILLE, Ont. (AP) — A Toronto-bound Canadian National Railways train carrying 82 passengers from Sarnia derailed in heavy fog here today, killing one woman.

At least seven other passengers were taken to hospitals.

The six-car train derailed at a major thoroughfare in the Oakville industrial belt crushing several cars in a factory parking lot. The locomotive and two coaches overturned.

Freight and passenger traffic on the major line from Hamilton to Toronto was delayed. Government of Ontario Transit trains that share the double tracks from Toronto to Oakville were stopped at Clarkson, five miles east of here and passengers were bused to their destinations.

Coeducational Princeton Urged

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The roar of the Princeton tiger should be mingled with the meow of a feminine feline.

That's the advise of a committee of Princeton University faculty and administration members who asked themselves, their students and colleagues across the country whether the 222-year-old Ivy League school should admit women at the undergraduate level.

The report, made public yesterday and mailed out to the student body today, recommended that the university do so as quickly as possible.

"We have become convinced that . . . Princeton would be a better university if women were admitted to the undergraduate college."

The committee recommended the admission of at least 1,000 women, so that the girls would comprise "not less than 25 per cent of the undergraduate body."

Course On Russia Offered At Air Base

A three unit course in the government and politics of the Soviet Union will be offered at Hamilton Air Force Base by the San Francisco State College Extension Division from Sept. 23 through Nov. 13.

The course, taught by Donald Castleberry, will consist of 15 meetings on Mondays and Wednesdays, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Red Toll Heavy In New Drive

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese and U.S. forces dealt their enemies heavy casualties in fierce fighting yesterday and seized tons of stockpiled ammunition, including a rocket launcher and a large cache of rockets and mortars threatening Saigon.

Communiques reported 184 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese killed in two savage fights south of Da Nang and along the Cambodian border near the Duc Lap Special Forces camp. Another 169 enemy soldiers were reported killed in a dozen smaller skirmishes from the Mekong Delta to the demilitarized zone.

ALLIED DEATHS

Allied casualties were put at 44 dead, 109 wounded and 11 missing. South Vietnam forces were involved in the major fights and suffered the bulk of the allied casualties—33 dead, 70 wounded and 11 missing.

Ten miles south of Da Nang elite South Vietnamese rangers backed by armored personnel carriers, dive-bombers and helicopter gunships reported killing 114 Communist troops threatening South Vietnam's second largest city. The rangers suffered considerable losses, too, 17 killed and 41 wounded.

Enemy gunners sent five rounds of big Russian-made 122mm rockets slamming into the eastern part of Da Nang Sunday night.

NEAR BORDER

Farther south, South Vietnamese infantrymen guarding invasion corridors into Ban Me Thuot crashed into strong North Vietnamese forces four miles south of Duc Lap along the Cambodian border. The South Vietnamese said they killed 70 of the enemy, while government casualties were put at 12 dead, 11 missing and 24 wounded.

Hanoi Asks Thant Help On Bombings

PARIS (AP) — North Vietnam today called on Secretary-General U Thant of the United Nations to use his "prestige and influence" to end all American attacks on its territory.

Nguyen Thanh Le, spokesman for the Hanoi delegation at the Paris peace talks, made the statement during a one-night stopover here by Thant.

In his news conference Le apparently overlooked the fact that Thant has pressed the United States publicly and privately to halt all military action against the North as a first step toward peacemaking.

Le also elaborated on his government's demands for two initially separate sets of negotiations.

On one level there would be talks between North Vietnam and the United States, starting only after all military action against the North ceases.

On the other level there would be talks between the Americans and the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm in South Vietnam, on all matters affecting the southern part of the divided land.

New State Urban Agency Proposed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A report by the state office of planning suggests a new state agency be formed to cope with a burgeoning population and its demands for land, housing, resources and jobs.

An example of the problems facing the state, the report says, is a prediction that the combined populations of Los Angeles, San Francisco and San Diego by 1980 will increase by 10 million persons. The entire state's population now is just under 19.8 million.

"If California is to determine its own destiny and shape its own growth patterns," the report says, "it must do so consciously."

In submitting the report to the legislature, Gov. Ronald Reagan has urged that the recommendations be studied and supported "so that the state can proceed in an orderly manner in planning and developing the most effective use of our total resources."

The report recommends that an Urban Development Law Review Commission be established and "charged with responsibility for comprehensive review of all laws affecting urban growth and development in the state."

On problems in growing cities, the report said, "Perhaps the single most challenging problem of urban life is the need to create new revived central cores in our metropolitan areas."

State, federal and local governments, plus the private sector, should play key roles in planning for the future, the study said. It added that functions of various levels of government in growth and development should be spelled out more clearly.

The report contains more than 100 general recommendations for dealing with areas ranging from conservation of natural resources to education for minority groups.

African Nod Gives U.N. Post To Woman

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The election of Miss Angie Brooks, Liberian undersecretary of state, as president of the 1969 General Assembly was virtually assured today when she received the endorsement of African chiefs of state in Algiers.

Miss Brooks, veteran U.N. diplomat, would thus become the second woman to head the assembly. Mrs. Vijayalakshmi Pandit of India served as president in 1953.

Guatemala's foreign minister, Emilio Arenales Catalan, already has been agreed upon as president of the 23rd session of the assembly, which opens Sept. 24, and is expected to be elected without opposition.

Under the assembly's system of regional rotation, the presidency is due to go to an African in 1969. The action of the African chiefs of state resolved a contest among Liberia, Uganda and Morocco for the backing of the African bloc.

It is customary for th assembly to accept the candidate of the bloc concerned when its turn comes for the presidency.

Soviets Launch New Satellite

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union today launched Cosmos 241, an unmanned satellite designed for some unspecified space mission.

A brief official announcement said instruments aboard the craft were functioning normally. Details were kept secret.

It was the second launching in two days. Yesterday Zond 5 was sent off on an unidentified task in outer space after being first put into a "parking orbit" around the earth.

Rafferty Hits Watson Initiative

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The property tax initiative measure sponsored by Los Angeles County Assessor Philip Watson has come under fire from two more sources.

The state superintendent of public instruction, Dr. Max Rafferty, and the state Board of Education have joined in taking a strong stand against passage of the initiative.

The measure, called the Watson Plan, would place a limit of one per cent on the use of property taxes for the support of public schools.

Rafferty, republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, said the initiative was "very dangerous" and should be defeated.

Rafferty was joined in his criticism by board president Howard Day. Day said the amendment, which will appear on the Nov. 5 general election ballot as proposition 9, would be "disastrous" to public education in California.

Harry Fosdick, assistant executive secretary of the California Teachers Assn., also warned against passage of the initiative. Fosdick said the measure would be "the most devistating act for public education to come along in years."

Fosdick said the Watson Plan promised lower property taxes but was in fact "false economy," because it would result in as much as a 12 per cent sales tax increase and a 300 per cent in the state income tax to make up for the loss in property tax revenue for schools.

Ray May Not Testify At Trial

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — James Earl Ray, who is charged with murdering Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., may never testify in his own defense.

Arthur Hanes Sr., Birmingham attorney who is chief defense counsel, said the decision to put Ray on the stand or keep him off may not be made until "the moment the prosecution rests its case and the judge tells me to call my first witness.

"That's when I'll have to decide, because under Tennessee law the defense must call as its first witness the defendant himself," if he is to be called.

Zoo Admission Charge Considered

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The city's recreation and park commission will hold a hearing Oct. 3 on whether to charge admission fees at the San Francisco Zoo.

Commissioners have decided that the haring will consider whether to charge 50 cents for all persons between 16 and 65. Those under 16 or older than 65 would get in free. In addition there would be one free day weekly for everybody.

Denture Adhesive From Saliva?

PHOENIX, Ariz. — A new denture powder called Super-Dent converts mouth saliva into a super-holding denture adhesive. Although used like regular powders, when Super-Dent combines with mouth moisture it forms a new type adhesive. This adhesive literally defies gravity as it holds dentures in. Eating any food has almost no effect on its holding power, yet Super-Dent is safe and gentle to dentures and gums. Super-Dent powder is available at all drug counters.

plete. Smith has been given security clearance and he can now become personnel services officer with the 6217 Combat Support Group in Taiwan, the major said.

All three men were designated surplus personnel after their reserve wing was called to active duty in January, officers said.

Locks and Wright, scheduled for transfer this week, worked in the wing personnel section, whose functions are to be assumed by a consolidated base personnel office this week, according to Maj. Donald Brill, information officer.

More than 150 men of the wing have been shipped out in the past 30 days because they are surplus to the unit's needs, Major Brill said.

"Locks and Bright are in that group now surplus and they knew they would be surplus, and they are nearly the last to go," he said.

Smith complained that the Air Force has not given him the customary 30 to 60 days notice before transfer because he has been helping organize the war protest march.

"The Air Force thinks they can stifle the leadership of the march, but the march will go on," Smith said.

He said at least 500 military men will join the march, even if he is not there.

Leaflets circulated at Hamilton and other bases in the Bay Area Thursday called on servicemen to march "to defend the GI's right to oppose the Vietnam War," Smith said.

He quoted the leaflets as reading: "In times of haphazard and brutal force, in an era of nameless wars, let the ones who must die for peace, wage peace also."

to the incidents and had not yet taken any action against any of the suspects.

Gallego, who was sent to San Quentin from Kern County for car theft, was serving three years to life for possession of an illegal weapon at prison.

Saturday Hector Padilla, 22, of San Jose, was stabbed in the chest, left forearm and left hand, and his cellmate Manuel Romero, 22, of Los Angeles, was stabbed in the chest, while they were returning to their cells at the 3:20 p.m. lockup.

Both were reported in good condition today by prison hospital officials.

Padilla is serving a five year to life sentence on two counts of second-degree murder, one count of assault to commit murder and burglary.

Romero is serving two five-year to life sentences on two counts of robbery.

Names of the other wounded men were not released by the prison because their injuries were not considered serious enough to warrant notifying their relatives, prison officials said.

Corte Madera To View Permanent Synanon Policy

The Corte Madera Town Council at 7:30 p.m. today is scheduled to consider a planning commission recommendations that an emergency measure prevent Synanon Foundation from moving into Corte Madera be made permanent.

The council on March 4, passed an interim ordinance to make certain that Synanon, then planning to buy the Uplands Apartments in East Corte Madera, request a use permit. The ordinance has been extended until March 1969, but the commission on Sept. 9 urged permanent action.

The council also is scheduled to hold an 8 p.m. public hearing on an appeal by Blumenfeld Theaters to permit a ratio of one parking space for each six seats in a proposed theater at 41 Tamal Vista Boulevard. Requirements is one space for each four seats. The planning commission denied the variance request.

are three attack aircraft squadrons and three fighter squadrons.

They are VA831 from New York; VF661 from Washington, D.C.; VF931 from Willow Grove, Pa.; VA776 from Los Alamitos, Calif.; VA873 from Alameda, Calif.; and VF703 from Dallas, Tex.

The office of Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., announced the release of the reservists at about the same time it was announced at the Pentagon.

Schweiker has called the call-up of the Navy and Air Force reservists an "outrageous sham" and said the Defense Department used North Korea's seizure of the Pueblo as an "excuse to gain extra manpower."

(The 1,000 men of the 349th Military Airlift Wing at Hamilton Air Force Base who were recalled to active duty in January, are performing necessary functions for the Air Force, and therefore, will not be released immediately, according to word received today from the office of the Secretary of the Air Force.

(They were called up for a period of two years, but the Air Force communique said that the Air Force is studying methods of releasing them when they are not needed in the continuation of the war.)

Personnel Panel Chairman Resigns

Margaret M. Lucas, chairman of the Marin County Personnel Commission, resigned Friday in a letter to the board of supervisors.

She said she cannot devote sufficient attention to the commission because of other demands on her time.

Miss Lucas has been a member of the five-member commission for 10 years. She is personnel supervisor for the Bechtel Corp.

Supervisors will discuss a successor to Miss Lucas tomorrow.

Hub Trustees Will Study Bond Backing

The possible endorsement by the San Anselmo School District board of the proposed $10.9 million bond issue by the Tamalpais Union High School District is scheduled for the San Anselmo board at its 7:30 p.m. meeting tomorrow in the Red Hill Intermediate School library.

The San Anselmo board will also hear a report by Supt. Stephen L. Parodi of a district student enrollment of 2,142 this year.

Downtown Plan Rec Links On Agenda

Proposals to modify Tiburon's downtown plan to deal more specifically with parks and recreation aspects will be discussed by the Tiburon Parks and Recreation Commission at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

Priorities for the city council's acquisition program, the parks and recreation commission's program and a trails plan will also be discussed.

Park Report Due

Preliminary discussions with representatives of the Sausalito Recreation Commission on a proposed park at Bayside School will be reported by a board member at a meeting of the Sausalito School District board today at 8 p.m. in the district office.

FORTAS

Johnson submitted it to the Senate on June 26.

Subpoenas were issued over the weekend for two additional witnesses, former White House speechwriter Richard Goodwin and Daniel Yergin, author of an article in the July 22 issue of New York magazine.

However, committee counsel John Holleman said the committee has not yet been able to serve either subpoena.

The committee met briefly in closed session after hearing Allott, but Eastland said afterward no action was taken to issue subpoenas or otherwise try to force the testimony of administration witnesses who declined to appear.

Eastland said that hearings will be continued later today, or even tomorrow morning before the vote, if subpoenas are served in time on Goodwin and Yergin.

Barr's letter to Eastland said he understood the committee wanted his testimony concerning the development of legislation authorizing Secret Service protection for presidential candidates which was enacted on June 6 after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

"The legislation had been in preparation for some time as a cooperative effort of the appropriations committee and the executive branch," Barr said. "In the development of this legislation, I participated in meetings with representatives of the White House and discussed the matter directly with the President."

"Based on long standing precedents," Barr added, "it would be improper for me under these circumstances to give testimony before a congressional committee concerning such meetings and discussions."

Pierson wrote a similar letter. He said it was established that "members of the President's immediate staff shall not appear before congressional committee to testify with respect to the performance of their duties on behalf of the President."

Allott testified that Barr told him at the May 27 appropriations committee meeting that he had been on the telephone to the White House and "this is the amendment they want . . . it has been gone over by Devier Pierson and Abe Fortas, they have cleared it."

Board To Study Special Problems

Three committees of the Marin County Board of Education will discuss problems of policies of county schools at separate meetings tonight in the county schools office.

The administrative services committee will meet at 7:30 and will review policies and procedures of the board and the superintendent's office. At 7 o'clock the special education committee will discuss space problems of classes for retarded and handicapped children.

The committee on educational services will also discuss classroom space problems at 8:30.

Final Hearing Set On Air Basin Plan

A final public hearing on the proposed formation of air basin boundaries, among them a nine-county Bay Area basin including Marin, will be held by the State Air Resources Board 9:30 a.m. Wednesday in room 711 of the Air Pollution Control District Building, 939 Ellis Street, San Francisco.

The board, after the boundaries are set, will establish air pollution standards for each basin. The board regulates pollution from both motor vehicles and stationary sources.

Crescent City Span Session Off

Plans by Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District directors to hold their next meeting Friday at Crescent City during the annual convention of the Redwood Empire Association have been canceled because a quorum could not attend, district secretary Helen Jack said today.

The board's next regular meeting will be 10:30 a.m. Sept. 27 in the administration building at the toll plaza.

OBITUARIES

Ernest G. Hacke Rites Held

Funeral for Ernest G. Hacke of Mill Valley was held today at Russell and Gooch, Mill Valley. Interment was at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

Hacke, 47, died Saturday afternoon apparently of a heart attack. He had collapsed while sailing in a race sponsored by the San Francisco Yacht Club in Belvedere and was pronounced dead on arrival at Marin General Hospital.

A native of Berlin, he and his wife, Erni, moved from Germany to California 11 years ago, and to Marin County nine years ago. They had lived at 191 Throckmorton Avenue since 1961.

Hacke was production manager for the Pebble Beach Sportswear Co. of San Francisco for 10 years.

He was an active member of the German Roundtable, a German civic and study group in San Francisco, and the San Francisco chapter of the Goethe Institute. He was also a sailing and hiking enthusiast.

He is survived by his wife, and by his mother in Berlin.

MARTIN KELLY

Martin William Kelly, 57, of Edgemont and Bayview ways, Inverness, a retired heavy equipment operator, died Saturday at the Presbyterian Medical Center, San Francisco, after a long illness.

A native of San Francisco, Kelly had worked in recent years for various firms in Marin. He was a member of Operating Engineers Local 3 of San Rafael.

Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Irene E. Kelly of Inverness and a son, Terrance G. Kelly of Sacramento.

Funeral will be at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Harry Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Inurnment will be private.

The family prefers contributions to the American Cancer Society.

WALTER DODGE

Walter Dodge of 117 La Goma Avenue, Mill Valley, died Friday at a local hospital following a short illness. He was 70.

The Marin County Coroner's office reported Dodge died of apparent natural causes. He was admitted to Marin General Hospital on Thursday with an undisclosed ailment, hospital spokesmen said.

He has no survivors.

Funeral arrangements are pending at Russell and Gooch in Mill Valley.

EVELYN FOLEY

Private funeral for Evelyn Miskel Foley, of 255 Channing Way, San Rafael, will be held tomorrow at Harry Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Mrs. Foley, a registered nurse, died Friday at a local hospital after a long illness at the age of 65.

A natige of Michigan, she had been a resident of California for 41 years and of Marin for 25 years.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Earlyne DiRusso of Carmichael, Sacramento County; a son, Hugh H. Foley of New York City, and three grandchildren.

Private burial will be at Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

CARL F. BREIDENSTEIN

Funeral for Carl F. Breidenstein of Kent Woodlands were held today at N. Gray and Co. Mortuary, San Francisco.

Breidenstein, 60, died Saturday in a San Francisco hospital after a brief illness.

A native of San Francisco, he lived in Marin for the past 20 years. He resided at 101 Diablo Drive.

Breidenstein was the general traffic manger of the California Packing Co. in San Francisco. He was with the firm for 41 years.

He was a member of the Transporation Club, San Francisco.

He is survived by his wife, Jane; two daughters, Carol and Nan Breidenstein, both at home, and a brother, Leonard Breidenstein of San Francisco.

His family asked that memorial contributions go to the Cancer Society.

J. A. BACCAGLIO

Requiem Mass for Joseph A. Baccaglio, Sonoma insurance and real estate man, was offered today at St. Francis Solano Church in Sonoma.

Baccaglio, 67, died Friday after he collapsed on a fishing trip with friends in Solano County.

A native of Novato, he had lived in Petaluma before moving to Sonoma about 35 years ago.

He was a member of the board of the Sonoma Valley Community Hospital and belonged to the Sonoma Valley Community Hospital and belonged to the Sonoma Valley Rotary Club.

Survivors are his wife, Margaret Baccaglio of Sonoma; a daughter, JoAnn Fowler of Fallbrook, San Diego County; two brothers, Egidio and Frank Baccaglio, both of Novato; two sisters, Anita Johnson of Chico, Butte County, and Edna Kriel of Greenbrae.

LOUIS ROTH

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Louis Roth, originator of the loose-fitting, casual "California look" in men's fashions, died yesterday at Garden Crest Convalescent Hospital. He was 85.

Roth had been active until recent months as chairman of the boards of Louis Roth & Co. of Los Angeles and its subsidiaries in Chicago, New York and Philadelphia.

His men's fashions, identified with Hollywood, were marked by broad-shoulders and soft folds for a casual, athletic appearance.

A native of Warsaw, Poland, Roth emigrated to New York at the age of 17. He came to Los Angeles on his honeymoon in 1911 and stayed. After a few months with other clothiers, he founded his own business.

Survivors include his son, Harry, president of Louis Roth & Co., two brothers, Abe Rothblatt of Beverly Hills and Jacob Rothblatt of New York, and a grandson, Michael Roth of Chicago, executive vice president of the Roth subsidiary there, Kuppenheimer Clothes.

Funeral services are scheduled for tomorrow at Hollywood Cemetery Chapel.

MARY LeJEUNESSE

Funeral for Mrs. Mary E. LeJeunesse, who died Friday at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital, will be in Detroit, Mich., at a date to be set.

Mrs. LeJeunesse, widow of Raymond J. LeJeunesse, died at the age of 76 after a long illness. Before being transferred to the base hospital, she had been confined to a convalescent hospital in San Rafeal.

Mrs. LeJeunesse was the mother of Lt. Col. Raymond M. LeJeunesse, who had been stationed at Hamilton, but moved to Oslo, Norway.

A native of Big Rapids, Mich., she had lived in California for six years and in Marin for 18 months.

Arrangements are being made by the Redwood Chapel Funeral Home in Novato.

HENRY BARNES

NEW YORK (AP) — Traffic Commissioner Henry A. Barnes, 61, who fought traffic jams and personal illness with the same determination, collapsed and died today in his office, the mayor's office announced.

"I'm too mean to quit," Barnes once said after he had been hospitalized seven times in less than two years with a variety of ailments, including heart trouble.

Barnes was appointed in 1962 by former Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner and was retained by Republican Mayor John V. Lindsay when he took office in 1966.

Barnes recovered from a siege of three heart attacks in 1963 and returned to the battle of fighting New York's traffic problems, but he was somewhat subdued.

"I've given up trying to take on the whole city," he said.

He came to New York with a reputation for cantankerousness and accomplishment in Flint, Mich., Denver, and Baltimore.

He called himself a "stupid country boy," but took on big city bureaucrats and politicians with a sure sense of public relations and made them like it.

"You can't be a nice guy and solve traffic," he said.

He ticketed double-parking doctors and diplomats, fought horn-honkers and noisy garbage collectors, changed street signals and signs and made streets one way.

EDWARD JOHNSTON

Requiem Mass for Edward A. Johnston, retired Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. employee, will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Anselm's Church, San Anselmo. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Johnston, 71, of 131 Crescent Road, San Anselmo, died Saturday at a local hospital following a lengthy illness.

A native of San Francisco, Johnston had lived in Marin for 33 years. He had been a PBX switchboard installer with the telephone company for 44 years when he retired six years ago.

He served in the Army in France in World War I and was a member of Veterans of World War I, Marin Barricks 550 and the American Legion, San Anselmo Post 179. He also belonged to the Telephone Pioneers of America in San Francisco.

Survivors are his wife, Rozella M. Johnston; a son, Edward A. Johnston Jr. of Imperial Valley, Imperial County; two stepdaughters, Mrs. Jacqueline Powell of San Leandro, and Mrs. Patricia Hayes of San Jose; two sisters, Mrs. Eva Risi and Mrs. Irma Nordman, both of San Francisco, and four grandchildren.

MARIE ULLSPERGER

Marie C. Ullsperger, 78, died yesterday at her home at Nazareth House, 245 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael.

A native of Nebraska, she had lived in California for 20 years and eight years in Marin County. She was the wife of the late Antone Ullsperger.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Clara J. Troik of Oakland and Mrs. Rose C. Bernard of Auburn, Neb., a sister, Mrs. Julia Schrieter of Hastings, Neb., and a brother, Paul Solko of Nebraska City, Neb.

Requiem Mass will be offered Wednesday at 10 a.m. at the Chapel of Nazareth House, San Rafael. Recitation of the rosary will be tomorrow at 7:30 p.m. at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Interment at St. Mary's Catholic Cemetery, Oakland.

ANGELA McGUSHIN

Requiem Mass for Angela McGushin, a resident of the Nazareth House, Terra Linda, was celebrated at 9:30 a.m. today at the chapel of the Nazareth House.

Miss McGushin, 72, died at a local hospital Saturday after a long illness. She was a retired secretary last employed at Fort Mason, San Francisco.

A native of San Francisco, Miss McGushin, had lived in California 30 years and in Marin 18 months.

Surviving are a sister, Marie C. McGushin of the Nazareth House.

Burial will be at Holy Cross Cemetery, Colma. Rosary was recited last night at the Harry Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Friends are invited to attend the funeral Wednesday, Sept. 18 at 10 a.m. at the Chapel of the Nazareth House, 245 Nova Albion Way, San Rafael, where a Mass of Requiem will be offered for the repose of her soul. Recitation of the Rosary at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Interment, St. Mary's Catholic Cemetery, Oakland. (9/16)

Race Committee Fall Report Due

What local residents can do to improve race relations will be the topic of the Mill Valley Community Relations Committee meeting at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour, 10 Old Mill Street, Mill Valley.

The committee's fall program will deal with community education and the schools, employment, housing and police-community relations, according to Rev. Murray Hammond, committee chairman. There will also be an opportunity for members to examine their own attitudes and to learn how to deal with prejudice, Hammond said.

Project 17 Rec Plans On Agenda

The Mill Valley City Council will review proposed plans for recreational facilities in the Middle School-Project 17 area at 8 p.m. today at city hall.

The council will also discuss proposed dog controls, recommendations of the street lights committee, a report on Saucelito Canal dredging and small craft harbor lease status and a request to increase the density of 73 acres of undeveloped Enchanted Knolls land.

Uses For Gnoss Field On Agenda

The possibility of instrument takeoffs and landings at Gnoss Field, Marin County, airport north of Novato, will be discussed by the Marin County Aviation Commission Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the planning commission chambers at Civic Center.

Airport Mgr. Francis E. Torr said he plans to contact Federal Aviation Administration officials to see how Gnoss Field would qualify for instrument flying. He will report his findings Wednesday.

Other items on the aviation commission agenda are: A wind study at Gnoss Field to determine whether a cross runway is needed; coordination on all aviation development between the aviation commission and various municipalities, and a suggestion that the county planning department handle the master planning of airports in the county.

Course Set On Negro's History

A course on the American Negro, described by its instructor as "a fill-in history for culturally deprived white people" will begin Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Tamalpais High School.

Mrs. Dee Schilling, who has a master's degree in history with emphasis on Negro history, will teach the course entitled the "Unknown American: A Study of the Afro-American in U.S. History."

The first quarter will examine the African roots of the Negro slave, the slave trade and Afro-American history through the revolutionary war.

The second quarter will be a study of the black man in the 19th and 20th centuries in America. And the third quarter will emphasize the Afro-American experience in recent years.

"Before the Mayflower" by Lerone Bennett and the "African Slave Trade" by Basil Davidson are books to be used in connection with the first quarter classes.

There also will be discussion and films during the two-hour sessions. The course is part of the adult education program at Tamalpais High School.

Social Security Rules Change For Disabled

Young disabled workers can now qualify for social security payments with less work credits than previously, according to Sally Anderson, district manager of the Social Security office in San Rafael.

Before February, 1968, a person needed five years of work under Social Security in the 10-year period before he became disabled, Miss Anderson said.

This requirement has been reduced for persons disabled before the age of 31, she explained. Now, if a person becomes disabled before the age of 24 he needs only one-and-a-half years of work in the three-year period preceding disability.

If the disability occurs between the ages of 24 and 31, the applicants need only one-half of the work time between the age of 21 and the time he became disabled, Miss Anderson said.

String Instrument Workshop To Resume

Weekly rehearsals of the Workshop for Strings will resume Friday from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the San Rafael High School music room under the direction of Robert L. Jacobson of Novato.

The Marin Symphony Guild, sponsor of the workshop, invites young string students at elementary school level with at least two years of instrumental instruction to enroll in the group, which provides training in orchestral performance. Registration will take place at the first rehearsal.

Pleads Innocent

James Michael Dennis, 22, of San Anselmo, pleaded innocent Thursday in Marin Municipal Court to a charge of abusing his 2-year-old son Aug. 4 in San Anselmo. Jury trial was set for 1:30 p.m. Sept. 26.

Palace Court Called Landmark

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Sheraton-Palace Hotel's Palace Court dining room is a historic landmark, whether or not its owners like the idea.

The city planning commission has designated the court as a landmark despite objections by the owners who said the ruling could delay alterations or additions.

Owners also pointed out the court, built in 1909, has no historical connection with the famed pre-earthquake Palace Court.

Firm Ordered To Dump Diet Pills

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — A federal judge has directed a diet pill company to destroy all dosages containing both thyroid and digitalis ingredients.

U.S. District Judge Sarah T. Hughes also has ordered the Lanpar Co. of Dallas to stop the sale of digitalis in interstate commerce, recall literature dealing with such medication and observe certain labeling rules in the use of thyroid.

Food and Drug Administration agents have seized pills valued at $635,000 in the case. They are used in treating obesity.

Theft Of Two Cars Reported To Sheriff

Karla D. Vickers of 5E Circle Drive, Tiburon, reported to sheriff's deputies that her 1958 Ford had been stolen from the street in front of her apartment building between 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. Thursday.

The sheriff's department also reported that Leonard A. Miller of 299 Redwood Drive, Woodacre, had complained that his 1957 Chevrolet was taken from in front of his home between 7 p.m. Tuesday and 3 p.m. Wednesday.

More U.S. presidents were named James than anything else.

Bridge Crossings

Traffic on the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge reached a record seasonal high last month with 550,913 crossings, an increase of 8.9 per cent over August 1967's 506,028 crossings. There were 539,199 crossings during July 1968, the state Division of Bay Toll Crossings reported.

Bar Suggests Candidates

The Marin County Bar Association plans to submit "seven or eight names" to Gov. Ronald Reagan for consideration as the fifth superior court judge in Marin.

Warren Perry, association secretary, said Friday that the names were solicited in a vote of the membership and will be sent in confidence to the governor.

The association asked Reagan to defer naming the judge until he received its recommendations. Reagan has not indicated when the appointment will come.

Oakland Firm Low On 101 Widening

A low bid of $1,750,917 for converting Highway 101 to full freeway from San Quentin Wye to Manuel Freitas Parkway has been submitted by McGuire and Hester of Oakland, the state Division of Highways has reported.

The work consists of widening 2-1 miles of the route from four lanes to six, providing three lanes in each direction; constructing ramps at Mission Avenue and North San Pedro Road; constructing a pedestrian overcrossing; and widening the Lincoln Avenue undercrossing. McGuire and Hester's was the low of three bids.

Students Try Credit Option Courses

By MARY LEYDECKER

The "credit-no credit" grading system instituted on an optional basis at College of Marin this summer proved popular with students and instructors, who tried it, although admittedly some members of both groups didn't fully understand it.

There were 232 students who took part in the program of the 2,153 enrolled.

Dr. Louis H. Herkenhoff, acting president of the college, has sought to allay the fears of students who feel that such grades will hamper them in transferring to four-year colleges.

"At the present time, the credit-no credit option is mainly for students' use in courses not in their major field," he explained.

He sees the system as most useful in allowing students to experiment in new fields without penalty of poor grades or for students in remedial courses.

"Maybe the girl who is getting A's in English would like to try a science course but doesn't want to get a poor grade," he explained. "Or someone who is good in shop wants to learn more about English," was another example.

Under this system, the first option is with the instructor. He will decide whether to allow the credit-no credit grading in any or all of his classes.

Then each student has an option of whether he wants a letter grade or not. This decision must be made about midway through the semester, Herkenhoff explained, at the same point at which a student may drop a course without penalty.

"If a student would have received an F in the course, he simply gets no credit, as if he had never taken the class," he said. Students who would have received A's, B's, C's and D's gets credit for the number of units but no grades.

Herkenhoff went on to say that the new grading system is entirely in operation at the University of California at Santa Cruz and that students from there are now being accepted at other university campuses.

At the present time, however, grades in major subjects at least are necessary not only for transfer to most colleges but also for admission to graduate schools.

The credit-no credit system is somewhat different, too, from the "pass-fail" grading being tried this year in some San Rafael High School classes. There the subjects chosen are pretty much non-academic, such as typing, where colleges are not interested in students' grades, anyway.

Herkenhoff is hopeful that the credit-no credit system will focus attention on learning, not grades, and observations by most instructors this summer bore out his contention.

Only one reported that he thought cheating by students, especially, needed "the gun pointed at the head" threat of letter grades.

The credit-no credit grading is optional again this fall at the college, and Herkenhoff said that to what extent it will be used will not be known until the end of the semester.

Air Base Requests Bids On Projects

The Hamilton Air Force Base procurement office has issued a call for bids on five projects, all to be opened Sept. 23 at the base.

Bids were asked to paint the exteriors of family housing units, to be opened at 2 p.m.; to clean sanitary sewer mains in the Capehart family housing, to be opened at 2 p.m.; to remove and replace three pumps in buildings T-338 and T-339, to be opened at 3 p.m.; to sandblast paint and weatherstrip Building 522, to be opened at 3 p.m.; and for drainage control and creek cleaning to be opened at 10 a.m.

BRINGS FOUL CALL

Demo Aide Attacks 'Apartheid' Policies

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

The second echelon took over some of the presidential campaign in-fighting during the weekend with one candidate's aide charging "apartheid" policies and an opposite number calling foul.

Lawrence F. O'Brien, Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign manager and acting chairman of the Democratic National Committee, said in a television interview yesterday (Meet the Press-NBC), ". . . beyond the polls is the basic concern I have for this nation, whether it is a black militant or a white militant. It is intolerable and this nation where these two groups supposedly are poles apart fighting each other headon, they are traveling the same path and they are traveling the path in this nation, if this election comes about that way, to apartheid."

O'Brien referred to the forces backing Richard M. Nixon and those backing former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, the third party candidate. Both candidates have made "law and order" a major campaign topic.

O'Brien's statement brought a bitter rebuttal from Republican House Leader Melvin Laird.

"Desperate candidates and desperate campaign managers can be excused many things," Laird said. "But what Larry O'Brien did today on 'Meet the Press' is without a doubt the lowest campaign tactic I have had the misfortune of witnessing in my 20 years in politics."

At another point, O'Brien asked of his national audience "are you contemplating voting for Mr. Nixon or Mr. Wallace because of fear, hatred, bigotry? Because if you have that view, just remember, this nation will suffer for it."

Humphrey's public affairs man, Alvin Spivak, also reacted to Laird's remarks. "Apparently Mr. O'Brien hit right on target with his statements. Mr. Laird cannot cloud over the situation with wild charges of foul. If Mr. Laird claims to be an expert on low campaign tactics and irresponsibility, he need look no farther than the low road to which Mr. Nixon has assigned his sidekick, Spiro Agnew."

In other political developments:

Wallace — The third party candidate opened a campaign in Texas, Oklahoma and Missouri today after being attacked in his home state by labor which said union members stood to lose if Wallace was elected. Also yesterday Georgia's Democrat Gov. Lester Maddox said he would campaign.

Nixon — The former vice president claimed yesterday he was becoming the favorite of America's young people — not the revolutionary few who want to "tear down" the country but those who want to rebuild it. He hailed his support among the young while campaigning in Santa Barbara.

Humphrey — The Vice President has again advocated shipping supersonic arms to Israel. Addressing the convention of the Zionist Organization of America, Humphrey said, "Until permanent peace is achieved and the arms race ended, continued United States assistance to Israel, including supersonic planes such as Phantom jets, is justified." His remarks came following a report that the Johnson administration had decided against sending Phantoms to Israel.

Polls — The Gallup Poll reported yesterday that Nixon leads Humphrey 43 per cent to 31 and that Wallace has 19 per cent support. Is said Humphrey had gained some since August but faces a problem of Democratic voter defections.

A California State Poll, published by the Los Angeles Times, gave Nixon 43 per cent of the popular vote to 34 per cent for Humphrey and 7 per cent for Wallace.

The State Poll also showed 49 per cent of California voters prefer Democrat Allan Cranston and 30 per cent like Republican Max Rafferty for the U.S. Senate

Cranston received 28 per cent Republican support while 16 per cent of Rafferty's support came from Democrats.

The poll said many of the Republicans supporting Cranston had favored the man Rafferty beat in the Republican primary, U.S. Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel.

A New York Times survey indicated if the election were held today, Nixon would win 30 states with 346 electoral votes — well over the 270 needed for election — Humphrey would win 6 states with 42 votes and Wallace 8 states with 77 votes.

Theft Of Tires

The theft of two tires, valued at $50 to $60, from Collins Buick, 502 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, was reported Saturday by Donald Raymond Collins, police said.

Launching Ramp Permit Sought

The City of Petaluma has applied for an Army Corps of Engineers permit to perform dredging and construct a launching ramp on the Petaluma River east of Highway 101.

Objections to the proposed work may be submitted in triplicate to the U.S. Army Engineer District, San Francisco Corps of Engineers, 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco, prior to Oct. 12.

The corps said it will consider factors such as navigation, recreation, fish and wildlife conservation, water pollution, conservation of natural resources, aethetics and ecology in reviewing the application.

Exams Scheduled For Welfare Jobs

Statewide examinations to fill two county welfare posts, social service supervisor I, paying $519 to $1,020 per month month, and eligibility worker I, paying $325 to $554 per month, have been announced by the state Department of Social Welfare.

Sept. 27 is the final filing date for applications. Examination requirements and applications may be obtained by writing to the Merit System Examining Agency, 1217 H Street, Sacramento, 95814.

Baar Chooses Area Chairmen

Louis H. (Budd) Baar, candidate for Marin County supervisor in the Fourth District, today named area chairmen for his campaign against incumbent Supervisor Thomas T. Storer.

The East Marin general chairman of Baar's campaign is James Dougan of San Rafael, and general chairman in West Marin is Henry Hankins of Inverness.

Jean Bevans, Forest Knolls and Lagunitas; Mrs. Helen Gardner, San Geronimo and Woodacre; and Richard Osterman, Francis Rodgers, Mel Chiarenza and Wallace Marshall, all San Rafael.

Area chairmen for Corte Madera and Larkspur will be named shortly, Baar said.

Two U.S. presidents, Truman and Eisenhower, served in World War I.

Marin Family Safe In Iran

Members of a San Rafael family, whose safety and whereabouts during the devastating Iran earthquake two weeks ago were cloaked in silence, have been reported safe.

Mrs. George Davenport, 20 Scenic Avenue, received word yesterday of their safety from a daughter, Mrs. Doris Workman of San Jose, who had received a letter from her twin sister, Janice Bugbee.

"We're very relieved," Mrs. Davenport said, adding she expects to receive a letter from her daughter, Janice, within a few days.

Janice Bugbee and her husband, John, and their three children had flown to Iran several weeks ago where he is employed by the Shapour Drilling and Engineering Co. of Teheran.

Motel Remodel Plans Approved

The Novato Plan Review Committee has approved the plans of David Bellucci to remodel the Skylark Motel at 5613 Redwood Highway to add six units from the former bar and restaurant.

It also approved Friday the use permit for Glendale Homes to develop plans for 51 fourplex structures on 25 acres on the west side of Highway 101, south of Redwood Boulevard in the Scottsdale area.

A two-by-three-foot projecting sign was approved for Peppington Doggie Salon at 7410 Redwood Highway.

The committee asked for more plans from Jack D. Kinney before considering his request for a use permit for a 90-bed convalescent hospital on the south side of Hill Road between Tamalpais Avenue and Canyon Road.

Most young car thieves start your car the same way you do... with your keys.

Half the cars stolen last year had the keys left in the ignition. Or under the floor mat. Or on the visor.
More than half the car thieves were kids under 18. Kind of obvious, isn't it?
You don't have to be an old pro to steal a car...when the keys are in it.
Remember...young car thieves need your help. Don't give it to them.
Lock your car. Take your keys.

Lock your car. Take your keys.

Prague Will Push Ahead On Economy

PRAGUE (AP) — Czechoslovakia's Communist leadership emphasized plans today to move ahead with its new style of economic management despite criticism from the Soviet Union.

Thirteen prominent Czechoslovak economists in a published statement took sharp issue with Moscow's recent attack against Prof. Ota Sik, the Czechoslovak deputy premier who resigned under Soviet pressure.

13 CHARGES

The 13 disputed Soviet charges that the new management system developed by Sik and others aimed to switch the country to capitalism and threatened unemployment and foreign exploitation. Such accusations were carried Sept. 5 by the Soviet news agency Tass.

The rebuttal appeared in the Czechoslovak Communist party newspaper Rude Pravo despite Prague's new Soviet-dictated ban on news unfavorable to Russia and other Warsaw Pact powers that occupied Czechslovakia Aug. 20. This gave it official policy status.

Czechoslovak determination to continue with the new management system was underscored by a three-column box at the top of Rude Pravo's front page quoting a government statement upholding the new system.

RECEIVES BACKING

The 13 economists, whose statement appeared in inside pages of the same edition, said the new style of management is the official policy of the Czechoslovak Communist party and government and enjoys great public sympathy.

The economists defended the management system, which puts new emphasis on incentives, profit, the market, and decentralized planning as not only Socialist but also the best for Czechoslovakia.

"The new economic model places a considerably greater stress on the value aspects of the production process and its profitability and grants considerable independence at the enterprise level," their statement said.

NEW SYSTEM

It added that the new system "corresponds to a far greater degree to the conditions of the Czechoslovak economy than the old, bureaucratic centralized model."

Dumke Sees Threat To Freedoms

LOS ANGELES (AP) — State College Chancellor Glenn S. Dumke says the system's 9,000 faculty members should lead the fight to maintain academic freedom before control is seized by outside groups.

Academic freedom "is being used by organized groups as a device to overturn the academic establishment," Dumke said in a copyrighted interview in the current issue of U.S. News and World Report.

If the faculty does not come up with an answer, he said, it "will come an outraged citizenry, the state Legislature or through administrative edict.

Dumke said he believes the colleges are closer to losing academic freedom than students and faculty realize.

"They've got to come up with an answer to the root question, 'Is the campus to be used as a staging area for violent social change or revolution or is it not? And if it is not, how is academic freedom to be maintained.'" Dumke said.

He said colleges are in danger of becoming so restricted as to become training centers for professions and vocations rather than places of education and free inquiry.

The low, rambling bungalow was originally built in India.

ARTIST VARDA'S DIAMOND JUBILEE

Jean Varda, surrounded by costumed revellers, celebrates his 75th birthday at a party aboard the drydocks in the middle of Richardson Bay. The sound of music and flash of fireworks were audible and visible Saturday night for miles around the center of action. Almost all the 300 guests were in costume. Many took part in a pageant honoring the Sausalito artist, which was performed on a makeshift stage in the center of the drydock. (Independent-Journal photo)

Education Report Goes To Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson sent to Congress today the first annual report of the National Advisory Committee on Adult Basic Education. It recommends a 10-year plan for adult education and $125 to $255 million more funds for 1970 to 1972.

Johnson said the report presents "a vivid picture of the challenges ahead" for the adult education program. "I commend it to your attention," he told Congress.

The seven-point list of recommendations from the advisory committee advocates getting two million more adults into training programs in 1972. It calls for $20 million in additional funds immediately to promote adult education in areas of urban crisis.

It also calls for taking steps to provide leadership and plans for a 10-year education project.

Johnson noted that more than 24 million adults—one out of every five—do not have the equivalent of an eighth grade education.

The National Advisory Committee, headed by Commissioner of Education Harold Howe II, called attention to the need to help these adults, who have never learned the basic skills that are needed to get and hold a job.

Report On Needs

Director James W. Coleman will report on the projected needs of the community at a meeting of the Marin City Target Area board today at 8 p.m. in Manzanita Center. Also, the program and personnel committees will report.

Four Killed Following Apparent Bar Holdup

CLEVELAND (UPI) — Four persons, apparently kidnapped from a bar following a holdup, were found shot to death today in a park in the city's East Side.

Police said one of the victims was Joseph Zoldan, 54, of South Euclid, Ohio, owner of a bar known as "Tom's Place" which was described by police as a "rough hangout."

The other victims were Raymond Homer, 27, a bartender employed by Zoldan; Ronald Mahoney, 25, an orderly at the Cleveland Clinic, and an unidentified woman.

Police theorized the bar was robbed—the day's receipts were missing —and the victims were taken to the park where they were shot. Zoldan and the woman were shot in the heart. The others were shot in the head.

Police said they found a half dozen shell casings and tire tracks near the bodies, indicating the victims were killed where they were found.

Jim West, 51, found the bodies while in the park.

Residents of the area told police they heard several shots during the night.

"I heard six or seven shots," Oscar Bailey said. He said the shots awakened him.

"I heard 12 shots in succession, then three or four fainter ones," G. K. Smith said.

Alfred Campana, who leased the bar to Zoldan, said it had become a hangout for hoodlums. He said many of them would sleep in their cars parked in a lot across from the bar.

Backing Bond Issue Will Be Considered

A resolution supporting the Tamalpais High School District bond issue to go before voters in November will be considered by the Fairfax School District board at its meeting Tuesday at 7:45 p.m. in the district office, 58 Park Road.

Also on the agenda is a resolution opposing the Watson initiative. Proposition 9 on the November ballot, which would reduce property taxes to 1 per cent of market value and force local government agencies to look elsewhere for funds.

Permission Asked For Building Dock

Robert O. Valentine of 55 Bellevue Avenue, Belvedere, has applied for permission from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to build a small boat dock in Belvedere Cove, at the rear of his lot.

The corps will consider any objections to the construction, offered in writing by Oct. 12. Objections should be mailed in triplicate to the U.S. Army Engineer District, San Francisco, Corps of Engineers, 100 McAllister Street, San Francisco.

Doctor's Drug Knowledge Is Being Questioned

WASHINGTON (AP) — How much do doctors know about the drugs they prescribe for patients?

A federal task force, asking that question, has expressed serious concern over doctors' ability to prescribe appropriate drugs.

It said doctors' knowledge is limited by the fact most of their information comes from promotional material from the drug manufacturers. The task force also mentioned lack of time for doctors to make judgments, rapid changes in the drug field and inadequate medical training.

It quoted one pharmacologist as saying, "Lack of knowledge and sophistication in the proper use of drugs, is perhaps the greatest deficiency of the average physician today."

Circus Coming

Three performances by the John Strong Circus, sponsored by the San Rafael Lions Club, will be staged at the Montecito Shopping Center at 4, 6 and 8 p.m. tomorrow. Guests of the club at the 6 p.m. performance will be 100 children from the Cedars Development Foundation of Marin School for Retarded Children.

Hanoi Attacks Both Presidential Hopefuls

HONG KONG (AP) — Radio Hanoi is devoting equal time to attacking presidential hopefuls Richard M. Nixon and Hubert H. Humphrey.

On Friday it denounced Nixon. On saturday it gave Humphrey the same treatment. Today it blasted both Republican and Democratic contenders.

Today's broadcast called Nixdisciple of that well-known agand Humphrey "that faithful disciple of that well-knon aggressor Johnson."

It charged the Republican party was "still talking and following a 19th Century reactionary policy of aggressive colonialism," while the Democratic party "is doing a little better in the talking department but is following the very same century-old reactionary policy of aggressive colonialism."

"What can it possibly matter to Vietnam whether the candidate of the donkey or the candidate of the elephant is elected?" the broadcast asked. "Both are committed to aggression against Vietnam and are trying to make Vietnam a U.S. colony and a U.S. military base."

Both party conventions, Hanoi insisted, had been manipulated" and the candidates selected by reactionary political bosses.

In contrast to what it termed "general apathy" at the Republican convention, Radio Hanoi said "the fierce antifar propeace demonstrations at Chicago showed the whole world that a very huge segment of the American people are against the U.S. war in Vietnam."

The broadcast ended with "one happy thought for the Vietnamese people in the U.S. presidential campaign:

"Know that whether it is the donkey or the elephant after November 5, he shall surely go down to defeat and we shall surely be victorious."

Australia Seeks F-III Information

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — The Australian government has asked the United States if it can release information about the contract to buy F-111 bombers.

The government has been under attack about the constantly escalating cost of 24 bombers ordered from the United States and regular reports of faults in the aircraft.

In response to demands from the opposition that the contract documents be presented in Parliament, Prime Minister John Gorton has sought permission from Washington to disclose unclassified information, according to authoritative sources here. Instructions to seek this permission have been sent to the Australian ambassador in Washington, Sir Keith Waller.

Ross Man Booked In Vehicle Theft

A 27-year-old Ross man, John L. Massengale, was booked into County Jail yesterday by Larkspur police for investigation of vehicle theft.

Officers said Massengale, of 11 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, was seen on Magnolia Avenue at 1:20 a.m. driving a station wagon reported stolen shortly before in San Rafael from William Keener, 32 Jessup Street, San Rafael.

Massengale, scheduled for appearance in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon, remained in jail today in lieu of $1,150 bail.

Investment Course To Start Sept. 26

A Sonoma State College course in investments will be held at Terra Linda High School from 7 to 9:45 p.m. on Thursdays from Sept. 26 to Jan. 30, if enough persons enroll.

The course, taught by John C. Rohrman, assistant professor of management at Sonoma State, is worth three units of credit and will be accepted as work toward a management major at the college.

Failure To Pay Rent Nets Drugs

A failure to keep the rent paid landed a Mill Valley couple in jail Saturday on suspicion of cultivating marijuana and possessing a dangerous drug for sale.

Charles O. Leidegen, 24, and Stefanie M. Triliegi, 21, were arrested. Mrs. Triliegi was released on $625 bail and told to appear in Municipal Court tomorrow. Leidgen was held in lieu of $2,500 bail for an appearance in court this afternoon.

Sheriff's deputies said they stumbled on the case Saturday when Becky Clark, the couple's landlady, hailed an officer and asked for help while she removed furniture from the house in lieu of rent payments.

The officer who went along allegedly found marijuana growing outside the house. He and other deputies got permission from the landlady to search inside and allegedly found marijuana butts, a drug and a list with prices for "coke, acid and grass."

When the couple returned home, they called the sheriff's office to report a burglary. Deputies responded and placed them under arrest.

Leidgen was also held on a warrant from Wisconsin, charging that he passed bad checks in Milwaukee.

By BONNIE BARD

Individualized teaching, a dream of American educators, is being put into practice this fall in San Anselmo by a professor and three of her students from British Columbia.

Dr. Selma Wasserman, education professor at Simon Fraser University, near Vancouver, and her students, Judy Gathercole, Hennifer Burke and Michael Taylor, are using a new approach on a class of 25 fifth and sixth grade pupils at Isabel Cook School.

A prominently displayed sign in the room questions, "Did you teach any trivia today?" and has become the group's motto.

"When that happens, we'll resign," Dr. Wasserman said. "We must get out of the way of the student's learning."

In the classroom, where desks are arranged in circular groups of six rather than triditional rows, no prescribed curriculum is in effect. Pupils choose study groups in areas in which they are interested. Within reasonable limits, a student may undertake whatever project he likes. These groups include science and math, communications and music and art. Pupils may switch groups weekly.

"We permit them to choose their own area of inquiry by giving them alternatives," Dr. Wasserman explained. "They study what they're really interested in and retain more knowledge."

She also noted that within the program, pupils must themselves see the purpose the study. "This makes grades and gold stars irrelevent for them, because they pay greater attention to the project when they realize the purpose," she said.

Each student will be permitted to pace himself and learn at his own rate. "Every student varies from others, and varies within himself on a day-to-day basis as to his learning rate," Dr. Wasserman said. "If he's pushed too hard, he loses self-confidence, and if the pace is too slow, he becomes bored."

Sharing the ideas and communicating will be part of the program. "We want to encourage the children to talk to each other, within limits, to broaden their horizens. If Johnny is excited about a rocket project he's involved in, his interest musn't be stifled by keeping silent," she said.

Dr. Wasserman feels the most difficult segment of the plan may be in asking students to evaluate what they've learned, but feels that when they achieve the independence at which the program is aimed, it will be possible.

"We're also setting precedents in that my students are the first to do their student teaching outside of Canada," she said, adding that success here may bring more Canadian students to the U.S. for student teaching in the future.

Dr. Wasseran, on a year's research leave, is returning to the classroom on the elementary level of the first time in seven years and hopes to try out new approaches and write about her experiences. She and her husband, Jack Wasserman, have coauthored 18 children's books.

Miss Gathercole and Miss Burke are making their home with Mrs. Ria Guis of Fairfax, whom they describe as "The best cook in the bay area." The girls felt they would learn more of American daily life by sharing a home than renting an apartment.

The third student teacher, Michael Taylor, is living near the school with his wife, Susan, and daughter Michele, who is in kindergarten at the school.

Eskimo decorations and Canadian calendars decorate the classroom and will help pupils learn about their teacher's country. "We'll be teaching a bit about Canada, but it will just be part of our getting to know each other," Dr. Wasserman said.

Apprehensive about the reaction of the pupils to having four teachers rather than one, the experimenters were pleased with the immediate response. "They realize they're in a different type of classroom situation this year and are very excited about it," she said.

In fact, she said, one youngster on opening day of school said the experiment looks like "a blast."

South Vietnam Will Issue New Identity Cards

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese national police on Oct. 1 will begin issuing new identity cards to all Vietnamese, 15 years and older. The task is expected to take three years.

The new cards are part of a government effort to determine accurately how many people are in South Vietnam. The prevailing estimate is slightly more than 17 million.

Inaccurate population statistics have been hampering economic, political, cultural and defense projects, especially the general mobilization effort begun last June.

The new cards also will facilitate pacification projects and the isolation of Viet Cong cadre, the official Vietnam Press said.

$5,000 Robbery Follows Taking Key At Gunpoint

OAKLAND (UPI) — Two armed men broke into the home of a supermarket manager last night, took his store keys and then looted the store safe of about $5,000.

The manager, Carl Johansen, told police the gunmen knocked on the door of his home at 10:30 p.m. When he opened the door, the men forced their way in.

Johansen turned over his store keys at gunpoint, and the bandits then forced the manager, his wife and three children to lie down on the floor of an upstairs bedroom, where they were bound and guarded by one of the robbers.

The other went to the store and emptied the safe.

Storer Slates Vote Reception

Supervisor Thomas T. Storer officially will kick off his campaign for re-election with a reception at the opening at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday of his headquarters at 1017 D Street, San Rafael.

Storer will meet with voters until 9 p.m., and refreshments will be served.

The campaign headquarters will be open weekdays from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Tax Relief Pledges Now Close To Reality

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California homeowners stand a better chance today — in two respects — of getting actual "property tax relief" from the Legislature.

First, the Legislature and Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan finally have agreed on a plan to carry out the tax relief pledge of 1966 and 1967. Secondly, that plan gives the homeowner more assurance than other proposed this year that he actually might get a tax cut.

The $261 million proposal—a combination bill and constitutional amendment—passed the Assembly easily last week, a day after the agreement was reached in Reagan's office. Approval is expected in the Senate this week.

Reagan and Republican and Democratic legislators alike were spurred into action by forthcoming elections and the prospect that voters in November would approve ballot Proposition 9, (Watson initiative) to severely limit the use of property taxes for financing government.

The $155 million plan Reagan proposed earlier in the year, and called property tax relief, did not give real assurance that tax bills would be cut.

That plan was for the state to give the funds to the 58 county governments with the intention they be used by the counties to ease the property tax load.

But there was nothing to force the counties to do that. They could—and many would have been expected to—merely have used the money to offset increased costs of government or for new programs. The tax rate could have remained the same, or even could have gone up.

Only local governments levy property taxes in California, not the state.

Opposing this plan was Democratic Sen. George Miller Jr., D-Martinez, who argued against taking the money from the taxpayers in sales tax and then giving it back to them with no assurance it would get to those it was intended to help.

Miller said it would be better not to take the money in the first place, letting the state sales tax lapse back to 4.5 cents on the dollar on Oct. 1 — as it will if no tax plan is adopted.

Miller proposed—and Reagan accepted last week—a more direct method of giving property tax "relief."

He suggested an automatic exemption of $750 in assessed valuation of the home—the figure used for computing the tax bill. For 2.4 million homeowners this would average out to about $70 each. It would work much like the present $1,000 exemption for veterans.

The actual reduction would depend on the tax rate in each local governmental unit and whether the tax rate remained the same. The state uses part of the sales tax income to compensate local governments for the revenue they would lose.

Since this year's tax rates already are set, the Miller proposal provides for a direct rebate by the state of $70 to each homeowner who would have been eligible for the assessment exemption this year.

Miller's plan also provides help for the renter, a total $40 million, on the theory he helps pay the tax bill through higher rent. This would be done by doubling his standard deduction used in computing the state income tax.

Most persons buying homes itemize their deductions. They get a better break that way because of deductions for interest they pay on their mortgages and for the property taxes they pay.

The person who may not gain under this plan is the renter who doesn't file an income tax return.

But Miller acknowledged his plan wasn't perfect and said he was willing to accept any amendments to improve it.

To become effective—assuming the Legislature passes the plan—it would have to be approved by voters at the Nov. 5 election.

The reason for this is the general tax break is intended for homeowners and renters only, and not for those who own business property. At present, the constitution doesn't allow different methods of taxing business and residential property.

Reagan's proposed $155 million in "property tax relief" would have been designed to reduce taxes on all property. Miller argued that about 70 per cent of any such break would go to businessmen.

The compromise package does provide help for businessmen, however, by trimming the business inventory tax by about $43 million a year.

Another feature is elimination of the personal property tax on household items such as television sets, furniture and so forth. This tax, levied in some areas and not in others, brings in about $55 million a year for local governments.

The Legislature does not intend to provide local governments with "replacement revenue" for this loss. So, those governments likely would raise other taxes to offset the loss.

By tradition, local government has had to depend largely on the property tax to finance its operations. Tax experts argue that the property tax base hasn't increased as fast as the need for local government funds. Thus higher and higher tax rates for homeowners and businesses.

Fund Drive Launched For Injured Teacher

Student and faculty groups at the College of Marin have joinforces to raise funds for an instructor and her daughter who were injured in an auto accident Aug. 25 near Trinidad, Humbolt County.

Anther daughter was killed in the crash.

Mrs. Joan Jencks, 39, of San Francisco, a history teacher at the college, and her daughter, Lynn, 16, were reported in good condition today in Trinity Hospital of Arcata. Mrs. Hecks suffered a crushed pelvis and bruises, while Lynn is under treatment for a fractured cervical vertebrae.

An 11-year-old daughter, Mariquita, was killed in the accident. The Jencks were thrown from their foreign made bus when it collided head-on with another vehicle on Highway 101.

Edward Garrison, public relations commissioner of the Associated Students, said several student and faculty groups were raising money to help Mrs. Jencks since her college insurance coverage did not apply to accidents outside of the general vicinity.

He said several thousand dollars had been raised and contributions could be sent to the Faculty Coordinating Committee at the college.

Mrs. Jencks and her daughter are due to be transferred to Kaiser Foundation Hospital in San Francisco Monday by air taxi.

Garrison said Mrs. Jencks helped establish black history courses at the college.

YMCA Session For High School Mock Legislature

An orientation for high school youths interested in participating in the Young Men's Christian Association model state legislature in Sacramento in January will be held Oct. 1 at 7:30 p.m. at the association's Marin branch, 241 North San Pedro Road, Santa Venetia.

The program will be explained and a mock debate on a euthanasia bill be staged.

Officers who will preside over the model legislature in January in Sacramento will be elected Nov. 9 at Stanford University.

Soviet Vessel Close To Hawaii

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP)—The Navy said yesterday a Soviet intelligence vessel was within 12.5 miles of Barbers Point Naval Air Station on the island of Oahu.

The Soviet ship, Gavril Sarychev, was followed routinely by the U.S. Navy destroyer escort Charles Berry.

The Gavril Sarychev moved into Hawaiian waters more than a week ago, the Navy said, and has been traveling all around the islands.

Although the United States maintains a 12-mile fishing limit on its coasts, the vessel could move in as close as three miles and still be considered in international waters.

Woman-To-Woman Diplomacy

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

Emphasis will be on positive aspects during a three-week tour of Russia, Hungary and Czechoslovakia that 60 American women business, professional and community leaders will start tomorrow when they fly out of New York on a Pan-American jet for Moscow.

"The trip is non-political and non-controversial," said Bernice Behrens, of San Francisco, hostess and spokesman for the tour. "We will leave the international problems to the men and governments and concentrate on getting acquainted with the women, understanding them and learning what we have in common."

That this is an unusual venture in woman-to-woman diplomacy was heavily stressed in an exclusive I-J interview last week with Bernice and two other Bay Area women making the trip, Mrs. Roland Pierotti of San Francisco and Mrs. Constant M. Van Vlierden of Sausalito.

Through her world-wide travels and acquaintance with top national leaders Bernice is internationally recognized as an authority on the world of women today and is widely known for her "Whole Wide World of Women" lectures and fashion shows across the United States.

Grace Norton, president of Professional Travel Advisors Inc. of San Francisco, who will accompany and direct the entire trip for the Bernice Behrens Delegation of Outstanding Women, organized the trip at the invitation of two top Soviet women's groups. She said this is the first time the Soviet Union has issued an official invitation to any American group to come calling.

Mrs. Van Vlierden, wife of the senior vice president in the Bank of America international banking division, is in the forefront of such activities as "Woman-to-Woman, Building the Earth for the Sake of the Children," the Laubach literacy program and many other projects promoting better international relations. She has worked closely with Bernice on the tour but says, "I'm just the catalyst."

Mrs. Pierotti, who is the wife of the executive vice president in charge of international banking for the Bank of America, is especially noted for her many hours devoted to volunteer services — a field practically unknown in the Soviet Union, Bernice says.

"We do not march — we do not carry placards, though we do support our boys in Vietnam," said Bernice, "but we do hope to be quietly effective. We are not sponsored — every woman is paying her own way.

"We have been assured by the Soviet government tour agency Intourist that the situation in Eastern Europe should improve within a short time. If by chance it would be necessary to eliminate Prague, we shall probably substitute Belgrade, Yugoslavia. "The recent tragic events in Czechoslovakia indicate that international understanding on a woman-to-woman basis is more important today than ever before."

First stop for the delegation will be London where delegates will entertain women members of the British parliament at dinner—which brings up an interesting point. The delegation will not always be on the receiving end of entertaining, for they plan to have women in the other countries too as guests at luncheons and dinners. They are also taking aprons with them as little gifts for the Russian women.

Since some of the most valuable exchanges of ideas often take place in the cordial atmosphere of sharing a meal, a maximum number of joint luncheons and dinners with women of the visited countries has been scheduled.

After London the women will have eight days in Moscow, where there will be a State Department briefing, and they will be joined by the noted news commentator James Reston, then will continue to Leningrad, Kiev, Budapest and Prague, returning to New York on Oct. 8.

Included in the trip are meetings with women educators, fashion designers, doctor and other career women as well as visits to homes, schools, factories, art museums, churches and palaces and to ballets and operas.

A good idea of the character of the women invited to become delegates may be gained by noting who some of them are. Going from California are:

Mrs. Eugene McAteer, widow of the late California senator, and Mrs. Thomas Lynch, wife of the attorney general of California.

Miss Marianne Goldman, a pioneer in educational television and vice president of the board of directors of the Family Service Agency.

Mrs. Harriet Chun Haw Dong Kwong, one of three Chinese women going, widow of the late president of the Bank of Canton in San Francisco and presently in the real estate field.

Mrs. Lee Stubbs Penland, brilliant lawyer admitted to practice before the U.S. Supreme Court.

Mrs. Agnes O'Brien Smith, deputy city attorney of the City and County of San Francisco.

Mrs. Mary Aline Creighton, former owner of a retail women's wear store and representative of the San Francisco Women's Chamber of Commerce.

Two prominent Negro women from California will be Mrs. Cecil Poole, wife of the U.S. district attorney for Northern California, and Mrs. Leslie Nelson Shaw, wife of the postmaster of Los Angeles.

Distinguished delegates from other parts of the country include:

Gay Pauley Sehon, women's editor of the United Press International; Armigene Johnson, president and owner of D'Armigene, Inc., model factory on Long Island and former designer for Hattie Carnegie and Pauline Trigere; Ethel Munson, retired lieutenant colonel with the U.S. Army Corps, former chief of Manpower Control Division, G-1, headquarters First United States Army, New York; Mrs. Richard Harkness, wife of the noted radio-TV commentator; Mrs. Max Brooks, wife of the internationally known architect for the famed Mexican anthropological museum; Miss Phyllis Andersen, vice president and personnel director Liberty House stores, Hawaiian Islands; and Mrs. Freda Winning, national leader in the field of home economics.

Among professions and occupations represented, Bernice said, there will be four doctors, a social worker, a hospital administrator, a graduate nurse, director of volunteers of a hospital, a kindergarten teacher, two high school teachers and three college professors, an artist, two authors, a Hollywood actress (Peggy Converse, who is Mrs. Don Porter), a director of reading dynamics, a television women's feature broadcaster (Martha Dixon) who is already planning to do a documentary on the trip, a piano teacher, a hotel owner and "just housewives."

The Woman-to-Woman, Building the Earth program will have four representatives.

"All of these women," Bernice says, "feels that the reason we are going is to have the Russian women understand us better. They have been spoonfed on propaganda and know nothing about America. Only when we have understanding and friendship among the women of the countries of the world, will be have peace," she added.

"Russian women have an obsession against war. They feel it much more strongly than we do because they have had it in their country. They told me there was no family that had not suffered some loss, that they had had to burn

JEAN BUSCHING

'I Told Her To Practice'

By JOAN LISETOR

"You know, this is a crazy business. Let me tell you about a woman who came to see me about a job a few years ago," begins Jean Busching, who is in the employment agency business in San Rafael.

"I told her to practice her typing before I gave her a test. I showed her where the typewriter was and where she could find all the material she would need. I left her for about 10 minutes, and when I came back she was typing away, but there wasn't any paper in the typewriter. I called this to her attention and her reply was, 'but you just told me to practice'."

Jean has been in the personnel business for 13 years. She opened her own office in Marin County in 1961. Born in San Francisco, she moved first to Marin County when she was four years old, back to San Francisco when she was 11, and then back to Marin "to stay" in 1956.

"My Marin roots are very deep," she says. "In fact, my late maternal uncle, Albert de Wit, was the first mayor of Larkspur. I checked the records recently when I went to the city hall to get a dog license for Schatzie (her miniature dachshund) and found Uncle Albert was elected in 1916."

Jean now lives in Greenbrae with her 11-year-old daughter, Melissa. She stresses the practical side of education and is teaching Melissa how to type.

"I learned to type when I was Melissa's age," she says. "It's very grown up and exciting at that age, and you never forget how. I can't tell you how many people come into by office without skills and expect me to find them a job, particularly young people, students who want a summer job. If they had some practical training they would have a much easier time finding employment.

"Then there are the women who come rushing into my office, out of breath, saying, 'You've got to find me a job today. My alimony stops tomorrow.' Most of them have known for two or three years when their temporary support would end, and yet have done nothing to prepare themselves for it. The high schools and College of Marin offer courses in practical training, and so many people could benefit by taking them."

The employment agency specializes in office and clerical work.

"But once I placed a head waiter at Trader Vic's. That was really out of my line," she says.

What is in line for a woman who runs an employment agency?

It seems she must be a confidante, mother confessor, sobsister and matchmaker.

"Matching the right applicant with the right employer can be tricky. You find a girl with all the skills and experience necessary for a particular job, but she weighs 300 pounds. What do you say to her?"

Jean Busching says the right thing. Proof of it is the young girls, who have just graduated from high school, who say they have come to her to find them a job because she found their grandmothers employment.

"I guess I've been in the business too long," she sighs.

"What would you do if you were not in the personnel business?" we ask.

"Oh, I guess I would sit at a desk and file papers from 9 to 5. All you would have to worry about would be the alphabet, no mental strain. Or, maybe I would open a one earring shop. I'll bet I would have a lot of customers — women like myself who are on the phone most of the day and only need one earring."

Is There A 'Beautiful People' Place For Tamara Vladimseva?

By DEE WEDEMEYER

MOSCOW (AP) — If there is a beautiful people circle in the classless society, Tamara Vladimseva belongs to it.

The 25-year-old fashion model, who was recently called the Russian Twiggy by visiting British models, is married to a dancer in the Bolshoi Ballet. She has been modeling for eight years.

She makes 120-130 rubles a month (a ruble is worth $1.11 U.S.), far higher than the minimum wage which has only recently been raised to 60 rubles. She has easy access to the coveted ballet theater at which Muscovites must stand in line to get tickets, and she has just this year graduated from a higher education institute where she majored in cinema economics.

UNLIKE THE DRABLY dressed Muscovites, Tamara's everyday clothes look more Western than the average girl her age. Her A-line skirt could be Scottish plaid and her pink jersey could be American. Many of her clothes are purchased from the Fashion House where, as a model, she is allowed to buy the clothes she shows.

She has her short hair done about once a week at a Parlor of Beauty and she owns a hairpiece which her husband made at the theater from her own hair.

Tamara did not just become a model, she was "invited," after being recommended by friends who knew of an opening.

Unlike most Russian models who have large legs and in general weigh more than Western models, Tamara is slim. The amount of makeup she wears depends on the size of the building in which she is appearing. She pencils the area around her eyes in black liner and, like most Russian girls, she does not pluck her eyebrows.

SHE HAD NO professional training for modeling although the fashion designers gave her some pointers on how to walk. Other pointers she picked up at international fashion shows. She moves smoothly, punctuating her steps by placing her hands on her hips and placing her shoulders backwards.

American fashion models she admires, as well as American fashions.

"The American style more than any other style can be used for Russians. It is taken from life. It is a very simple modest way of behavior. The models don't show the clothes as if they are mannequins. The lines of the dress are convenient and useful, also from life. Just what we need now," she says.

WHILE TAMARA FINDS modeling "pleasant," she will probably quit next year to pursue her profession as an economist and to raise her son.

She says she wants to "bring up her child in the proper way — so that he likes people and does some good for the people." She would like him to be a dancer.

"When you like human beings, you want to bring up a child who will also like them," she says.

Despite the above-average salary she and her husband make, they live with his parents in a small flat. She, her husband and her son all share a room, she says. Soon though they hope to have a flat of their own.

"My mother-in-law is going to help us get it," she says, smiling.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Husband Tells Neighbors About Favors Performed For His Wife

DEAR HELEN:

I am 45 years old, going on 100. Suddenly my life has gone sour. Mostly, it's my husband. He thinks he is a great wit — at my expense. He'll do anything for others, but if I ask a favor, the whole neighborhood hears. He shells out for other children, but if ours want money, they have to earn it."

He visits his mother constantly and brags about what a good son he is. I tried going with him, but I can't stand the fighting. He thinks he is the greatest man on earth, but if I tell him otherwise, he pouts for a week and gets all his friends to thinking I'm a witch.

I'd leave him tomorrow, but I keep thinking I might be to blame. He says I wasn't always this way and maybe I'm going through the menopause. I say I'm just waking up to the kind of man I've got. Is it my age, or my husband? — Honest to gosh, Helen, some mornings I wake up and get sick just looking at him.

— CHANGED WIFE

DEAR WIFE:

Perhaps you've hit what I call the "moan-opause." It's that slump in a woman's life when her grandchildren haven't yet arrived, she becomes much more aware of her husband — and what she sees is mostly bad. Her depression isn't helped by a harsh bathroom mirror and truthful scales, or a man who can't sense she needs special treatment just now.

Best way to fight the "moan-opause" is with a head-on attack. Do something different. Find projects that make you proud of yourself. Be honest about your feelings and what causes them. Be especially honest about why your husband irritates you. Chances are you irritate him too, for middle age is a prickly time. Somehow those habits or shortcomings you always shrugged off are now like playing ball with a cactus apple: the thorns dig in and fester.

If you can talk out your problems at this marriage plateau, you'll learn a lot about yourselves, including how to be happy through aging. If you can't you're headed for separation even though you continue living together . . . And that's the worst kind.

Start talking. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

About the man and woman who lied to get married. Perhaps they're "legal," but they'd better get the ages straightened out.

Our son and his wife were married 11 years ago and lied about their ages. We inquired about it, and a judge told us if any legal matters came up in years to come, there might be complications.

The judge fixed the necessary papers, and we two mothers went with the couple to Iowa where they remarried. We chose Iowa because the marriage age is lower there. — MOTHER.

Linda Hauser Is Bride Of Larry Susnow

Linda Hauser of Mill Valley and Lawrence Irving Susnow of San Francisco were wed in a garden ceremony held Sunday at 2 p.m. on the patio and lawn of the Casa de la Vista on Treasure Island.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hauser of Mill Valley, had as her maid of honor the bridegroom's sister, Nancy Irene Susnow of San Francisco. Bridesmaids were Kathryne Owen of Mill Valley and Betsy Tatman of San Francisco.

Norman Scheiner of San Rafael was best man for the bridegroom, who is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward S. Susnow of San Francisco. Ushers were Christopher Sewell of Palo Alto and Eric Leonard of San Francisco.

A reception was held in the Casa de la Vista immediately following the ceremony. On returning from a wedding trip to Mt. Hood, the couple will live in Berkeley.

A graduate of Tamalpais High School, Linda is in her senior year at the University of California, where she is a member of Alpha Xi Delta. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Bruno Turkheimer of San Francisco.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Lick Wilmerding High School in San Francisco and is also in his senior year at the University of California. He is a member of Acacia fraternity.

Chico Is Home After Marriage Of S. W. Schilling-Miss Knadler

Stephen William Schilling of Mill Valley claimed Kathleen Anne Knadler of Blairsden as his bride Sept. 7 at a 1 o'clock ceremony at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Mill Valley.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max E. Knadler of Blairsden, had as her matron of honor Mrs. Donna Heibel of San Luis Obispo. Cindy Schilling of Mill Valley, the sister of the bridegroom, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Schilling of Mill Valley, and Cindy Monahan of Marysville were bridesmaids.

Best man was Gray Frugoli of San Rafael, and ushers were the bride's brother, Ed Knadler of Blairsden, Peter Schafer of Mill Valley and Mike Solomon of Greenbrae.

After a reception held at the Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club the couple left on a wedding trip to Sea Ranch. They will live in Chico.

A graduate of Portola High School and Chico State College, the bride is employed at the college. She is the granddaughter of Mrs. Hazel Knadler of San Jose.

A graduate of Marin Catholic High School, the bridegroom attended the College of Marin and is in his senior year at Chico State College, where he is a member of Phi Kappa Tau.

That Young Latin Look Is The 'In' Thing For Fall

'Know any 'old Latin'? It's 'out to look old, but it's 'in' to have that young Latin look, especially in men's shoes.

IN are broad toes, antique grains, "brown." Spain is on to the International look of shape in clothing shoes, following the natural lines of the foot.

And the flatter rounded-square toe is picked as most compatible, countering the now-established bulb toe for country looks with bold, blunt hardware statements in studs, links and buckles.

Color is the trend catalipt of Spain's many footwear moods: Brown, in a fiesta of tones running from ochre to cherry, and nearly all antiqued.

Socials Planned For Concours d'Elegance

By MOLLY MARIN

In conjunction with the Concours d'Elegance at Silverado Country Club in Napa Sunday, members of the Marin County Circle of the Florence Crittenton Home have planned a cocktail party and luncheon for honorary judges and guests of the concours.

Saturday from 5 to 7 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Dallman of Tiburon will host a cocktail party for honored guests aboard their yacht, The McCoy, which will be berthed in the River Park Marina in Napa.

The day of the concours the Marin circle will host a luncheon for guests at noon in the River Room of the Silverado Country Club. Jean Bolton, executive director of the Florence Crittenton Home, will be hostess.

Following the concours, a cocktail-buffet party will be held on the terrace of the Silverado Country Club for members of the Marin circle and their guests.

THE UNIVERSITY of California class of 1943 will hold its 25th class reunion Nov. 22.

The steering committee wants to do away with "dull hotel dances" and says it plans to bring the Queen Mary from Long Beach to San Francisco, make Truman Capote's party seem like a P-TA meeting, fly in the entire menu from Maxim's of Paris and import the entire floor show from the Mikado in Tokyo.

Alumni may contact reunion headquarters at 1216 Hearst Building, San Francisco.

AMONG THE Marinites who had interesting trips abroad this summer are the William Flemings of Belvedere, who recently returned from a tour they started on June 17.

They followed an itinerary with arrangements for a private car with driver to pick them up at each major place. Their tour took them through England, Amsterdam and Germany until they reached Vienna, where they picked up their daughter, Dorothy, who has been studying at the Institute of European Studies there. This counted as her University of Santa Clara junior year.

Highlights of their trip, Pat Fleming said, were a cruise up the Rhine River from Rotterdam and the chateau country in France. The last country they visited before returning home was Ireland.

Buckles Revived

Buckles, one of the oldest types of fasteners, have returned to high fashion. You'll see them on belts, on shoes and garments as fasteners or for purely decorative purposes. During the 17th century, buckles were used for fastening knee breeches. Buckle-making was a good business about then but with the advance of the shoestring, buckle-makers found their business skidding.

ON THE AGENDA

Young People Receive Second Certificate Of Appreciation

Two San Rafael children, Frans J. Roosen Jr. and Debbie Farani, have received their second certificate of appreciation from Save the Children Federation, for donating the proceeds of a special auction for use in the federation's self-help program in Appalachia. The gift of $42 will go into a fund to help deserving families improve their economic situation by investing in a self-help project that will raise annual incomes. In July, they held a neighborhood carnival and raised $12 for the federation's self-help activities.

Frans and Debbie conducted a spectacular "Rinky Dink Auction," which featured merchandise donated by neighborhood merchants and usable articles from friends around their home. A local supermarket allowed the use of space. Armed with a loud speaker, the children sought high bids, appealing to all who entered the store to make an offer toward purchase.

Frans is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frans J. Roosen Sr. of 210 Mission Avenue, and Debbie lives at 192 Mission Avenue.

Founded in 1932, the Save the Children Federation aids children, their families and communities in the Southern Appalachian Mountains, on the American Indian reservations and in countries abroad, through the sponsorship program, an international self-help scholarship fund, annual collections of used clothing for the children of Appalachia, and and Emergency Fund for sponsored children and their families.

WELLAND LATHROP, dancer and choreographer of modern dance, will again be a guest teacher for the Pacific Dance Guild in Mill Valley this fall. He will teach a class in advanced modern dance for high school students, teachers and professionals.

Information about the class to be held Friday afternoons may be obtained by calling the Pacific Dance Guild located at 169 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley.

UNITED PRESBYTERIAN Women are planning a tea at the Westminster Presbyterian Church in Tiburon on Wednesday from 2 to 4 p.m. Friends of Westminster and especially newcomers are invited to come and get acquainted.

Committee members are Mesdames Milton L. Stannard, Walter L. Long, James W. Gwin, George B. Henry and J. Benton Bostick.

A gathering is planned in the future for career women of the church and community who have "no time for teas." Anyone interested may call Mrs. J. H. Hegenbotham of Tiburon.

THE FAMILY Service League will present a fashion luncheon Wednesday at Tiburon Tommie's Restaurant in Tiburon.

THE STATE theme of the California Congress of Parents and Teachers during the current school year will be "Developing Leadership in our Times through Inspiration, Innovation and Involvement." The emphasis is "Be the I in Involvement."

The theme for the four 14th District California Congress of Parents and Teachers general meetings is "Accentuate the Positive." The first of these meetings will be Thursday in Sebastopol, at the Analy High School, with Mrs. Lovell Sanders, president of the Analy Council, as official hostess. Registration for the dinner meeting will begin at 6 p.m. Mrs. Hugh Pessner of Greenbrae, as 14th District president, will preside at the meeting. The topic for the evening is "New Curriculum — Where the Action Is."

The speaker for the dinner meeting will be John Fitch, administrative head of the Del Mar Community Intermediate Middle School of the Reed Union School District. Mr. Fitch has been in Marin County the past 10 years and, as principal of Bel Aire School, was involved in the educational planning and design of the nationally known Granada School and served as principal of that school.

THE DECORATIONS GUILD of the Marin Art and Garden Center will hold its fall luncheon meeting at 11 a.m. Wednesday at Peacock Gap Country Club.

The meeting will be followed by a social hour, then luncheon and a talk by Carla M. Flood, interior decorator, about color and design. Plans for the annual green sale will also be on the agenda.

Mrs. Norbert J. Mages is reservations chairman.

THE UNITED Presbyterian Women's Association of the Novato Presbyterian Church will hold its first meeting of the fall at 12:30 p.m., Wednesday in the Christensen Room of the church.

Reports of department chairmen and election of officers for the coming year will be on the agenda at the dessert meeting.

Dr. J. J. Canoles, assistant pastor, will be holding monthly training classes for circle leaders with meetings resuming this month.

Ruth Circle will meet at 8 p.m. Tuesday; Martha Circle, 1 p.m., Sept. 24 and Rachel-Miriam Circle, 9:30 a.m., Sept. 25.

OUR LADY of Loretto Confraternity of Christian Doctrine Guild, an association for the laity, particularly for the parents of children enrolled in CCD, will hold its first meeting of the 1968-69 year at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the parish hall in Novato.

The topic "Introduction to the CCD Program" will be presented by Mario Balestrieri, president.

Chairmen for the year are Mesdames Walter Haught, primary grades; James Sullivan, intermediate grades; James Bennett, junior high school, William Greenfield, high school, and Gene Cordini, special education. Dennis Dutra will explain the adult discussion groups.

THE MILL VALLEY branch of the American Association of University Women will have a champagne brunch for prospective members on Wednesday at 11 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Joseph E. Bodovitz, 44 Midhill Drive, Mill Valley. All Southern Marin women who are graduates of an accredited college or university are invited to attend.

Membership and reservations chairman is Mrs. James S. Culp of Mill Valley.

Laura Walsh Engaged To Mars F. Davis

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin J. Walsh of Lakeview, Ore., announce the engagement of their daughter, Laura Kay Walsh of San Anselmo, to Mars Franklin Davis of Santa Rosa.

LAURA WALSH

Laura is the sister of Mrs. Wayne Whitehead of Eugene, Ore., Mrs. Terry Moore of Crescent City and Patrick Walsh and Arbee and Robert Freeman of Klamath Falls, Ore. She was graduated from Lakeview High School, Grace Ball Secretarial College and John Robert Powers School of Modeling. She is employed as a legal secretary at the criminal division of the United States Attorney's Office in San Francisco.

Mars is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Trist F. Davis of San Rafael. Susan Davis of San Rafael is his sister. He was graduated from Terra Linda High School and is a hospital corpsman with the Navy, stationed at San Francisco Bay Naval Shipyard.

An Oct. 12 wedding in Lakeview is planned.

"Because of the delicate situation in Vietnam and the Russians supplying armaments, if we get into a discussion about Vietnam and what is going on in Prague, that would be a donnybrook. The only answer is to compliment them on their outstanding accomplishments and find out more about the contributions they are making to government.

"We know our rooms will be bugged — we know we will be carefully watched, but we know the message of our hearts, which is understanding and friendship, will be reciprocated. I know that with 60 outstanding key women of this country we are going to make an impression on them," Bernice concluded.

All this sounds very serious, but there will be a lighted side to the tour. In addition to the sight-seeing and attending operas and ballets there will be discussion with Soviet women on food preparation and menus and exchange of recipes, and even a visit to a fashion design studio.

This could hardly be otherwise with Bernice Behrens at the helm, for besides being a brilliant magna cum laude graduate of Stanford in political science as a Phi Beta Kappa, she is a chic, fashion-conscious blonde who was formerly assistant to the president of the largest millinery house in the world and vice president of a national company designing and manufacturing fashion merchandise.

The list of clothes she is taking and recommending for the trip is very interesting, but unfortunately we do not have the space to describe it.

The trip will be covered by all the major television networks and news services, and some of the coverage may even be transmitted via Telstar.

CORRECTION

A typographical error in the recipe given for Cornish Pasties printed in the story that appeared on the I-J food page Wednesday was three teaspoons of vinegar instead of three tablespoons in the dough.

This is important, Mrs. Agnes Reid says, because it is the vinegar in the crust that prevents juice from leaking out. For this reason it makes an excellent crust for fruit pies, she explained.

ART REVIEW

Gallery III Flush With Three Excellent Exhibits

By LAURA DEVENDORF

Gallery III in Corte Madera has had some interesting shows lately but this month it's really flush. Until Oct. 2, not one but three exhibits will fill the gallery with prints, pots and batiks and all three are worth seeing.

The two major portions feature Eric Norstad's pots and the woodcuts and etchings by some of Japan's most notable contemporary printmakers.

Norstad's pieces, as always, are outstanding, his ceramics projecting a massive masculinity regardless of scale. Some of them are literally huge such as a pocked, gray-lidded jar encircled with a rust-brown ring which is traced with gray, leaf-like designs.

Others just seem so by virtue of their weight, such as as tunning, think-walled, square bowl in pink-touched grays, its chiseled corners, bottom and side designs, glazed in smoke-blue and burnt umber.

The interest Norstad generates seldom wavers as he works through tall urns, low open bowls, jars, bottles, mugs, covered dishes, plates and delicately patterned slab pots, all shaped and glazed in a variety of ways.

The Japanese prints are a show in themselves. Very refined and precise, they are also very diverse. In Matsumoto's broken figures of two young girls, the top and bottom portions of their bodies are formed in textured whites on a yellow ground with the dress print of one in grays. In the center section, the background reverses to white, the print to vivid colors and the clothing of the other figure is a bright striped shape.

It's a very modern concept and, in contrast, there are typically Oriental scenes. Others are strongly geometric and still other subtler ideas, such as one shifting overall herringbone design in soft blacks and gray, underscored with a thin band of dull red.

Additionally, there are dozens of etchings which are mysterious or natural in content and which are executed with great sensitivity.

The shattered surface patterns of batiks are often so repetitious it's close to truth to say, "If you've seen one you've seen them all." That, however, does not apply to Winifred Madison's flower, architecture and figure filled panels which glow with color and fresh decorative ideas. East Indian in flavor, her city scenes, "Tree of Life," "Adam and Eve," and "Creation" are more like paintings than overly aware of the batik technique.

'Fiction' Label Tacked To The Grape Boycott

BOSTON (UPI) — A California league representing grape and fruit interests presented the industry's case to the people today with a full page newspaper advertisement that labeled striking farm workers' claims of unfair treatment as "pure fiction."

Entitled "Fact and Fiction in the California Grape Boycott," the ad in the Boston Globe was presented by the California Grape and Tree Fruit League of San Francisco. The group said it represented the state's fresh tree fruit, grape and berry industry.

"You have been subjected to a great many claims which purport to paint a picture of California grape vineyards," the ad said. "the greatest majority of these claims are pure fiction—or at very best—only half truths."

The ad made reference, though not be name, to attempts by the United Farm Workers Organizing Committee to unionize migrant grape pickers in California. Several demonstrations have been staged in the Boston area supporting the farm workers and attempting to force supermarkets to stop selling California grapes.

The ad claims farm workers are "better paid by significant amounts than farm workers in other states;" that "grape workers are not on strike;" that "California farm workers are protected by many more social laws than farm workers in any other states;" that the state's grants, most of them live within a few miles of their jobs," and that grapes "are not being harvested by strikebreakers."

The league said "the legality of such boycotts is questionable, and certainly it is contrary to the American tradition of open access to markets for all commodities.

"This is your food supply. Today it is grapes, tomorrow it could be meat, bread or potatoes. Protect your right to a plentiful supply of fresh healthful food," the ad urged.

$13,900 For Gnoss Field Is Approved

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — A $13,900 grant to improve Gnoss Field north of Novato has been approved by the state Transportation Agency, it was announced today.

The grant will provide $5,000 for additional land acquisition, $7,400 to construct parking aprons for aircraft, and $1,500 to install a safety fence.

The grant was among 38 totaling $1,194,865, and was based on the premise that there will be no federal aid given for the same improvements. The state allocation would be proportionally reduced if federal aid were granted, too, the agency said.

The grant came from a fund accumulated from gas taxes attributable to general aviation use.

The state denied Marin County's request for $16,670 to improve a service road at the airport. Roads are not e ligible for such grant funds, the agency said.

Boy, 14, Hurt

John Nelson Hermann, 14, of 41 Meadow Avenue, San Rafael, was treated for scrapes of the right thigh at Marin General Hospital Saturday night after he was hit by a car at the intersection of Fifth and A streets, San Rafael, according to police. Driver of the car was William Francis Klapperich, 17, of 201 Center Street, San Rafael, police said.

Employees Group Seeks Recognition

Marin County Employees Association will ask to be recognized as the bargaining agent for all county employees who want representation, at the meeting of the Marin County Personnel Commission at 3 p.m. Thursday in the supervisors' chambers at the Civic Center.

Randall M. Prevo, general manager of the county employees group, said his association wants to avoid fragmenting the employees into 15 or 20 bargaining groups.

The California Nurses Association will also put in a bid for recognition as bargaining agent for the county's public health nurses.

The only bargaining groups recognized thus far by the personnel commission are the probation workers unit and the social workers unit of the Probation Workers and Social Workers Union Local 535, AFL-CIO.

Civic Ballet Will Dance At Benefit

The Marin Civic Ballet will perform and a champagne reception will be held to benefit the Marin Art and Garden Center at 3:30 p.m. Oct. 6 in the center's memorial amphitheater.

Proceeds for the ticket sale will go for improvements to the hillside amphitheater. Information may be obtained from the center.

Pleads Innocent

Carlos A. Rosete, 18, of San Francisco, pleaded innocent today in Marin Superior Court to a charge of stealing a motorcycle in Sausalito Aug. 14. He was ordered to appear Sept. 23 for setting of a trial date.

State Files Final Brief In Fight To Keep Train

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State of California today filed its closing brief with the Interstate Commerce Commission in opposition to Southern Pacific's dropping the Sunset Limited passenger trains between Los Angeles and New Orleans.

The brief, filed by the California Public Utilities Commission, asked the ICC to find "public convenience and necessity require the continued operation" of the trains.

It also asked the ICC to find that continuing the trains "will not create an undue burden on interstate commerce."

PUC Chief Counsel Mrs. Mary Pajalich said the outcome of the case "is likely to lead to the most important single regulatory agency decision on the future of rail and passenger service . . . At issue is the question of whether the ICC can set minimum standards for the quality of passenger trains and require the railroads provide better service."

Oral arguments will be heard in Washington, beginning Wednesday.

Jurors Listed For Exhibition

The Marin Society of Artists today announced the list of jorors for its 41st annual exhibition of arts and crafts, opening Sept. 29 at the Art and Garden Center, Ross.

Slated to judge entries for acceptance and to award 13 prizes totalling $1150 are, for crafts, Graham Keith of the DeYoung Museum and Dorothy Piercy.

For painting and sculpture the jurors are William Ellsner, Palace of the Legion of Honor, J. Richard Sorby of San Jose State College and Seymour Lockes of San Francisco State College.

The Virgin Islands have had compulsory education since 1848.

Festival Plans Fellowship In Actor's Memory

The Marin Shakespeare Festival has established the Richard Willis Memorial Fellowship in memory of an actor who was killed in an auto accident earlier this year.

The fellowship will go to the actor judged the best of the 1969 season and will be financed with contributions from the public.

Willis died prior to the opening performance of "The Comedy of Errors," in which he was to have starred along with his twin brother, Paul. His brother has played both roles during the past season.

HUBERT HUMPHREY

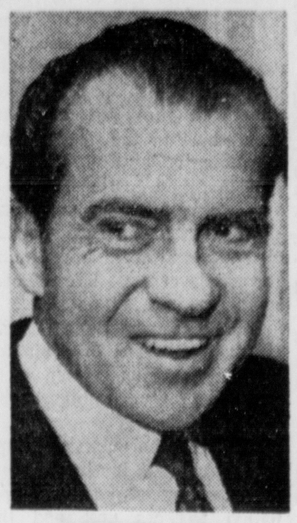
GEORGE WALLACE
Power holder



RICHARD NIXON
No victory

WASHINGTON (AP) — Turn the clock ahead one year and imagine this:

Occupying the White House as acting president is former Maine Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, elected vice president months ago by a heavily Democratic Senate.

There is no president. Up on Capitol Hill the House of Representatives is taking its 100th ballot trying to get a majority for Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey or Republican Richard M. Nixon.

Sound like chaos?

It could happen, thanks to the third party candidacy this year of Alabama's George C. Wallace and quirks in the electoral process that have existed since the nation's infancy.

Here is a rundown on those quirks:

Q. Does anybody really vote for a candidate for president?

A. Effectively yes; technically no. The ballots in theory are for candidates for membership in the Electoral College. So far as the U.S. Constitution is concerned, the members so chosen select the president and vice president.

Q. What is this electoral college?

A. It really exists only on paper and it never does meet as a whole. The members simply get together in their state capitals in December and record their votes. The ballots are forwarded to the secretary of the U.S. Senate to be officially counted at a joint Senate-House session Jan. 6 three days after the newly elected Congress convenes.

Q. What is the makeup of the Electoral College?

A. Each state gets as many electors as it has members in the House and Senate combined, for a count of 435 to equal House membership and 100 more to match the Senate. The District of Columbia, without congressional representation, gets a special allotment of three, making the total College membership 538.

Q. What does it take to win the presidential race?

A. An absolute majority of the electoral votes—270 which is one-half of the total plus one.

Q. How could failure to obtain a majority come about?

A. The best answer comes out of arbitrarily assumed figures. Most observers give Wallace, as a minimum, an excellent chance to win enough states for 35 electoral votes and some go a good deal higher.

Q. What if that or something like it happens?

A. Then the responsibility for picking a president falls on the House and the Senate picks a vice president. The voting starts "immediately" after the official count of ballots Jan. 6.

Q. What is the presidential voting system?

A. Under special constitutional rules the ballot in the House is by states, not by individual members, with one vote per state. Thus New York with 41 members carries no more weight than Wyoming with one. A majority within a state delegation determines where the vote goes and if a delegation is evenly divided that state gets no vote. The selection of a president must be from a list of no more than three candidates who scored highest in electoral votes. Again a majority—26 states—is required to win.

Q. What happens if the third contestant in the House race drains off votes and neither major party candidate gets a majority?

A. The House presumably would vote again and again. But if no decision were made before Jan. 20 when the new White House term begins, the vice president picked by the Senate would take over as acting president. He would stay in until a new chief executive qualified. That could be four years if the house remained deadlocked.

Q. How does the Senate vote for vice president?

A. The choice must be made between the two who won most electoral votes for that office. Again an absolute majority—51 votes—is required. But since the states are already equally represented in the Senate with two members each, there is no special vote-by-states rule.

Q. Has the congressional election process ever been required?

A. Yes, twice. The first time was 1800 when the rules were a bit different. The House had the whole job then, voting on up to five men who had the most electoral votes. The presidency went to the House winner and the runner-up was vice president. It took 36 ballots and furious horse-trading to make Thomas Jefferson president, and he wound up with Aaron Burr, a bitter political enemy, in the No. 2 office.

The rules had been amended to avoid that particular outcome by the time the second House election took place in 1824. The list of bidders for the two offices had been divided and the vice presidential choice assigned to the Senate, just as the system stands now. The upshot was victory for John Quincy Adams over Andrew Jackson who had beaten him in terms of nationwide popular vote. The vice president was John C. Calhoun.

Q. What is the present outlook in case of a congressional election?

A. As to the presidency, it all depends on the House elections of Nov. 5. Right now the Democrats have a majority in 28 delegations, the Republications have 19 and three are evenly divided. If that division continued the Democrats would win.

But the split within delegations is narrow in more than a dozen states. In theory at least, a net pickup of as few as a dozen seats could put the Republicans on top for presidential election purposes. To achieve that with so few victories the GOP would have to do all its winning in states where an overturn of one or two seats would give the party command in the delegation.

With a net gain of 31 seats the Republicans could take control for regular House business. But they could achieve that and still lose the presidency unless the 31 included the seats that would swing delegations.

A Democratic vice president would be almost a mathematical certainty. Not even the most optimistic Republicans sound like they mean it when they talk about upsetting this year the present 63-37 Democratic majority in the Senate.

Recreation Bay Projects Advocated

"Hard-line conservationists are unwittingly setting the stage for defeat" of legislation next year to conserve the bay, supervisorial candidate Donald J. O'Leary declared Saturday.

O'Leary, runoff candidate in the Third District against Michael Wornum of Mill Valley, said citizens should urge the Bay Conservation and Development Commission to "provide for appropriate commercial and recreational development along some bay shoreline.

"Otherwise," he said in a statement, "such developments as the one approved by the Marin County Board of Supervisors for Richardson Bay never will be built."

The preliminary BCDC plan allows fill only for uses that need a bayside location, O'Leary said, "but if we are to clean up and utilize Marin's greatest asset, its bay shoreline, some privately financed commercial-recreation development is absolutely necessary."

He added that some "hard-line conservationists, both on and off the BCDC, seem to be saying, 'Leave the vast amount of shoreline as it is and don't go near the water'."

O'Leary did not identify the hard-liners.

Conventions To Be Discussed

The question of whether the political convention system should be changed will be raised Wednesday at the first membership meeting of the League of Women Voters of Central Marin.

Speakers will be Roger Kent, former Democratic state chairman, and Charles Michaels, chairman of the Marin Republican Central Committee. The will also discuss the structure of their parties.

The meeting will be at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday at the residence of Mrs. Vernon Skewes-Cox, Laurel Grove Avenue, Ross.

Powell Becomes Ill In Pulpit

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Congressman Adam Clayton Powell, pastor of Harlem's Abyssinian Baptist Church, became ill yesterday as he began his sermon entitled "Are you Able?"

Powell, 59, walked from the platform because he felt faint, a church spokesman said. The service was continued by an assistant.

The spokesman said Powell had been suffering from a virus since last Friday.

Powell, a congressman for 22 years, was expelled from the House in 1967 on charges of misusing funds and defying a New York court order in a libel suit.

Elected overwhelmingly after his ouster, Powell did not try to retake his seat. He is seeking reelection again this year.

Park Progress Due Review Tonight

Construction progress and future plans for Pioneer Memorial Park in Novato will be discussed by the Parks and Recreation Advisory Commission at 8 p.m. today in the Novato community house.

The Novato Civic Foundation has done the basic grading on the park through the help of contractors. The commission will see if more work can be done on the park before fall rains.

HIPPIE ANGEL—Donald C. McCoy Jr. chats about the fate of Rancho Olompali, where he is subsidizing a colony of 45 fellow truth-seekers. His daughter Dana, 9, pensively listens. McCoy faces a court action brought by his father and former father-in-law to take control of his waning fortune from him. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

EASE AT OLOMPALI

McCoy Unworried Over His Money

By MARY LEYDECKER

"God will provide," the pantsless angel of a hippie colony near Novato said in an exclusive interview Saturday.

Donald C. McCoy Jr., 37-year-old former real estate investor, seemed unperturbed that he is being sued for control of his wealth on grounds that he wants to give all his money to the hippie establishment he has set up at Rancho Olompali.

McCoy's former father-in-law, Arthur E. Lang of Mill Valley, who was named last week as temporary conservator of the estimated $200,000 remaining in his estate, will seek to make the action permanent in a Sept. 30 hearing.

Clad only in a shirt and reading aloud from a book about Jesus Christ to several of his followers, McCoy was spending Saturday afternoon at the "deer camp" area of his leased 690-acre estate three-quarters of a mile north of Novato.

After putting aside his book and donning his pants, McCoy talked freely but lovingly of Lang, saying that "he is acting in my best interest through love."

Although McCoy indicated that Lang may be "up tight" in not appreciating nor even understanding how the bearded hippie leader spends his money, McCoy said that he's sure the outcome of the court case will be satisfactory to him.

"Sure, some of the people here are worried," he added, referring to the 45 residents now living in communal fashion apparently completely at McCoy's expense.

The worry of some of his followers is due to their not having progressed far enough down the road of truth seeking, he explained.

"Even if they take all the money away, we will continue to exist," he said.

He also said that he has not yet talked to a lawyer about the case himself but added that other people had seen lawyers in his behalf. "When you need an attorney, one always appears," McCoy said.

McCoy included not only his father-in-law but also his former wife Paula, now a resident of the Haight-Ashbury district in San Francisco, in his gestures of love.

"We get along fine — she just likes city life," he explained.

The McCoys' three daughters used to divide their time between their mother and father, but when McCoy leased the ranch, they went there to live.

Although the lease on the ranch costs $1,000 a month, McCoy said that he hopes someday the communal group will become self-sustaining. "We already grow a lot of vegetables and bake our own bread," he said hopefully.

Large numbers of deer roam through the ranch, but McCoy does not allow any hunting. "We are vegetarians and do not believe in killing or eating meat," he explained.

The possibility of his followers taking jobs outside the ranch to provide a source of income horrified McCoy. "That would be joining the Establishment — an impossibility for us," he said.

"You cannot serve God and mammon," he stated.

If worse comes to worst, McCoy continued, he and his "family," which includes 19 children, will just pack up and make other living arrangements. McCoy did not spell out any plans for such an eventuality, indicating that he found no reason to solve problems that had not yet arisen.

While McCoy talked of love and philosophy, his 9-year-old daughter, Dana, curled up against him.

"We have a lot of fun here," the child said, adding that each of the children has a horse. The youngsters studied last year with Garnet Brennan, former Nicasio schoolteacher who was fired after she admitted having smoked marijuana for 18 years.

This year, McCoy said a new teacher, a nun who is a drop-out from the Dominican order at Monterey, has joined the teaching staff. "Sister Mary Norbert had nowhere to go when she left the convent, so she came to us," he explained.

A young man working on a bongo drum he was constructing from a barrel and a hide joined the conversation at this point.

"The children are so happy here now," he said, explaining that when they arrived, they were so "up tight" they didn't want to take their clothes off for nude swimming in the pool, a feature of life on the ranch.

The future of the happy life may be decided when the control of McCoy's fortune, which was partially inherited and mainly accumulated by successful speculation in houseboats, securities and Marin real estate, is settled.

Another Tamalpais Creek Discussion Due Tomorrow

Another discussion of whether plans for diversion of Tamalpais Creek floodwater should be changed in the Corte Madera Creek flood control project is scheduled by the Marin County Board of Supervisors tomorrow.

The item does not appear on the agenda for the board meeting, but supervisors plan to discuss it sometime during the afternoon.

The board will have before it a letter from the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Zone Advisory Board, reiterating that flood control district tax funds should not be used for the $100,000 additional cost of the proposed change. It will also have a letter from Donald R. Frost, county public works director, saying he "cannot disagree with the zone board's policy," and suggesting that not more than $15,000 of county tax funds be used toward the project change.

Frost's letter referred to flooding at the intersection of Rancheria, Gooodhill and Woodland roads, which will not be eliminated by the Tamalpais Creek diversion included in the Army Corps of Engineers' flood control project.

"It is not inconsistent," wrote Frost, to include projects for intersection flood correction in the county road project. He estimated that providing collectors for the intersection flood runoff will cost the county about amount could be used, instead, toward "Plan B," prepared by his office as an alternative to the Tamalpais Creek ditch.

None of the remaining $85,000 should come from the flood control zone, according to the letter from its advisory board.

The letter, signed by Neil R. Brixon, Larkspur vice mayor and advisory board vice chairman, declares:

"We, of the City of Larkspur, in the last three fiscal years have spent a total of $102,422 to take care of our own local drainage needs. Corte Madera has, in the same period, spent $132,617 for the same purpose . . Therefore, if the board feels they are going to allow local flooding projects, whatever they may be, to be charged against Zone 9 (Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Zone), you will be opening up Pandora's box and we will be one of the first to get on the priority list which then would have to be set up."

The board of supervisors had asked the zone advisory board to reconsider its turndown Aug. 30 of a Kent Woodlands request that zone taxes be used for the $100,000 additional cost of the rerouting plan proposed as Plan B by Frost. The board, however, again voted against doing so.

Chairman Ernest N. Kettenhofen of the board of supervisors today disclosed that a map showing purported advantages of "Plan B" was drawn and circulated at his suggestion.

The map, prepared by Frost's office, shows two areas "not protected from flooding by Plan A" and a culvert along Woodland Road as an alternative which would provide the protection. Frost estimated the additional cost at $100,000.

Kettenhofen said he asked Frost what could be done to provide more relief for flooded areas of Kent Woodlands as part of the project, and "Plan B" resulted. Kettenhofen said he was concerned with 300 homes above the Goodhill-Rancheria-Woodlands intersection, since flooding there blocks residents' only route into and out of their homes.

Col. Frank C. Boerger, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers, has said the Army will not contribute toward the additional cost of "Plan B."

Supervisors suggested that the county might use county tax moneys to pay the difference between what (if any) would be contributed by the federal government and what (if any) was raised by Kent Woodlands residents, to provide the covered culvert along Wooldand Road in place of the concrete channel for Tamalpais Creek.

Kettenhofen said today he had been informed that Kent Woodlands residents are circulating pledges toward the cost and expect to raise half of it — $50,000 — as local contribution. He suggested the county could legitmately use $25,000 of road funds, and the federal government might put up $25,000.

Zucker Holds Misquote On Housing Plan

County Planning Director Paul C. Zucker denied today he had said the "county workable program for community improvement is not worth a damn," as quoted in a story on the Marin County Human Rights Commission in Friday's Independent-Journal.

Zucker said, "The document I was actually talking about was one entitled 'Neighborhood Analysis and Code Enforcement Program'."

He said his response to questions on the workable program for community improvement was: "I don't think it's a bad document nor that the county has necessarily been that far behind. In many ways the county has been ahead of many communities in trying to move ahead in some of these programs. This doesn't mean that you (human rights commissioners) think they've gone far enough nor that I think they've gone far enough."

Zucker said Friday's news article had served a useful purpose in stimulating public interest in the issues of low and moderate income housing and social planning in Marin.

New Tiburon Zone Policy Wins Backing

Lots overlooking Keil Cove in Tiburon should be allowed duplex construction if they are at least 4,000 square feet and have a minimum width of 40 feet, the Marin County Planning Commission agreed in principle today.

The commissioners asked County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney to draft an amendment to the Marin County code to that effect for their next meeting Sept. 30.

The area involved are lots on Paradise Drive and Mar East Street from Centro Vistazo and Mar Centro to Tiburon's city limits.

Originally, the planning staff had proposed that the entire area be changed from duplex zoning to single family. The planning staff today suggested that the duplexes be limited to lots at east 4,000 square feet. Of the 42 lots in the area, 12 are below 4,000 square feet and would not qualify for duplex construction.

Commissioners balked at another code amendment suggested by the planning staff, which would establish a new "V" (visual) district to apply to "areas of particular esthetic and/or scenic value." Single family homes are not covered by design review at present, but in the proposed "V" district, design review would apply to single family homes. The matter was delayed until Sept. 30.

Trio Arrested On Arms Charges

Three San Francisco men were arrested Saturday in Sausalito on suspicion of discharging firearms within the city limits and possession of loaded firearms within a city.

They were relased from Marin County Jail on $690 bail each and will be arraigned in Marin Municipal Court at 1:30 tomorrow.

According to a Sausalito police report, officers hearing shots arrived at the quarry at Rodeo and Aita avenues on Wolfback Ridge to find Charles G. Browne, 22; Morris Margoland, 21, and Christopher R. Blake, 23, and four M-1 carbine rifles, a .22-caliber rifle, a shotgun, two automatic pistols and 315 rounds of ammunition.

Three Robbed After Concert In Marin City

As they left the center after 11 p.m., Mrs. Gassie Fitz of San Francisco and Mrs. Ann F. Wallace of 49 Buckelew Street, Marin City, had their purses snatched.

Mrs. Fitz reported that her assailants, three or four boys, knocked her down when they grabbed her purse. Their take was $60 or $70, she said.

Mrs. Wallace said her purse was grabbed by a man. His take was $6-$12, she said.

Arthur W. Wilkie, 53, of 27 Oakdale Avenue, Mill Valley, reported he was waiting in a car on Drave Avenue for two girls at the festival when a man approached, said he had a gun and would kill him. Wilkie said he surrendered $12.

Two Novato Pedestrians Are Injured

Two pedestrians were injured in accidents Saturday in Novato.

Leslie Marie Sherman, 18, of 48 Madeline Court, was reported in good condition today with a lacerated scalp at Marin General Hospital where she was admitted following an accident at 9:15 p.m., Saturday.

According to Novato police, she was crossing South Novato Boulevard at Rowland Boulevard, when struck by a car driven by Curtis Lee Barmby, 20, of Sacramento, northbound on Novato Boulevard.

Dawn Louise Johnson, 4, of 2224 Center Road, Novato, was treated at Novato General Hospital for minor scrapes on both arms, according to the hospital.

She was struck by a motorcycle driven by Stephen Paul Scott, 16, of 65 Paladini Road, Novato, at 6:15 p.m. Saturday in front of her home at 2224 Center Road, according to police.

Bike Path's First Phase Is Ordered

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Construction of the first segment of a bicycle path to stretch someday from Lake Merced in San Francisco to Marin County has been authorized by the San Francisco Recreation and Park Commission.

A $51,705 contract was awarded last week by the commission to Pacific Pavements Co. of San Francisco to build a path from the lake, along Sunset Boulevard to Golden Gate Park, and through the park. Work is expected to take 90 days.

The Army has agreed informally to allow the path to cross the Presidio of San Francisco to the Golden Gate Bridge, and the bridge and highway district directors have asked their staff to prepare plans to accommodate cyclists on the west sidewalk on weekends.

The Marin County Parks and Recreation Commission last Wednesday asked Parks and Recreation Director Pierre W. Joske to study possible bicycle path routes to connect the bridge, Sausalito, Mill Valley and Tiburon, with priority on existing railroad rights-of-way wherever feasible.

Advancement Program That Deserves Emulation

Supt. John F. Plank of San Rafael City Schools has proposed a leadership development program to encourage and help teachers to rise to administrative positions. His plan deserves adoption, and we hope it starts a trend.

Plank proposes that 10 or 12 qualified teachers each year would be selected on the basis of their professional records, personal characteristics, interviews and "examination if desirable." They would then enter a leadership training program for a specific length of time (he suggests three to five years). This would involve assisting administrators, teaching at different grade levels, working with citizen groups and teacher committees, taking appropriate advanced university courses, etc.

From the reservoir of trained talent thus made available, the superintendent hopes to fill future vacancies in the administrative staff of the city schools.

AS LONG AGO as 1961, a staff satisfaction survey conducted by the California Teachers Association disclosed complaints that teachers in San Rafael schools felt they were bypassed for promotion, with jobs on the district staff and as principals, vice principals and deans generally going to outsiders.

This feeling was reiterated in a CTA "personnel standards and ethics" report in 1966, which noted that within a decade, San Rafael High School had three principals — of whom two were from outside the district — and five vice principals.

THE SAME CRITICISM might well be applied to other school districts in Marin County, and to other public jurisdictions as well — including the county itself.

County government has followed two divergent practices. In nearly all cases, hiring for jobs above the rank-and-file has been almost exclusively from outside, with an appearance that "distance lends enhancement" as applicants from the East were more successful in getting the jobs than those from Far West locations. At the same time, the board of supervisors has followed a completely opposite practice in certain cases, automatically promoting the assistant when a man in the top job quit, without any consideration of any other candidate.

Staffs in most of Marin's cities are too small to provide much reservoir of talent for advancement to top jobs. But it is possible. When Donald T. Wood retired as San Anselmo police chief, results of an initial statewide examination were thrown out and an exam given for members of the San Anselmo department only. It is a small department. Only two took the exam. But we think almost any Hub City resident would agree that a nationwide search would have produced no police chief more acceptable to San Anselmo than Raymond R. Buchignani, who got the job.

MUCH OF THE HIRING from outside no doubt results from lack of any program to develop the talent within a school district or a county or city department.

That's why we hope Superintendent Plank's proposal starts a trend.

Late Show — Nature Style

Some Marinites know that the greatest show in the county is seldom on the TV screens, but often occurs in their own back yards. Nature's "Late Show" of raccoons, skunks and other nocturnally inclined creatures is loaded with comedy and drama.

We know some elderly people whose lives are centered about the skunks and raccoons and other wild animals they have befriended. Their interest has made them younger and greatly enriched their retired years.

They feed the animals, know them all as distinct individuals with separate personalities, and have given them names. The nightly show at their houses beats anything on television, provided one is interested in Nature.

AFFAIRS OF STATE

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Nothing in recent years has "shook up" California's politicians, both state and local, more than the proposed Watson Amendment, which goes before the voters in November.

The amendment, proposed through an initiative sponsored by Philip E. Watson, assessor of Los Angeles County, would fix a limit on property taxes eventually reaching one per cent of the market value of the property taxed.

It also provides that property taxes cannot be used for "people related" services, which means education and welfare, where nearly 60 per cent of the property tax now goes.

Thus, if the property taxpayers want to cut education and welfare off at the pockets, it would be up to the state and federal government to provide the funds.

CASPAR WEINBERGER, state director of finance and a former assemblyman, describes the Watson Amendment as "the most dangerous, deceptive and destructive measure to be presented to the voters of California in recent times."

He says it can be compared to the worst of the George McLain initiatives, would effectively destroy local government, weaken the state's water plan, seriously injure the state's credit, and fail to provide an overall tax relief program to the bulk of California's citizens; and he says it would result in a substantial increase in the amount most people would have to pay for state and local government.

THE POLITICIANS have good reason to be frightened over the prospect of passage of Proposition 9, which the Watson Amendment will be on the November ballot.

The people of California are tired of empty promises concerning property tax relief, and they may feel the time has come to take matters iinto their own hands.

The Watson Amendment, however, does not contemplate any reduction in taxes, if the government officials plan to continue education and welfare in the style to which they have been accustomed.

The primary trouble with the Watson proposal is that while it places a limit on property taxes, it makes no provision for limits on other forms of taxation, such as the sales tax and the income tax, which hit the people generally harder than the property tax.

So, as Weinberger says, if the amendment is adopted, "the alternative which obviously will be adopted will be to shift the locally borne share of education and welfare to the state."

TRY AND STOP ME

ITALIAN POLICE have announced that they now propose to arrest men on the streets who annoy good-looking ladies ankling by. This inspired Bob Sylvester to murmur, "Those Romans will do anything for a pinch!" . . . Sylvester also reminds parents that if they suddenly notice a couple of their kids missing, it's possible they forgot to pick them up from summer camp.

"I'm convinced," an eager young criminologist told his chief, "that there's something just a wee bit wrong with our lie detector." "What makes you think so?" asked the indulgent chief. "Well, for one thing," fretted the assistant, "it proved this morning that every elevator operator in that new 90-story building down the avenue should be fired at once because they all get dizzy as soon as they go higher than the 10th floor. And this afternoon, it proved that every worker at Boeing's aircraft plant has been sneaking home at least once a week with a jet plane stashed away under his uniform!"

Frank Interlandi, who draws "The Cynic's Corner," is on vacation.

"Fortissimo!"

Former Marinite Praises Storer

Recently you mentioned in an article on Supervisor (Thomas T.) Storer that I, a non-resident of Marin County, was supporting his re-election.

I was a resident of Marin county for 18 years, and am still a taxpayer, and also as a member of the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission, am ipso facto interested.

Supervisor Storer has been an outstanding public officer and his honesty, energy and talents are needed in political life. Marin County needs industry, recreation facilities, good transport for people, and needs young, capable, energetic people in public office. It has too long been dominated by the old gentry.

Question Spending On Wrong Ditch

Reference: "What's So Different About Kent Woodlands?" (Sept. 6).

Your editorial, though well meant, misses the issue. The question is not whether Kent Woodlands got a free ditch, and now wants a lid on it. The question is whether we should pour massive federal tax dollars into the wrong ditch.

The sole purpose of the open ditch is to satisfy a technical requirement of the master flood control plan, and has little, if anything, to do with local flood problems.

Kent Wooklands wasn't even aware that this ditch was in the master plan until the 11th hour, at which time it came to our attention almost by accident. Ross, Larkspur and Corte Madera being corporate entities had adequate notice on the open ditches in their areas, and were able to make a considered decision on same. Kent Woodlands, on the other hand, did not even have a homeowners association when the main hearings were held; and we have yet to find anyone who can recall whether the open ditch in our area was even discussed at these hearings.

The Army Engineers have now proposed an alternative system under Woodland Road which will protect their master system as well or better than the original plan, and will also give some real flood relief to the people of Kent Woodlands, Kentfield, College Park, College of Marin and in fact, to anyone who has a need to pass through this general area during the rainy season.

In the meantime, we are not passing the hat to our neighbors, nor are the county supervisors doing this for us. (Although there is a question as to "local benefits" accruing to incorporated areas in Flood Zone Nine, which may be paid for in part by unincorporated areas such as Kent Woodlands.)

In closing, Sir, there has been a solid response from our own residents toward contributing to this extra cost; and with a little luck we are going to get the job done correctly. Won't you at least give us your moral support?

Kiwanis Proud Of All-Star Game

On behalf of the Ross Valley Kiwanis Club, we would like to express our appreciation to your paper for the excellent coverage and complimentary articles you wrote about the Ross Valley Kiwanis all-star football game.

We would especially like to thank Jim Gilmartin and his staff writers, Ralph Chatoian and Gary Tischler for their interest and help in making this game such a success.

The Kiwanis all-star football game is rapidly becoming an institution in Marin County. We Ross Valley Kiwanians are proud to be the sponsor of such a worthwhile event.

The profits from this game will enable us to continue our work with the youth of Marin and charity.

In the process of thanking people who contributed to our success, we must make special note of 48 young men, who practiced hard for 12 days, then on Aug. 22 played their hearts out in an excellent game. Surely, this follows the motto of our game, "Tomorrow's leaders play hard, so that present ones may serve."

Second Look Too Much For Tax 'Cut' Proposal

(Reprinted from Riverside Press-Enterprise)

Early in April the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors got mousetrapped into voting a 4-1 endorsement of Los Angeles County Tax Assessor Philip Watson's proposed tax amendment — Proposition 9 on the November ballot.

Recently by a 3-2 vote, the Los Angeles supervisors reversed their April stand in a resolution that attacked Proposition 9 as a "most deceptive" measure. And properly so. The case against the amendment is extremely formidable.

INVOKED in the name of property tax relief, the Watson plan would scramble the fiscal affairs of California and generate some serious side effects also.

The rigidity of the proposal — an absolute limit on property taxes of 1 per cent of market value and on outstanding long-term borrowing of 29 per cent of assessed value — would hamstring many agencies both in operations and in capital development, particularly since the plan specifies no replacement revenue.

It has been estimated that replacing the lost revenue would require either trebling the income tax or raising the sales tax to 12 cents. For the most part this money would come from the earnings or the purchases of the same people who now pay property taxes. What they were allowed to retain in the right pocket would be taken our of the left pocket — in some cases more, too. The real gain would be mainly to owners of large commercial properties and to out-of-state-owners who do not pay California income or sales taxes.

THE WORST of the side effects could spring from Mr. Watson's proposal for a five-year phaseout of spending property taxes for anything but "property-related" purposes. Responsibility for education, health, welfare and other "people-related" services would be shifted to the state level. The conservative who instinctively jumps at any promise to reduce his tax bill is faced with the shattering loss of local control of schools.

It is small wonder that the Los Angeles County supervisors took a second look at the Watson proposal — small wonder, too, that the Los Angeles City Council and the Los Angeles School Board went on record against it, too. Assessor Watson is clearly a prophet without honor in his own county, at least in respect to this issue.

Pressure Put On Nixon To Disavow Foes Of Fortas

WASHINGTON — Richard Nixon is under increasing pressure to divorce himself from the powerful forces on the right blocking the confirmation of Abe Fortas to be chief justice of the United States.

Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, the first Negro to sit in the Senate since Reconstruction who is Richard Nixon's Exhibit A to establish his link with Negro voters, is urging Nixon to call off the Republicans. He is advising him to follow a face-saving strategy that would in all probability insure Fortas' confirmation.

NIXON'S POSITION is that the President should have let his successor, whether it is Nixon or Hubert Humphrey, name a chief justice to succeed Earl Warren. But he has also said that the Senate should pass on Fortas. That is presently not possible, however, with 17 to 20 Republicans linked with Southern Democrats determined to filibuster long enough to prevent a vote which would, it is indicated by an Associated Press poll, go for Fortas.

Brooke is telling Nixon that to ask the Republicans to let the confirmation come to a vote will not be backing down from his initial stand. What is more, if he makes this clear publicly he will reassure the minorities who feel that Nixon is part of a conspiracy to block the first Jewish chief justice.

But whether Nixon will go counter to opinion inflamed by the rightist groups is debatable. Most senators, including those favoring the Fortas nomination, say their mail is running heavily against confirmation.

MANY LETTERS repeat the charges put out in a mailing of 280,000 by the most potent of these groups, the Liberty Lobby, it calls Fortas a "convinced revolutionary in deadly earnest" who is "well qualified to guide this once-free and independent nation down the final pathway to the Communist tyranny that awaits."

W. B. Hicks Jr., Liberty Lobby's shrewd executive secretary, says that if it appears likely the nomination will get to a floor vote he intends to launch a nationwide newspaper ad campaign on the obscenity issue. A southern congressman has called Fortas "Mr. Obscenity," and the effort is to make it appear that Fortas, by a swing vote, has caused the court to throw out obscenity convictions.

In all this there are overtones of the McCarthyist (Joe) era and guilt by association. Those were the undertones of Nixon's early career as a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee and a cold war warrior. The memory of those beginning Nixon years troubles many of his current followers who, like Brooke, fear the Fortas attack is the start of a new wave of character assassination.

OFFICIALS of the American Bar Association and law deans in various parts of the country are worried that the authority of the courts and particularly the Supreme Court will be further weakened. Joseph O'Meara, dean emeritus of the Notre Dame Law School, points out in a letter to the Washington Post that the two obscenity cases on which the Fortas attack concentrates were decided on points of law and not on substance. Four deans of law schools in prominent universities signed the O'Meara letter.

In Nixon's dilemma — if indeed for him it is a dilemma — he must face the stern opposition to Fortas of some of his devoted political engineers. Foremost on this list is Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, who is credited with rounding up the Southern delegate strength that made Nixon's first-ballot nomination at Miami Beach inevitable. When Fortas was testifying before the Senate Judiciary Committee, Thurmond directed a furious barrage at him.

An editorial in the Oklahoma City Oklahoman, headed 'Nixon Owes a Debt to Thurmond,' suggested that the South Carolina senator's name might enter into speculation for chief justice under Nixon as President. That would insure Earl Warren staying on as chief, the editorial added.

There are many ways under the Senate's complicated procedure to block the Fortas nomination. But if the holdup succeeds the consequences will be felt for a long time to come both on the court and in the politics of 1968 and after.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Johnson Alone Blocks Sale Of Jets To Israel

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — One man alone — President Lyndon Johnson — is blocking the sale of 50 A-4 Phantom fighter-bombers to Israel.

Vice President Humphrey and former Vice President Nixon have publicly advocated making these supersonic planes available to Israel. In July, both branches of Congress overwhelmingly approved a resolution urging this. The Republican and Democratic platforms favor it. And top Pentagon and CIA authorities have recommended it.

But the President has turned a deaf ear.

HE DID IT AGAIN last week in an unannounced meeting with two top Israel officials: former Gen. Wigal Allon, now deputy prime minister, and Ambassador Yitzhak Rabin, chief of staff during the six-day war in 1967.

Their conference with the President was strictly secret. They entered and left the White House by a side entrance. Present at this carefully unpublicized meeting were Walt Rostow, special foreign affairs adviser to the President, and Lucius Battle, assistant secretary of state for the Near East.

In renewing Israel's long-standing request to buy 50 A-4s, Allon and Rabin stressed the following:

EGYPT AND SYRIA, as a result of massive rearming by Russia, now have a 6 to 1 superiority to Israel in supersonic war planes. Also, there are estimated to be 12,000 Russian pilots and crewmen training the Arabs and operating the jets. All TU-16 medium jet bombers in Egypt are manned by Russians, although bearing Egyptian markings.

Since the six-day conflict in the spring of 1967, Israel has not received a single supersonic plane from any source. DeGaulle has refused to turn over 50 Mirage IVs, bought and paid for. The only planes Israel has been able to purchase are 50 F-4 subsonic fighters.

In the day-long artillery fighting that raged recently along the Suez Canal, Russian officers commanded Egyptian batteries. They used highly sophisticated electrical and radar sighting and aiming equipment, and the firing was the most accurate ever received from the Egyptian side.

The only word they got from the President was the "matter is still under study." That's what he has been saying to all inquirers and pleaders for more than a year.

Administration insiders credit the President's obdurance to three reasons: His burning desire to reach some kind of a detente with the Kremlin rulers before leaving office; an equally deep-rooted desire to maintain a position of being able to exert pressure on Israel; and the potent influence of Secretary Rusk, who feels the U. S. should seek to moderate Arab hostility toward this country.

BLACK IMPERIALIST — Stokely Carmichael's recent expulsion from the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee was the climax of a long and bitter backstage power struggle — in which he lost out to James Forman and Lester McKinnie.

Definitely playing a role in Carmichael's ouster was a fist fight between him and Forman in the SNCC New York office.

At the meeting of SNCC leaders where it was decided to expel Carmichael, it was charged that while he rants and rails against U. S. imperialism and capitalism, he had taken to living like a capitalist since his marriage to African singer Miriam Makeba.

Watson Amendment Likely To Pass, Say County Officials

The concensus among county officials is that Proposition 9 (Watson Amendment) on the Nov. 5 ballot has a good chance of passage.

It is easy to argue in its favor and difficult to refute.

The proposition calls for a gradual drop in property taxes so that by July of 1973, property taxes would be limited to one per cent of the market value. That's about one-half what properties now pay. Who is going to object to cutting property taxes by one half or more?

Proponents can merely ask: Don't you want property taxes cut in half? Then, vote for the amendment. What they don't answer is who is going to make up the deficit.

PRESUMABLY, the state will pay for people-related services like schools and welfare. But the state's financial capacity depends on the same taxpayers who would have their property taxes reduced. The end result would be lower property taxes, but higher taxes elsewhere.

The Watson Amendment does not specify where the other taxes will be levied. It could be on sales, income, corporations, businesses or countless other areas.

The California Taxpayers Association, which has traditionally championed lower taxes, is viewing the Watson Amendment with alarm.

Arlen K. Bean, research director of the association, spoke at the Civic Center two weeks ago and ventured a few guesses on where the other taxes would hit.

If property taxes will not be used to support schools and welfare and other "people-related" services, then the state may have to double the sales tax, double the income tax, and triple the cigarette tax, said Bean.

Robert C. Brown, executive vice president of the same taxpayers association, figures that if income taxes are to replace the lost property taxes, they must go up three times. Or if sales taxes are used as replacement, they'll have to more than double—roughly 11 cents on the dollar.

IN OTHER WORDS, there will be less collected locally, and more by the state. And dollars, collected by the state and funneled back down for local use, have a habit of being decimated en route in bureaucratic red tape. For a dollar collected, we'll get only a portion back.

Many questions remain unanswered. For example, of the one per cent tax levy on property, who is going to decide how that limited revenue is going to be distributed to the counties, cities, and districts?

When you contemplate the various consequences, Proposition 9 is not such a good idea after all. But the prospect of having property taxees cut in half is so attractive that the Watson Amendment is likely to pass.

FROM THE WIDESPREAD interest in bicycle trails, it's quite possible that the bicycle as a mode of transportation and recreation may be making a comeback, at least among the adult group.

We may witness a strange phenomenon, where the teen-aged set (who won't be caught dead riding a bike to school) monopolize the family's three cars, while parents and grandmothers hop on their bikes to go to work and on the weekend outings.

May not be a bad idea at that. Most of us could use some cycling, along with the 50-mile hike popularized by Kennedy.

New Version Of Body Count As Candidates Start Campaign

WASHINGTON — Now that the presidential election campaign is off and running, we are starting to get our first reports on crowd estimates. Estimating the size of crowds that come out for a presidential candidate is one of the most exacting sciences there is, and can have a tremendous psychological effect on the outcome of the election.

I talked to Selwyn Shacainery, the best-known crowd estimator in the country, the other day. He said, "Crowdwise, the 1968 presidential campaign should be as interesting as any in American history.

"WHY IS THAT?" I asked him.

"You've got added factors this year that you haven't had before. In the past you assumed that most of the people who turned out for a presid presidential candidate were for him. But this year you may have more people turn out to demonstrate against the candidate than to hear what he has to say."

"Will you include the demonstrators as part of the crowd estimation?"

"You have to. A crowd's a crowd and I'm not concerned what their reasons are for being there. My job is to estimate the number and if I can come within an accurate figure, give or take 100,000, then I've done my job."

"IT THERE THAT much leeway in crowd estimating?"

"That's not a lot when you've got an election at stake. Before the age of the professional crowd estimator, the news media were dependent on crowd figures given out by the police. In a Democratic city a Republican was always shortchanged, and in a Republican city the Democratic candidate was given a bad count.

"But now, thanks to the science of crowd counting, it's impossible for any hanky-panky to take place. Each candidate hires his own crowd estimator and the figures are official."

"But if you're paid by a presidential candidate, aren't your totals suspect?"

"Absolutely not. All licensed crowd estimators take an oath that they will tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, so help them God. Our ethical standards are very high and if we find anyone overestimating a crowd he can be demobbed."

"HOW DO YOU go about estimating a crowd during a presidential campaign?"

"First you check the route the candidate is going to take. Then you multiply the width of the sidewalk by length and you figure how many bodies this will hold. You add this to the square of the plaza where the candidate is scheduled to speak, and then you add 10 per cent to whatever figure the opposing presidential candidate claimed he pulled in that city. Once you get the total you immediately give it out to the press."

"You really have to be an expert," I said in amazement.

"It's very specialized," Shacainery admitted. "Most presidential candidates like to go through a city at lunch hour, and this complicates the count because you really can't count people who are going to lunch or part of the crowd, can you?"

"I guess you can't."

"WELL THAT'S how wrong you are," he said. "If anyone chooses to go to lunch when the candidate's in town, he gets counted whether he likes it or not."

"Then if you're a Republican and Humphrey comes to town, the best thing to do is to keep off the streets until he leaves."

"That's true. And if you're for Humphrey and Nixon comes to town, I wouldn't even look out of the winddow."

Soil District Budget Cut Protest Planned

Directors of the Marin County Soil Conservation District are protesting county supervisors' action in cutting the district's 1968-69 budget from the requested $1,500 to $570.

Recording secretary Matt H. Klemmer said the directors feel the sum is "totally inadequate for the district to operate efficiently."

The board at its meeting Thursday prepared a list of projects citing the federal and state aid the county has received through the district. The list includes $4,900 for preparing soils reports and master maps for the Nicasio area and the Bolinas watershed; a $10,000 grant for a drainage and sediment master plan on Lagunitas and Walker creek watersheds; a pending $25,000 state grant for a survey of Walker Creek reservoir, a $5,000 general soils survey prepared last year; and a pending $60,000 survey and report prepared by the federal soils service.

prepared by the federal sails service.

Without the soil district, the county would have received none of the assistance listed, Klemmer said.

The list of projects will be submitted to the supervisors in an attempt to win a budget increase.

The district was commended this week in a letter from U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman to board chairman Waldo Giacomini. Freeman praised the board's "progressive action in updating the soil and water conservation program" as "an important initial step in helping private land-owners move forward more effectively with their resource conservation and development effort."

Why RCA is first in Color TV sales—and why it is your best buy now.

RCA spent $130,000,000 to develop, perfect and launch color TV. No other manufacturer offers so much bred-in-the-blood experience. RCA introduced integrated circuitry to color TV to give added dependability. RCA introduced the first family-size color portable—the 14" diag. tube model. RCA was the first to bring integrated circuitry to Automatic Fine Tuning for greater reliability. RCA pioneered the color tube that became the standard of the industry. One look will tell you why—it delivers the most vivid, natural colors found outside of nature itself. And it is so reliable, we back it with a new 2-year warranty!

New 2-year warranty!
RCA guarantees to the original retail purchaser that we will exchange, through the RCA distributor-dealer organization, the color picture tube in this TV if we find it to have been defective, under normal use in the U.S.A., within two years of the purchase date. RCA rebuilt replacement tubes will be used, and they will be covered for the unexpired portion of the two year period. Service, labor and transportation charges, as well as damage resulting from causes beyond our control, are the purchaser's responsibility.

SUMMONS
(General)
No. 51839

Superior Court of the State of California for the County of Marin.

JOAN CLAIRE MAHAN, Plaintiff vs.
JOHN RICHARD MAHAN, Defendant

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA to the above named Defendant:

You are directed to file with the clerk of this court in which the above entitled action is brought a written pleading in response to the complaint within ten days after the service on you of this summons, if served within the above named county, or within thirty days if served elsewhere (except that if the action is against the state pursuant to Section 738.5 of the Code of Civil Procedure, within 180 days). You are notified that unless you so file a written responsive pleading, the plaintiff will take judgment for any money or damages demanded in the complaint, as arising upon contract, or will apply to the court for any other relief demanded in the complaint.

You may seek the advice of an attorney on any matter connected with the complaint or this summons. Such attorney should be consulted within the time limit stated in this summons for filing a written pleading to the complaint.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Sleep Needs Vary Great Deal For Men, Women, Age, Jobs

VAN DELLEN

Some consider six hours of sleep enough for a man, seven for a woman, and eight for a fool. Recent studies in Liverpool, England, demonstrated that there is little truth to the statement. Statistics were obtained from 240 normal British volunteers, 20 men and 20 women in each decade, from the 20s to the 70s.

Women seemed to require less sleep time than men, especially those in the 50s, who had the most trouble sleeping at night. Eight hours was the exception, rather than the rule.

APPROXIMATELY 72 per cent slept less than eight hours, and 19.6 per cent, less than seven. In contrast, 27 per cent needed more than eight hours, and five per cent, nine or more. As a rule, age is a more important factor than sex.

The average amount of sleep obtained per 24-hour period declined from the 20s to the 50s; rose to a maximum in the 60s, and fell again in the 70s.

We often hear that the elderly do not need so much sleep because of inactivity, but the survey did not bear this out. Most oldsters awaken frequently at night. Yet they manage to get as much, if not more, sacktime than the young or middle-aged.

OLDER PERSONS retire earlier, awaken later, and take midday naps. Of those between 20 and 29 years of age, only 40 per cent took one siesta or more; whereas 80 per cent, 70 or older enjoyed this privilege.

Napping comprised five per cent of the total sleep in the oldest age groups.

Younger persons are more likely to remain awake during the day, but the pattern is altered with advancing years.

Catching sleep whenever possible becomes a necessity in order to achieve the amount needed. This situation is common after retirement or when occupational or social pressures are reduced.

THE EXPRESSION that only fools need eight hours of sleep probably stems from the fact that active, ambitious individuals either cannot get this much, or do not want to waste time sleeping.

These eager beavers usually make up the deficit on weekends or when vacationing. Many also have the ability to catnap at the drop of a hat.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J).

BLUE HALF-MOONS

A reader writes: What causes blueness of the half-moons on the fingernails?

REPLY

Conditions that interfere with circulation or a disturbance of the heart or lungs. Changes in color also occur when there are too many red blood cells (polycythemia). I assume you are not looking at your nails through a fluorescent light. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on nail disorders.

STIMULANT

G. E. writes: Can I safely take an appetite depressant (amphetamine) and a tranquilizer at the same time?

REPLY

Yes. Both are prescription products and your physician must have had a good reason for advising you to take these medications.

TONIC, APPETITE

I. N. writes: Is it necessary to take a tonic to put on weight?

REPLY

Not necessarily, but such a preparation often helps stimulate appetite. Tonics vary from vitamin B complex to elixirs containing alcohol.

MARRYING A MORON

A reader writes: If a person with normal intelligence marries a moron, what are the chances that their offspring will inherit the mental defect?

REPLY

Better than 50-50 because anyone who marries a moron cannot be too bright.

HORMONES

Mrs. J. writes: One of my lady friends is taking hormones. The doctor prescribed this medication for the menopause but now my friend is having a problem with excess hair. Do you think taking these tablets would re-thatch my roof? I am 69, and if my crown of glory would return, my appearance would be much more youthful.

REPLY

When a hormone becomes a hairmone, it should work, but I doubt if it will. Why not get the opinion of your friend's physician?

SURGERY

Miss L. writes: If a woman develops a fibroid tumor, must her uterus come out?

REPLY

No. The decision depends upon the size and location of the tumor and whether it is causing symptoms. Age also is a factor because fibroids tend to shrink after the menopause. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on fibroid tumors of the uterus.

THYROID

S. D. writes: Is it safe to take thyroid extract without the doctor's prescription? Also, is it good for hair or nails that don't grow enough?

REPLY

Thyroid is a potent drug and should not be taken without supervision. In addition, its usage constitutes too great a risk, considering your reasons for wishing to try it.

MUSCULAR PAIN

P. A. writes: Is there any cure for sore muscles? The doctor diagnosed this as myofibrositis.

REPLY

EXERCISES

R. S. writes: Is there anything a person can do for himself when he suffers from flatfoot? When my feet get tired, the small of my back also is painful. I wear the best shoes that money can buy.

REPLY

Improving your posture, learning to walk properly, and strengthening the feet may help, assuming of course, that these need correcting. If simple measures fail, you ought to consult an orthopedic specialist who may recommend placing a corrective bar on the bottom of the shoe. This device lessens the stress placed on the extremities. We have a leaflet on flatfoot which gives some exercises that might relieve your distress. It can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

BONE TUMOR

REPLY

Today's Health Hint—

Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation should be started immediately in drownings.

Road Department Given Trophy For No Accidents

The Marin County road department has won a trophy for having the best accident-free record among seven North Coast counties from April through June.

The North Coast region of the County Engineer Association will send the trophy, a replica of a motor grader, to the department for having no lost time accidents during the second quarter.

"The accident-free record is largely due to the efforts of E. H. (Al) Lindelli, road superintendent, and foremen Anthony Machado, Lester Reeser, and Frank Tamba," said Michael King, assistant director of public works.

The road department has 52 employees. Other counties in the region are Del Norte, Humboldt, Mendocino, Lake, Napa and Sonoma.

Plans Sought For Auditorium

Various organizations which will ultimately use the Veterans Memorial Auditorium and fairgrounds site at Civic Center will be asked to submit planned activities and how they propose to use the site.

The Civic Center Committee, headed by County Administrator Alan Bruce, has asked the Fair-Marin board to set up a committee to contact those organizations.

Mrs. T. J. McWatters Jr., a director of Fair-Marin, said she would take the request to Fair-Marin delegates at a general meeting set for 8 p.m. today at Civic Center.

Oak Manor Gutter Fill On Long Supervisor Agenda

Marin County supervisors will tackle a series of controversial topics tomorrow, including a request to realign the Corte Madera Creek Flood Control project to Kent Woodlands, and Oak Manor's resistance to removal of gutter fill.

The flood control discussion is set for 11:15 a.m., and the Oak Manor battle at 1:45 p.m.

Also set for 1:45 p.m. is the county administrator's report on three bids received for emergency ambulance service in Marin. The bidders were United Ambulance, Doctors Ambulance and Patient Transportation Service of Pasadena.

The supervisors face a 44-item agenda, starting at 9 a.m., on the third floor of the Civic Center.

Some of the morning items are appointments to vacancies on the personnel commission, county parks and recreation commission and the building code board of appeals; conversion of employees of the Community Mental Health Center to the Marin General Hospital District and a new way to determine reimbursement from parents of court wards assigned to children's homes.

Probation officer Walter H. Busher recommends that the county revenue officer discuss the amount of reimbursement with parents when an out-of-home placement is ordered by the court.

In the afternoon, supervisors will discuss the current crackdown on illegal houseboats in Richardson Bay, hold a hearing on the county's annual "workable program for community improvement," and discuss a revised fee schedule for subdivision maps and building permits.

Thomas D. Hardcastle of Novato will report on his forthcoming resignation from the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District board.

Bel Aire Estates Property Owners will ask for formation of a county service area for recreation, and supervisors will discuss bids for partitions in the Hall of Justice and the administration building.

Coin Club Meeting

The Marin Coin Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Mill Valley Methodist Church, Alto and Sycamore avenues. Club member Robert Foster will talk on the San Francisco Mint.

No Objection To Dock Plans

The Army Corps of Engineers has reported it has received no resident objections to an application by a Belvedere man to drive pilings and build a house and floating dock off Belvedere Island.

The corps said, however, it still awaits approval of the plans by the State Resources Agency. It was not known when this would come.

The applicant is H. Morgan Noble of 67 West Shore Road, who proposes to build the home offshore, fronting West Shore Road about halfway along the west side of the island on Richardson Bay.

Mill Valley Plan Hearing Scheduled

The Mill Valley Planning Commission will hold a public hearing on the proposed 701 general plan for the city's three commercial areas at 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall.

The 701 plan for the downtown, Miller Avenue and Alto Center business areas was prepared by the San Francisco planning firm of Sedway and Cooke in consultation with Duncan and Jones, Berkeley planning consultants.

More than one-fourth of the total energy consumed in the United States comes from Texas oil and gas wells.

Champagne Time In St. Louis

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Curt Flood's champagne spray gave the St. Louis Cardinals that heady feeling again before Cincinnati's George Culver officially popped the cork.

Flood's five-hit spree in a 7-4 victory at Houston yesterday got the Cardinals' National League pennant party off to an early start.

But the champagne stayed on ice for one anxious hour before word arrived from the West Coast that Cincinnati had eliminated the second place San Francisco Giants 4-0 on Culver's four-hitter.

Then the bubbly flowed as the Cardinals celebrated their second successive flag and third in the last five years.

"It's good to be right on the scene when this is going on," said General Manager Bing Devine, who rejoined the Cardinals this season after three years with the New York Mets.

"This is the game you wait for from March 1st on," said Flood, whose five singles in five trips to the plate raised his batting average six points to .302.

Yesterday's victory, coupled with San Francisco's loss to the Reds, sent the Cardinals 12½ games ahead of the Giants, who have just 12 to play.

Pittsburgh trimmed New York 3-0 on Steve Blass' two-hitter, the Chicago Cubs blanked Philadelphia 4-0 behind Ferguson Jenkins and rookie George Stone hurled Atlanta past Los Angeles 5-2 in other N.L. games.

Southpaw Steve Carlton pitched the Cardinals to their biggest victory of the year, surviving Houston's 11 hits, including Jim Wynn's two-run homer, to bring his record to 13-11.

Flood and Roger Maris, who knocked in three runs with his fifth homer and a sacrifice fly, paced the Cardinals' 15-hit barrage against Don Wilson, 13-15, and three Houston relievers.

Carlton fell behind 2-1 when Wynn unloaded his 23rd homer in the first inning, but Flood's second hit and Maris' homer sent the Cards ahead to stay in the third. Orlando Cepeda drilled a two-run single in the fifth and the champs added two more runs in the sixth on Flood's bases-loaded single and Maris' sacrifice fly.

Blass, 16-5, struck out 10 Mets and drove in two of the Pirates' runs with singles in the second and fourth innings.

Billy Williams doubled in two Chicago runs and Adolfo Phillips homered, helping Jenkins, 18-14, breeze past the Phillies with an eight-hitter.

Stone nailed his seventh victo-

Collier Fired After Raiders Bomb Bills

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) —Minutes after the defending American Football League champion Oakland Raiders trounced the Buffalo Bills, 48-6 yesterday, Bills' coach Joe Collier got the word — "meet Mr. Wilson at the hotel."

He also got it at the private meeting — he was fired.

Ralph C. Wilson Jr., Buffalo's owner, later announced through a spokesman that Harvey Johnson, the Bills' director of player personnel since 1962, had been named to succeed Collier. Johnson, 49, took over immediately.

Collier, 36, became Buffalo's coach at the end of the 1965 season when Lou Saban, now general manager and coach of the Denver Broncos, resigned to become coach at Maryland. Saban had led Buffalo to two AFL championships.

In his first season as head coach, Collier directed Buffalo to the AFL Eastern Dividion title but lost to Kansas City in the championship game. Last season, the injury-plagued Bills turned in a 4-10 record and this year lost to Boston last week and Oakland yesterday.

The Raiders, sparked by rookie defensive back George Atkinson, got a quick jump on Buffalo and compiled their 48 points on six touchdowns, 22 and 9-yard field goals by George Blanda and Blanda's six extra points.

Soon after the game began, Atkinson gathered in the first of Paul Maguire's 10 punts and raced 86 yards down the right sideline for a touchdown. Atkinson returned five punts in all for 205 yards, an AFL game record. He also brought back one kickoff for 25 yards.

Oakland also scored on Pete Banaszak's 8-yard run, a 57-yard pass from Daryle Lamonica, once Buffalo's backup quarterback, to Warren Wells, Hewritt Dixon's 17-yard sprint around left end, and 11 and 31-yard runs by Larry Todd.

	Raiders	Bills
First downs	20	14
Rushing yardage	210	210
Passing yardage	201	—19
Return yardage	225	38
Passes	11-32-0	5-26-0

JIM GILMARTIN

Fundamental Lesson By Coach Dick Nolan

LONG SEASON — There's a Morrall to this story, an Earl Morrall. And who said Unitas we stand, divide us we fall: Pure fantasy.

It seems all the Baltimore Colts must do to beat the 49ers is throw their helmets out on the field. San Francisco's athletes roll over and play dead at the mere thought of playing those big bruisers from Maryland; at least they have the last 12 times they have met.

Their number one quarterback, a guy named John Unitas, was hurt and unable to play so the Colts threw in a 49er castoff, Earl Morrall to do the job. They could have used Little Orphan Annie, Simon and Garfunkel or Gov. Spiro Agnew with as much success.

I got the impression from viewing the video box that the Colts are a very good football team, but not THAT good. The 49ers' performance yesterday could make the Sausalito yo-yo team look like world champs.

Can't Get Any Worse

Forty-Niner Dick Nolan's NFL debut as head coach is bound to give him nightmares. The only consolation is that his team has nowhere to go but up. It can't get any worse.

I can just see the team practicing this week. Coach Nolan will say something about "Back to fundamentals" and proceed to lecture the team.

"Now, men," he will start off, "this oblate spheroid is known as a football. Remember that, because it is an important part of this sport we're paying you to play. Now the idea is to hang onto the ball. When that wealthy young man over there wearing No. 12 on his jumper throws it to you, hang onto it. You are not supposed to drop it, like you did at least four times Sunday.

No Piggyback Rides

"And, another thing, men, is that when the opposition has the ball you are supposed to tackle the ball carrier, not ride him piggyback. Now, the proper and accepted manner of tackling is to wrap both arms around the runner's legs and make him fall down and go boom. Got it? This is not touch tackle football like you played Sunday, but real down to earth TACKLE football.

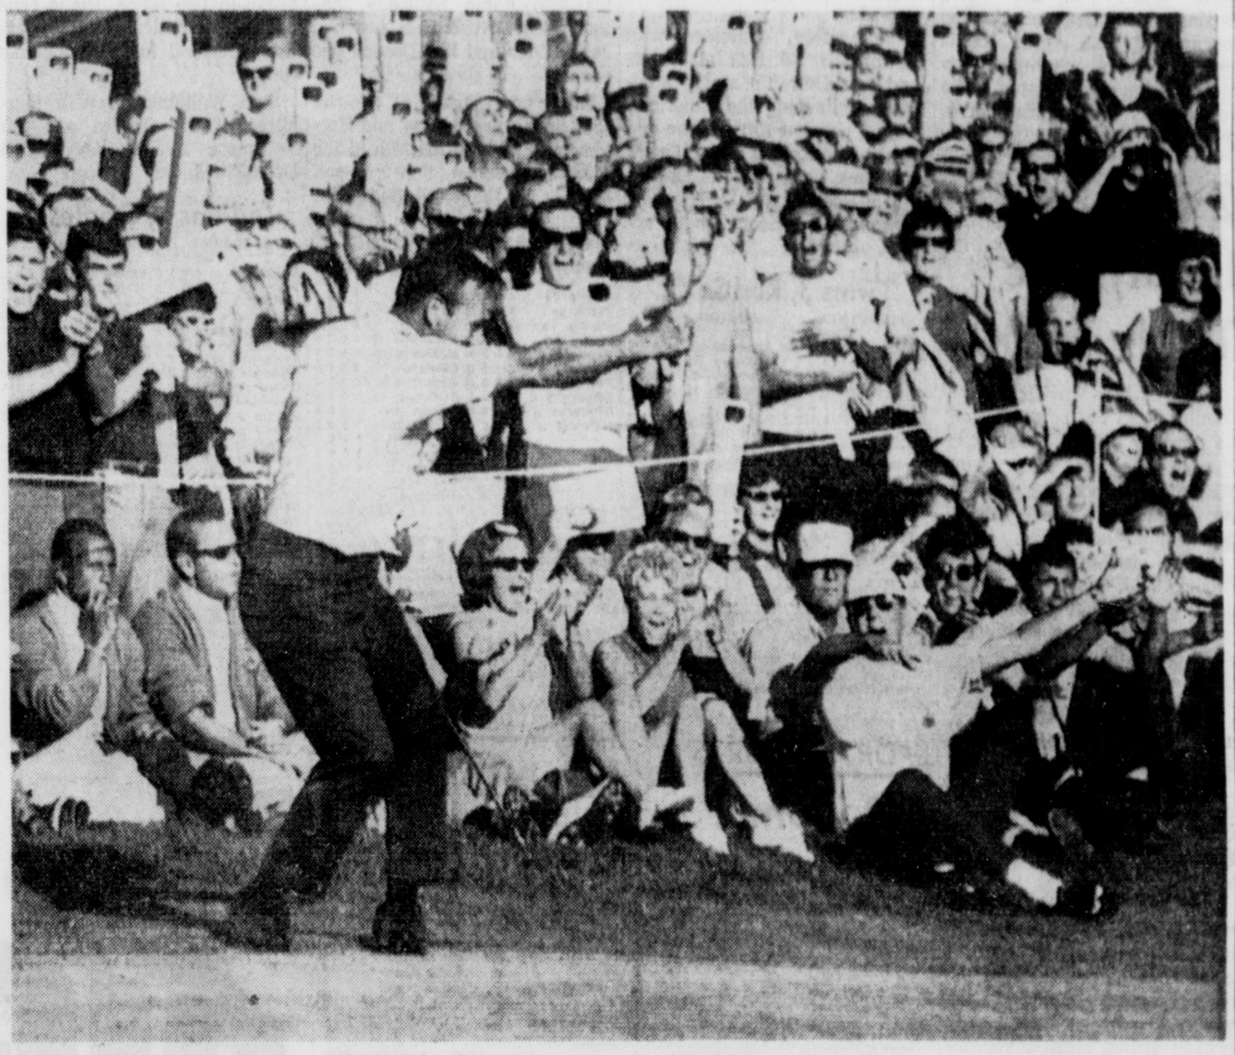
"Another important item in this sport is learning to count. You know, one-two-three-four. Now when you gentlemen put your heads together in what we call a huddle, handsome, wealthy number 12 over there will whisper a secret number to you. Remember it, because that number is very important. It means that when number 12 yells that number at the line of scrimmage, the center will snap the ball and the play will start. Sunday, a number of you gentlemen started before number 12 yelled the secret number and that is naughty because those men in the striped shirts penalized us.

It's No Fun This Way

"Oh, there are a few other fundamentals you gentlemen overlooked Sunday, like blocking, for example. The idea is to push the opposition out of the way so that our ball carrier can move forward without being tackled. We didn't execute the vital part of the game very well Sunday, because our offensive team did not score one single, silly little old touchdown. I may have overlooked that phase of the game in my earlier lectures, gentlemen, but the whole idea of this game is to score more points than the other team. Gee, whiz, you guys, it's no fun when the other team gets to score all the points.

"Well, I guess that covers most of the fundamentals, gentlemen. Now you be good boys and study hard all this week. We're going to play at Kezar Stadium next Sunday and the spectators there are quite familiar with this sport. I mean, they know all the rules and the fundamentals, and, golly, it would be embarrassing if we played like we did last Sunday.

"Remember, blocking and tackling are very important. . ."



THE OLD PALMER GLEE

THEY DIDN'T NEED UNITAS

Morrall, Colts Too Much For 49ers

BALTIMORE (UPI) — Last week the Baltimore Colts were 12 point favorites, for a while, to defeat the San Francisco 49ers.

That was before Johnny Unitas, the mighty Baltimore quarterback, was pronounced a doubtful starter because of tendonitis in his business elbow. This development caused the oddsmakers to take the game off the boards.

And so, with Earl Morrall subbing for Unitas, the Colts defeated the 49ers yesterday by 17 points, 27-10.

The Niners seek to lift their season mark to 1-1 next Sunday when the St. Louis Cardinals, not to be confused with the world champion baseball club, invade Kezar Stadium.

Of course, if the ball club subbed that afternoon for their NFL brethren, it might brighten the 49ers' prospects somewhat.

Despite a bad start in which San Francisco's Stan Hindman picked off a blocked pass and ran it in 25 yards for a score, the veteran Morrall clicked on 16 out of 31 tosses for 198 yards and two TD's.

Unitas did not even try to warm up and didn't need to. Morrall generally was in charge as he hit on scoring tosses of eight yards to Tom Mitchell and 16 to Jimmie Orr.

Just as in the days of other Forty Niner coaching regimes, the club did all its scoring in the first half and was shut out in the second as rookie mentor Dick Nolan devised strategy on the sidelines.

The only other San Francisco score was a 38 yard field goal by Tommy Davis in the second quarter after Baltimore had gone ahead, 14-7.

After Hindman gave San Francisco its brief lead, Tom Matte's one yard plunge and Lou Michaels' conversion tied the score. Morrall's eight yard pass to Mitchell sent Baltimore ahead for keeps in the second quarter.

Then in the third period, Morrall connected on his 16 yard scoring toss to Orr and Michaels added a 27 yard three-pointer. His 32-yard field goal closed out the scoring in the last period.

John Brodie, the pride and despair of Kezar Stadium fandom, gained 200 aerial yards with 23 completions on 43 tosses. But he was handicapped by dropped passes and threw three interceptions.

Californian Wins U.S. Surfing Title

PACIFIC BEACH, Calif. (AP) — David Nuuhiwa of Newport Beach, Calif., rode the waves to top honors in the National Champions Surf Meet.

The women competitors were paced by Margo Godfrey of Santa Barbara. Top-ranked in the next division were Steve Schlickenmeyer and Josette Lagardere, both of Hermosa Beach.

Kentfield Yachtsman Wins Star Class Title

It took a fifth yesterday to take a first.

That gave Blackaller 168 points in the series, good enough to edge Stig Wennerstrom of Gothenburg, Sweden, who wound up with 164 points.

Blackaller needed to guide his 22-foot sloop Good Grief to no worse than a fifth-place finish in the San Francisco and St. Francis Yacht Club co-sponsored race. He and crewman Gary Mull of Oakland did just that, but it wasn't easy.

They got off to a rough start, sitting in ninth place after rounding the first weather mark, then passed four competitors in the 11.2-mile course to clinch the title.

San Diego Toros Going For Title

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The San Diego Torros meet the Kansas City Spurs tonight for the Western Conference title in the North American Soccer League Playoffs.

The winner of tonight's game meets Atlanta, the Eastern Conference winner, for the league crown. The Spurs, champions in the Gulf Division, tied 1-1 in the opning playoff game with the Pacific Division champion Toros.

Giants Still Have Shot For Second

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Although it is not to their liking, the San Francisco Giants have confirmed what everyone suspected all along—the St. Louis Cardinals are the champions of the National League.

Cincinnati's 4-0 victory yesterday over the Giants, combined with the St. Louis triumph over Houston, mathematically eliminated second-place San Francisco with 12 games remaining.

"NEXT YEAR?"

While cries of "Wait until next year" ehco among Giants fans, the club now can concentrate on a second-place finish. Going into today's game with Cincinnati, the Giants were one

ANOTHER CROWN

Ray Leach Wins Norcal Golf Title

Ray Leach, the former Novato High School golf dandy headed for Brigham Young University, rose from the depths of what looked like a very deep sand trap to capture the Northern California Golf Association Amateur championship Saturday at Spyglass Hill in Pebble Beach, the course that makes grown men weep.

With a fat lead trickling away, hole by hole, Leach whipped a shot out of a 13th hole sandtrap and wound up hitting the pin. Instead of the expected bad lie, the ball sat six inches from the cup and Leach made the putt to halve the hole with onrushing Forrest Fexler. The 18-year-old Leach went on to win, 4 and 2.

Leach had lost two straight holes to Fezler, an 18-year-old sophomore at San Jose City College, but the miraculous recovery out of a sand trap lifted him into a sure thing.

"When I hit the pin, it changed everything," Leach said. "I told myself there was no way I could lose."

The two youngsters flew like birds over the legendary Spyglass course in the morning round, swapping birdies in the first half of the 36-hole tourney. Leach took command in the afternoon, winning the second hole with a birdie, the third with a par and the fourth with another birdie for a four-hole lead.

It was the first North Cal triumph for Leach, whose high school career is strung on a giant row of tourney trophies.

Chargers Cut Ex-Star Lowe

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Paul Lowe, the American Football League's player of the year in 1965, has been put on waivers by the San Diego Chargers.

Lowe, a nine-year veteran, is just 28 yards short of 5,000 yards gained as a Charger running back. In San Diego's 29-13 season opening victory over the Cincinnati Bengals Sept. 6, he carried once for a nine-yard gain.

There was no official comment from Charger management with the action announced yesterday.

game ahead of the third-place Reds.

San Francisco remained in the race when Willie Mays' two homers and four runs batted in, plus Bobby Bonds' three-run homer carried San Francisco to a 9-1 runaway over the Reds Saturday.

FOR QUEEN

George Culver, the last minute replacement for Mel Queen, narrowed the gap between the two contenders by limiting the Giants to four hits and lifting his record to 11-15 yesterday.

Left-hander Ray Sadecki, 12-17, absorbed the defeat as the Reds erupted with three runs in the seventh inning and capped the scoring off Rich Robertson in the ninth.

Second baseman Ron Hunt's error on Alex Johnson's grounder opened the Reds' seventh. Johnson went to third on Johnny Bench's single and scored on Tony Perez' double.

LINZY

Reliever Frank Linzy took over and Lee May was walked intentionally, Mack Jones, batting for rookie Hal Craig, then grounded a 2-2 pitch up the middle for a two-run single.

Robertson, an 18-game winner for Phoenix in the Pacific Coast League, had a rocky 1968 major league debut. The rangy right-hander worked the ninth inning, allowing a run on Perez' single, a wild pitch, a long fly and Woody Woodwards' squeeze bunt.

Oaks Begin Cage Drills

HAYWARD (AP) — The Oakland Oaks began preparations for the American Basketball Association's second season at Hayward State College today with high hopes — but without their potential great star.

Coach Alex Hannum welcomed 16 contract players and a few free agents yesterday with a warning that they must be in top condition for his fast break style.

"I expect to run your legs off," he said. "Your feet better be in good shape."

Rick Barry, National Basketball Association scoring champion two years ago who sat out his San Francisco Warriors' option last season, is expected in camp Sept. 30, when his NBA contract expires.

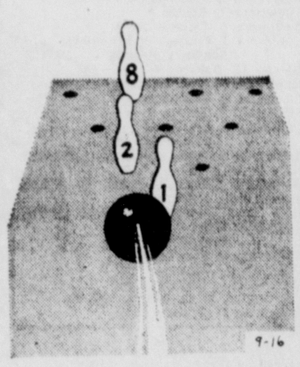
BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



When you leave the 1-2-8, your task must be to hit the "Brooklyn" side of the headpin, (see illustration). You need a glancing blow against the headpin and a fairly solid hit on the No. 2, so it will go straight back and bring down the No. 8. Adjust your starting position about two boards to the right, if you are a righthander.

Experts Say Floyd 'Robbed'

STOCKHOLM (UPI) — Most experts and fight fans today continue to call ex-world champion Floyd Patterson the real winner of Saturday's heavyweight title bout and world champion Jimmy Ellis appeared as a loser at a news conference.

Ellis showed up yesterday with dark glasses covering his bruised eyes, had seven stitches over his right eye, his face swollen, nose broken and left thumb injured.

While Swedish fight fans discussed the 15-round decision in favor of Ellis, Swedish newspaper headlines cried "Patterson was robbed," "Patterson was the real winner," "Patterson was cheated."

No one seems to understand the decision of the sole referee, Harold Valan of New York City, who had Ellis as winner in nine runds and Patterson in six.

Valan, escorted by six policemen, was widely booed when he left the ring.

Ellis defended his title for the first time. He won it by beating Jerry Quarry in the World Boxing Association's elimination tournament last April. He is considered as champion by most of American states while Joe Frazier of Philadelphia is recognized by five states.

2 Favorites In Olympic Trials 1,500

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE (AP)—Coming down the home stretch, his spot in today's 1,500-meter Olympic qualifying race assured, Dave Patrick saw his Villanova teammate Martin Liquori racing up on the outside.

"Come on, Marty, let's tie," Patrick said, and they almost did as Patrick won the semifinal heat by a slim margin with both runners timed in 3:48.8.

NOT IN FINALS

"But there's no tie in the final," Patrick said as he related the story after the race.

Patrick faces world record holder Jim Ryun in the final event on the eight-day program at these U.S. Olympic track and field trials.

Ryun won his heat yesterday in 3:53.0 and there was some speculation that perhaps Patrick might have made a strategic error by running so much faster than he needed to qualify and perhaps tiring himself for today's race.

Normally a stretch finisher who says back until the last lap, Patrick set the early pace in his semifinal before falling back and then coming up to take the lead in the final backstretch.

"I got the pace and I thought I'd keep it for a little while," Patrick, the collegiate 1,500-meter champion, said. "I ran hard today, harder than I wanted to."

Ryun, still running as if he'd forgotten all about his losing performance in the 800-meter finals earlier in the week, made a travesty of his semifinal, running last in the tightly bunched pack until the final backstretch.

Then, in less time than it takes to tell the story, he was in front by a comfortable margin, slowing down at the end while looking over his shoulder so he shouldn't waste any energy.

"I felt pretty good today," the Kansas senior said. "I didn't feel like I had to work that hard and I don't think the other guys did either. All I wanted to do was get in. Everybody else started to move and I thought I'd better move too."

IN THE RACE

If Ryun and Patrick are the favorites to battle for the victory and the first two places on the 1,500-meter squad, the 19-year-old Liquori, a Villanova sophomore, showed that he should be counted very much in the race for the third spot.

The other qualifiers for the final were Roscoe Divine and Dave Wilborn of Oregon, Tom Von Ruden of the U.S. Army, Sam Bair of Kent State and John Mason of Fort Hayes, Kan., State.

KEMPER OPEN TRIUMPH

It Looks Like The Arnie Of Old

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Arnold Palmer can relax. He's pro golf's first official millionaire—and he's also out of a slump.

Palmer pushed his official PGA earnings over the $1 million mark as he won the $150,000 Kemper Open with one of his old-time charges yesterday at the Pleasant Valley Country Club.

A veteran of 14 years on the tour, Palmer later was asked how it felt to become a millionaire by playing golf. He replied with a big laugh.

"It feels great—certainly one of the greatest thrills of my life," he said. "Actually, I went over the $1 million mark some time last year. Now its nice to have it official. For a while there this year I didn't know if I could make it."

Palmer, who was 39 last Tuesday, earned $938,515.22 in official money on the PGA tour through last year. He has added $110,377.57 this season, but some is isted as unofficial—such as money picked up in play outside PGA jurisdiction.

The old warhorse, accompanied by an increased Arnie's Army in a huge crowd of 39,300, started the final round three strokes off the pace. It was apparent that it was to be his day. He had an eagle 3 on the second hole. Sinking a six-foot putt.

He went on to add five birdies, more than offsetting a pair of bogeys, and finished with a five-under-par 67 and a 72-hole total of 276, 12 strokes under regulation.

The victory, worth $30,000, was Palmer's 53rd championship, but only his second this year. He won the Bob Hope Classic in February before going into his slump.

"I kind of felt like myself again," he said after leading Australian Bruce Crampton and veteran Art Wall by four strokes.

"I felt better in the last two rounds than I have in a long time," he said. "I felt better both mentally and physically. I got a little relief this week. I got a few things off my mind."

He referred to his announcement after Thursday's second round that he will support the new American Professional Golfers in the dispute with the PGA over tournament control.

Crampton, who had a closing 73 after trailing by one stroke after 54 holes, and Wall, who finished with a 70, both collected $14,625.

Orville Moody, 34, a pro rookie on the tour who led with 206 starting the final day, and unheralded John Lively tied for fourth at 281, earning $6,975 apiece. Another stroke back were Dow Finsterwald, Al Geiberger, Phil Rodgers and Doug Sanders.

MAGIC NUMBER IS TWO

Tigers Bomb A's, Close In On Flag

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Watching the Detroit pitching staff in action for the last two weeks could give a hitter an inferiority complex. But Jim Northrup, Bill Freehan and Willie Horton took care of that little problem in a hurry.

While Mickey Lolich was stretching the Tigers' complete game string to nine games with a three-hitter, Northrup and Freehan walloped two omers each and Horton hit one in Detroit's 13-0 romp over Oakland yesterday.

The victory, combined with Baltimore's 2-0 loss at Cleveland, cut Detroit's magic number for clinching the American League pennant to two. The end could come tonight if the Tigers beat New York and the Orioles lose in Boston.

In other American League action yesttrday, the Yankees stretched their winning streak to 10—highest in the majors this season—with a 3-2 decision over Washington, Minnesota shaded Boston 3-2 and California topped Chicago 4-1.

The Tigers, who have won six straight, haven't used a relief pitcher since Sept. 4 and Lolich gave the bullpen another day off. The left-hander struck out 12 and ran his record to 15-9.

It was Lolich's second complete game in the Tiger staff's string. Denny McLain, who won his 30th game Saturday, has three, Earl Wilson has two and John Hiller and Pat Dobson one each.

Northrup tagged a two-run shot in the first inning and Horton followed with his 36th of the season. Freehan had two-run homers in the third and fifth, raising his season's total to 24. Northrup's second of the game and 19th of the season touched off a four-run Tiger sixth.

The Yankees bunched three runs in the fourth inning and hung on to nip the Senators for their 10th straight.

Fritz Peterson won his sixth straight with late-inning help from Lindy McDaniel. Tom Tresh singled and scored on Mickey Mantle's double in the fourth. Then singles by Joe Pepitone and Ellie Rodriguez drove in two more. Home runs by Ken McMullen and Tim Cullen accounted for Washington's runs.

Stan Williams threw a four-hitter at the Orioles and left Baltimore 10½ games behind Detroit with only 11 to play.

Max Alvis homered for the Indians.

Bob Allison, who had homered earlier, drove in Minnesota's winning run with a ninth inning double as the Twins nipped the Red Sox.

Cesar Tovar singled and stole second before Allison delivered. Rookie Gerry Moses slammed a two-run homer for Boston.

California's Andy Messersmith beat Chicago on just four hits with the Angels packing 10 singles and all their runs into the first five innings.

Singles by Jarvis Tatum, Bobby Knoop and Jim Spencer and a sacrifice fly by Bob Rogers gave the Angels two runs in the fourth and three singles and an error by Ken Barry produced two more in the fifth.

AFL HIGHLIGHTS

Bengals Surprise Denver In Opener

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Buffalo Bills have ended Coach Joe Collier's losing streak at two games and the Cincinnati Bengals have stopped Coach Paul Brown's at one, but only Brown is celebrating.

"Here's to one in a row," Brown said, toasting a soft drink to Cincinnati's 24-10 victory over Denver yesterday, his first in the American Football League after losing his debut last week.

Collier, however, had little to be happy about after the Bills were trounced by Oakland 48-6, their second but last 1968 loss under Collier, who was fired after the game.

In the only other AFL contest, Joe Namath did the firing for the New York Jets and they upset Kansas City 20-19.

Cincinnati's victory meant more than just a 1-1 record for Brown, who left pro football five years ago after a glorious career leading Cleveland of the NFL. His expansion Bengals won two exhibition games, but yesterday's upset was the real thing.

Brown took a chance to get it. With his club on its own 46 yard line, fourth down and inches to go in a tie game in the fourth quarter, he went for the first down and fullback Tom Smiley got it.

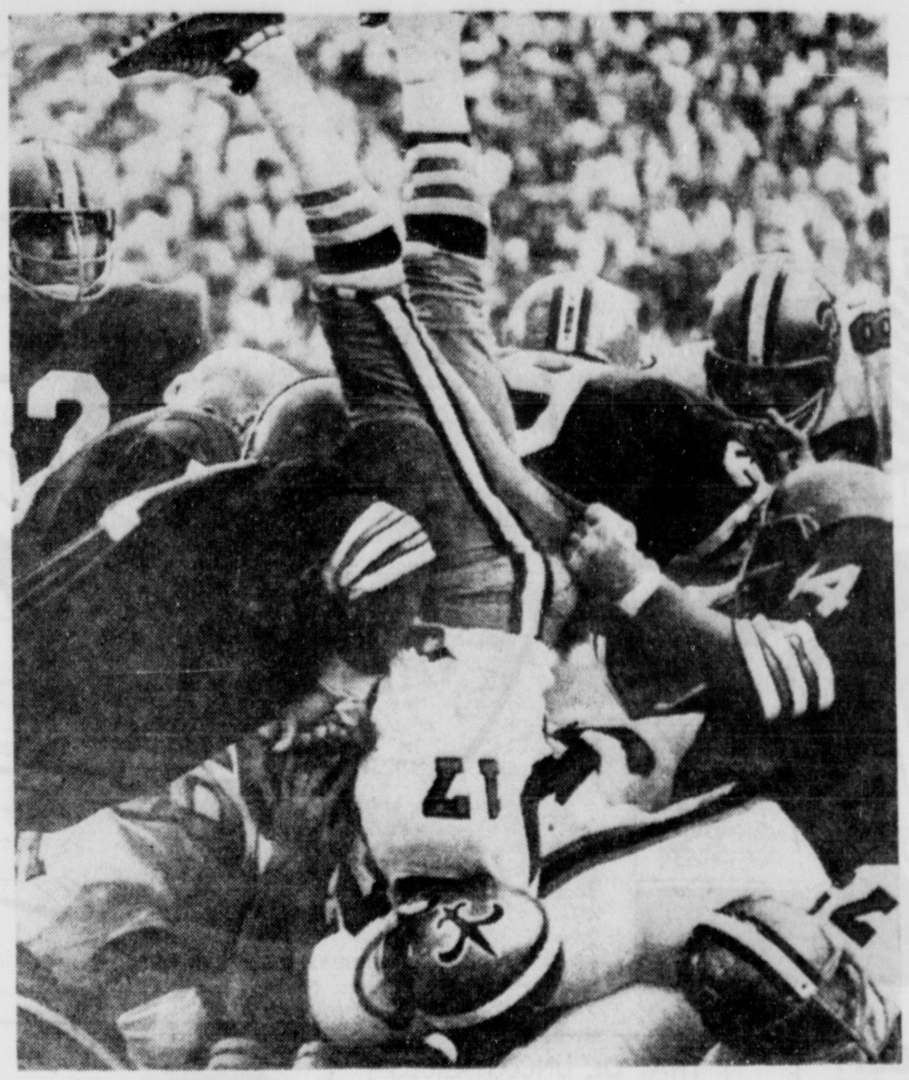
On the next play, John Stofa connected on his second long touchdown pass, a 54-yard heave to Warren McVea. Essex Johnson added an insurance touchdown with 2:53 left, slipping 34 yards into the end zone.

Namath tossed 57 and 30 yards to Don Maynard for two first half touchdowns and Turner added a 22-yard field goal and then the clincher, a 42-yarder in the final quarter that made the score 20-16.

The high-powered Chiefs were able to score only on Noland Smith's 80-yard punt return and Jan Stenerud's four field goals, giving him 8-for-8 this season.

But after Stenerud' last kick, jnamath started from his own four and passed the jets out of trouble as they ate up the rest of the time.

Namath finished with 17 completions in 29 tries for 302 yards and Maynard grabbed eight for 203 yards.



A SAINT BREAKS IN — New Orleans Saints quarterback Bill Kilmer (17) is hit from the front by Cleveland Browns 275-pound Walter Johnson and held down by Clevepound Bill Sabatino, but still makes it upside down into the end zone on a keeper play. (AP Wirephoto)

It's Time To Stop Wasting Sympathy On Phil Bengtson

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

It's time to stop wasting sympathy on Phil Bengtson and to start saving some of it for Earl Morrall.

Bengtson started the 49th National Football League season with an almost impossible task, replacing Vince Lombardi as head coach of the Green Bay Packers. But Bengtson, the guy who'll get the blame if the Packers don't win it all again, didn't seem to have any problems when Green Bay opened yesterday against the Philadelphia Eagles.

FAVORED

The Packers were 17-point favorites—and drubbed the Philadelphia Eagles, 30-13.

Meanwhile, Morrall—a 12-year veteran of five NFL teams—found himself with another unenviable ask yesterday, replacing the injured John Unitas as head quarterback of the Baltimore Colts.

Morrall tossed two TD passes and guided the Colts to a 27-10 victory over the San Francisco 49ers — and Unitas wasn't missed at all.

In the meantime, if the Colts lose any games before Unitas returns, Morrall will be blamed for the failure since Unitas guided the club to an 11-1-2 mark last season.

FAVORITES WIN

The favorites also prevailed in three of the other four games yesterday. The Dallas Cowboys, heavily favored to win the Eastern title again, drubbed Detroit, 59-13, Cleveland edged New Orleans, 24-10, and New York whipped Pittsburgh, 34-20. In the only surprise, Washington stunned Chicago, 38-28, as Sonny Jurgensen picked up where he left off last year after sitting out most of the exhibition season with an injury.

The NFL's 49th season began Saturday night with Minnesota's 47-7 rout of Atlanta and the first weekend closes tonight when the Los Angeles Rams are at St. Louis in a nationally televised game.

The Packers, who weren't too impressive when they lost two exhibition games, had the old Lombardi touch in the first game for real under Bengtson. Bart Starr hit on 14 of 18 passes for 230 yards and two first half touchdowns. And a 50-yard kickoff return by Herb Adderley, Bob Jeter's interception and rookie Francis Winkler's recovery of an Eagle onside kick kept the Packers rolling.

Don Meredith hit on 16 of 19 passes for 228 yards and two TDs as the Cowboys bombed Detroit, which had to use rookie Greg Landry at quarterback because Bill Munson is injured.

Jurgensen flipped four TD passes—including one for 99 yards—as the Redskins blasted the Bears. Jurgensen tossed three of the TD passes to Pat Richter and the 99-yard record-tying throw went to Gerry Allen.

NFL rushing champion Leroy Kelly scored two TDs, the second with 1:50 left in the game, to pace Cleveland past New Orleans. Thirty seconds after Kelly's second TD, Bill Glass dashed 17 yards with an intercepted pass for a TD that wrapped it up.

McLain Looks Ahead To Instant Riches

DETROIT (AP) — Denny McLain of the Detroit Tigers has his name in baseball's record books and a quarter-of-a-million dollars on the way to his bank book-two items which undoubtedly make it difficult to locate any reason for an encore.

But there still are two targets for McLain: The $100,000 salary or more—which he insists he will get from the Tigers and the opportunity to become the first pitcher in half-a-century to win as many as 33 games.

The 24-year-old Tiger right-hander, also known for his organ music, became the first 30-game winner in the majors since Dizzy Dean in 1934 when he defeated the Oakland A's 5-4 Saturday.

But McLain admittedly wasn't only shooting for the record books against the A's. According to his agent, Frank Scott, some $200,000 in endorsements awaited victory No. 30, and McLain himself put his stamp on a $100,000 salary.

McLain, who is being paid an estimated $35,000, said before he went out to pitch, "I want $100,000 and that's what I'm going to get. I don't care if they (the Tigers) care about me saying it. And I'm not saying I'm stopping at $100,000.

"I didn't say $100,000 isn't much today."

According to Manager Mayo Smith, McLain probably will get three more starts before the end of the regular season and, therefore, can reach as high as 33 victories.

No pitcher has been able to put together that many since Grover Alexander of Philadelphia in 1916.

Meanwhile, McLain will just have to be content with what he has, the estimated $200,000 according to Scott.

McLain admittedly was under pressure in the days leading up to his shot at No. 30 and there was the added wrinkle of producing before a national television audience.

He disclaimed any tenseness or any buildup of pressure when he came to the ball park Saturday just over two hours before the start of the game. But he was hiding behind a self-imposed front.

It had been a hectic two days at his home. The phone kept ringing, the music kept playing—an all thorughout McLain tried to use the press of business and his organ as instruments of relaxation.

"With all that going on I really didn't have too much time to think," McLain said after No. 30 was in the books. "But then it would just pop into my head."

It was an admission he wouldn't make prior to the game, acting completely nonchalant as he talked in the dressing room with newsmen. At the same time, he left no doubt he only wanted to be faced with the prospect once, saying:

"I'd like to get it over with. It's like climbing up a hill and being just a couple of inches away. You want to make it the rest of the way."

With that in mind he went to the mound. It wasn't a strong performance-he allowed two homers and trailed 4-3 going into the bottom of the ninth-but a two-run ninth inning rally by the pennant-bound Tigers pulled the game out and it was all over.

Three Grid Shutouts For Kids

Redwood, Terra Linda and Drake kept their opponents out of the end zone while rolling up king-sized junior victories.

Drake quarterback Mac Ausland passed for two touchdowns and John Cook scored on a 70-yard fumble recovery to highlight the final game of the night.

Carol Mann Wins Ninth

CALDWELL, Idaho (AP) — Carol Mann shot a 69 yesterday to make the Englehorn Invitational her ninth tournament victory of the year in the Ladies Professional Golf Association.

Her 54-hole total of 208 was five strokes better than runner-up Gloria Ehret of Danbury, Conn.

Miss Mann, Cincinnati, collected $1,725. That boosted her 1968 winnings to $38,257.50, tops on the tour.

Sharon Miller, Battle Creek, Mich., skidded through the final 18 holes with a four-over-par 75 to finish in a tie for third with Sandra Haynie, Fort Worth, Tex., at 214. Miss Miller had been tied for the lead after two rounds.

WHAT'S THE STORY ON CAIN'S $47.00 BRAKE JOB??

This is a question we are asked every day. I feel that those who are asking expect some kind of gimmick. Let me say this—there is no gimmick and no extra charges. You can't get a better or more complete brake job—I don't care if you spend $80 to $100.

Here is what we do:

1. We completely clean the entire brake system and all springs and parts involved (even the high priced jobs seldom do this).
2. We turn Drums on Every job.
3. We buy the best power brake lining oversized—then we arch the shoes to fit the drums. (This a mark of a real quality job—and most brake shops just don't take the time to do it.)
4. Rebuild All cylinders.
5. Service self-adjusting systems.
6. Set hand brake.
7. Inspect lines and add fluid.
8. Adjust brake pedal for proper feel.
9. Road test.
10. Then we pack it and wait for you to pay us $47.00 plus Sales Tax.

AND THAT'S IT!!

The moon is between the last quarter and new phase. The morning star is Mars. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1630, the Massachusetts village of Shawmut changed its name to Boston.

In 1893, the Cherokee strip in Oklahoma was opened to homesteaders. More than 100,000 persons rushed to claim land.

In 1920, 30 persons were killed and at least 100 injured in a bomb explosion on New York's Wall Street.

In 1963, the Asian nation of Malaysia was established.

A thought for the day — Mark Twain, said, "There are several good protections against temptations, but the surest is cowardice."

Young Experts Reach Difficult Slam With Only 25 Points in All

Most experienced players can bid a slam when they hold 33 or more of the 40 high-card points in the deck. Very few can bid the kind of slam that depends on holding the right singleton, with only 25 points, as in the hand shown today.

BIDS SLAM

New York experts Steve Altman and Mike Becker bid the slam because they had the important bidding weapon: a bid that guarantees a strong raise plus a specified singleton. The slam put the two 24-year-old experts into the finals of the national team championship in Minneapolis last month.

Becker's jump to four diamonds promised strong heart support (usually at least four to the queen) together with a singleton diamond and about 10 to 13 points in high cards. (With a singleton club Becker would have bid four clubs.)

Altman could expect to ruff two or three low diamonds in the dummy so that a slam was a near-certainty if his partner had an ace. Altman used the Blackwood Convention by bidding four notrump, discovering from the response of five diamonds that his partner had one ace. Altman then went right to six hearts.

NO PROBLEM

There was no problem in the play of the cards since West's opening lead gave the defenders their only trick. Altman could draw two rounds of trumps and still ruff his remaining diamonds in the dummy.

If Altman had held two little spades and four diamonds to the king he would have stayed out of slam by bidding four hearts over four diamonds. It would be clear to him that his king of diamonds was useless and that there weren't enough top cards in the black suits to warrant a slam try.

UNUSUAL JUMP

The important feature of the "unusual jump to show a singleton" is that it permits the opening bidder to judge whether or not his partner has the "right" singleton. If the hands don't fit, the opener can stop safely at game.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with one heart, and the next player passes. You hold:

♥—7
♦—A Q 10 6 5
♣—J 7 6

What do you say?

Answer: Bid 1-no trump.

The hand is not strong enough for a response of two diamonds, and the spade suit is too weak for a bid (except in certain very cautious partnerships). If partner opened with one spade (instead of one heart) you would bid two diamonds, intending to show your spade support at the next turn.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Planning Investment Toward Retirement

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. What investments would you advise for a person who wants to accumulate as much capital as possible toward retirement in 13 years? I can invest $1,000 now and $200 a month regularly. — P.F.

A. Rather than choose speculative ventures for a "fast dollar" — which seldom work out that way — you would be well advised to pick sound issues in industries that should accelerate faster than the economy.

There is little doubt that one such area is home construction. There is, however, some doubt as to when this boom will begin to be felt. The increase in housing starting in July is encouraging, but I would not expect any real building upsurge before the early part of 1969. However, a commitment now in anticipation of a boom would be wise.

I like U.S. Gypsum for its involvement in two areas of urgent need — home building and urban renewal. In an imaginative program with John Hancock, buildings in structurally sound condition are being rehabilitated using, insofar as possible, company products.

My second selection for you is Textron, a conservative participant in the conglomerate revolution. The maintenance of a 15 per cent pretax growth rate in earnings is one of the company's aims, with internal growth being as important as expansion through acquisition.

Q. I am a conservative facing retirement in 1970. At that time I will have $210,000 to invest for monthly income. What type of fund best suits my purpose? — M.S.

A. In the last 10 years — predominantly a rising market — growth funds were ahead of other types. The use of capital to meet withdrawal requirements was more than made up by appreciation over the period.

Your best course is in diversification using funds, bonds and common and preferred stock. Careful and individual estate planning by an expert is required in your case.

Mattel Reports Earnings Increase

HAWTHORNE (BW) — Mattel, Inc. has reported a 64 per cent increase in earnings per share on a 39 per cent rise in sales for the six month period ended Aug. 3.

Net earnings for the first six months rose to $2,303,000, or 41 cents a share, compared with $1,350,000 or 25 cents a share for the same period last year. Sales in the first half increased to $73,398,000 from $52,740,000 a year ago.

FORD RANCHERO

Five new engines highlight Ford's pickup styles. A larger six-cylinder 250-cubic-inch engine is standard on the Ranchero and Ranchero 500. A 302-cubic-inch V-8 is standard on the Ranchero GT. Available as an option on all models is the 390-cubic-inch four-barrel V-8. Rancheros and other Ford trucks will be on sale Sept. 26 at L. J. Dervin Ford Co., Novato; J and B Ford Sales, Corte Madera, and Ames Ford Sales, San Rafael.

PLYMOUTH'S ECONOMY COMPACT

Valiant this year offers new comfort and interior styling in its four models of both Signet and 100, which have been refined inside and out. Both the standard 17-cubic-inch and optional 225-cubic-inch six-cylinder engines have been improved for greater gasoline mileage. Valiants will be on sale Thursday at Doug Dicker Chrysler-Plymouth, Corte Madera, and Novato Chrysler-Plymouth-Toyota, Novato.

Manual Tells Building Cost

MILWAUKEE (BW) — The American Appraisal Co. has published three volumes giving "instant" building costs for any type of structure.

The world's oldest and largest appraiser said that after more than a year of feeding its computer with some 5,000 building component costs, gleaned from some 70 years of experience, it has published what it terms "the most compreshensive array of building cost data ever assembled on paper."

The new manual reports cost data for 164 areas in all 50 states and Canada ranging from single family homes and huge office buildings to manufacturing complexes.

The three volumes cover residential and agricultural valuations; commercial; and industrial and institutional building valuations.

Hyatt Acquiring More Restaurants

BURLINGAME (BW) — An agreement to merge Du-Par's Restaurants into Hyatt Corp. has been announced by executives of both companies.

The merger involves the exchange of an undisclosed number of shares of Hyatt common stock for the business and assets of Du-Par's, a privately held chain of eight restaurants and bakeries in the Los Angeles metropolitan area.

Market Has Strong Gain; Active

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market closed with a fairly strong gain in active trading today.

In late trading some of the early advance faded.

The market opened mixed but quickly moved ahead, continuing the rally that got underway Friday.

Motors, mail order-retails, farm implements, nonferrous metals, airlines and building materials paced the upward move.

Changes of most key issues were fractional but a few ranged to 2 points or more.

Several big blocks crossed the tape, including 200,000 shares of American Smelting, 158,600 of INA and 101,300 of Jersey Standard. American Smelting advanced about 2½ points, INA was unchanged, and Jersey Standard dropped about a point.

Motors were strong with General Motors ahead 2 points and Chrysler up more than a point.

Mail order-retails, farm implements and rails also were mostly higher. Aircrafts and drugs declined

Prices advanced on the American Stock Exchange.

Sawmill To Be Built In Southeast Alaska

NEW YORK — U.S. Plywood-Champion Papers, Inc., plans to constuct a forest products plant in Southeast Alaska at a cost of approximately $75 million.

The company contemplates buidling an unbleached pulp mill with a capacity of about 600 tons daily and a modern sawmill. More than 600 people would be employed in the operation.

FEDERAL OUTLAY

Heavy Spending In Transportation

NEW YORK (BW) — The federal government in 1968 alone will have invested in roads and highways a sum greater than the existing investments from all sources in mass transportation, under secretary of transportation John E. Robson reported at a recent transportation forum.

The expenditure of $15 billion for urban mass transportation facilities over the next decade will be vital for the economic health of all of us, Robson said.

Alfred J. Coyle, chairman of Hayden, Stone, Inc. the investment firm, pointed out that the requirements of mass transportation have been neglected in recent years.

Between 1895 and 1902, he stated $3.5 billion were invested in privately owned transit facilities, about the same amount spent on jet airliners between 1958 and 1965.

Despite the growth of population and transit requirements, the total investment in transit facilities today is only $3.5 billion, he said.

Robson pointed out that a regional approach is the only solution to mass transportation problems in the cities and states. By 1985 the number of persons living within commuting distance of New York will be up by 6,000,000, and highways will simply not be able to accommodate this upsurge in population.

Edwin E. Meissner Jr., senior vice president of General Steel Industries, stated that the optimum solution for today's rapid transit problems lies not in monorails, air cushion vehicles, pneumatic tube systems, or outer space age, science fiction concepts.

The solution for today's urban transportation problems is a system that exists today — the stell flanged wheel rolling swiftly, efficently and economically along the steel rail.

Encyclopedia Firm Buys Publishers

CHICAGO (BW) — Encyclopedia Britannica, Inc. has announced its purchase of "a substantial minority share" of the Weidenfled Group of Publishers, London.

The Weidenfeld Group has as its principal component, Weidenfeld and Nicolson which is generally considered the most successful of the post-war crop of British publishing houses.

Theater Firm To Be Merged

NEW YORK (AP) — Loew's Theaters, Inc., and the Lorillard Corp. have announced that their boards of directors have approved in principle the merger of the two companies.

Discussions between the theater chain and the tobacco company resulted in revised terms for the merger, the announcement said.

Under these terms, the owner of each Lorillard common share would receive a 25-year subordinated debenture of Loew's. The principal amount of each debenture is $62. It bears interest at 6⅞ per cent.

Also, each Lorillard share would receive one-third of a 12-year Loew's warrant. This warrant allows the holder to purchase a share of Loew's common stock for $105 during the first four years. During the next four years the price would be $112.50. And in the final four years of the warrant, $120.
